DOUBLE SHIFT OR TRAILERS?

Village Gets Better Traffic Safety Rating

Arlington Heights' traffic safety program showed a marked improvement in 1964, according to the just-released traffic inventory prepared by the National Safety Council.

The village was given a 59 per cent over-all traffic safety rating, compared with a 43 per cent rating in 1963.

A 100 per cent rating would place Arlington among the top 30 cities in the 25,000 to 50,000 population category. Competing in the ratings were 189 cities in that size bracket.

The safety profile indicated improvements in accident record keeping, traffic engineering, school safety education and public safety education. The village's standing slipped in deaths and injuries and showed a slight decline in police traffic supervision.

ARLINGTON enjoyed a 100 per cent rating in death and injury records in 1963, when no deaths were reported. That plummeted to 25 per cent in 1964; there were two traffic deaths.

(The death rate here — 5.5 per 100,000 population and 1 per 10,000 registered vehicles—was still below the national average of 10.1 per 100,000 people and 2 per 10,000 registered vehicles.)

Record keeping on accidents was rated at 87 per cent, compared with 77 per cent in 1963. The analysis indicated improvement in the availability of accident records for engineering and enforcement use.

ENGINEERING, rated 64 per cent in 1963, was given a 71 per cent mark last year. Specific engineering improvements recommended were:

1) A study to determine the need for added staff, surveys and investigations by the engineering department.

2) More pavement markings, particularly on major thoroughfares.

POLICE BIKE auction will open in Arlington Heights Monday for 40 abandoned two-wheelers. Sgt. Joseph Ostermann and Stewart M. Grant, village finance director, hang number tags on the bikes which will be on sale. Bidders will be asked to submit written proposals, listing the number of the bike bid on. Bidding closes 1 p.m. Aug. 27. Owners may still claim bikes if they have some proof of ownership. (Staff photo)

School Board Must Choose

Greenbrier School will open as planned Sept. 7 with six double-shift classes.

But the board of education Monday kept the door pen to requests by three civic associations that mobile classrooms be purchased to eliminate double shifting. School directors asked Supt. R. E. Clabaugh, based on first week enrollments, to prepare new enrollment projections through the 1967-1968 school year for all schools north of Palatine Road.

The board is expected to act on the mobile class proposal after Clabaugh's Sept. 13 report.

SPOKESMEN for the associations in Greenbrier, Ivy Hill and Pinegate, and about a dozen other residents appeared at Monday's meeting where Clabaugh suggested a further study

The residents used words like "unacceptable," "intolerable," and "all shook up" to describe their reactions to double shifting.

They remained upset despite assurances from Clabaugh that shifting is not as bad as commonly thought.

To cope with unexpected enrollment increases, the board last month approved double shifts for first and second graders at Greenbirer. The three groups subsequently met, agreed to request mobile units and further agreed against mass protests or unpleasantries, spokesmen said.

AFTER HEARING THEIR requests, Clabaugh prepared a three-page report for the board Monday, but it did not recommend for or against mobile classes. Because September enrollments could upset his current projections, the board asked Clabaugh for a new version after school starts, analyzing attendance figures by class, providing specific costs on mobile units and suggesting other alternatives.

In his first report, Clabaugh projected the classroom need north of Palatine Rd. at 15 next June (12 exist now), 22 in June of 1967 and 27 in June of 1968. By contrast, there will still be 12 next June, there will be 19 in June 1967 and 25 in June 1968, reflecting a persistent shortage of two to three rooms.

The current building program includes a school in Ivy Hill; the second phase scheduled for completion in the 1967-1968 school year includes an addition at Greenbrier. Together, they account for the planned, but probably inadequate increase.

Clabaugh suggested, in his report, however, that eight-room additions currently being built a Patton and Olive schools might be able to take excess from Greenbrier and Ivy Hill for a year or two.

CLABAUGH TOLD residents that bonding power is limited by state law, that current building funds are committed and that the next building referendum probably will be submitted to voters in a year and a half.

The superintendent estimate cost of three mobile classes at $30,000 without furniture and said depreciation would amount to 40 per cent after three years. That means the units probably net cost to the district of $4,000 a year.

He said the double shifting will involve two four-hour sessions daily for first and second graders. The arrangement eliminates one recess period. But it also gives teachers more preparation time, he noted. The normal school day is five hours.

THE AFFECT on voters of using mobile rooms should be taken into account by the board, Clabaugh suggested. He indicated some voters might rationalize a "no" vote on future building referendums if mobile classes are substituted for double shifting.

Several board members, and Clabaugh, noted their children had attended double sessions, a near constant feature of the 1950's. Last double sessions were held during part on 1961 at Windsor School.

Accident Rate Tied To Signs

Yield signs would disappear from Arlington Heights if Trustee LeRoy A. Bressler had his wish, he told the village board Monday.

He cited a rise in auto accidents to 449 as of July, compared to 313 in the same time last year, and noted that arrests for failure to yield the right of way had gone up too.

The village might have had its first fatality this year, Bressler asserted, when a car was struck broadside in an accident at Yale and Sigwalt. Failure to obey the yield sign was its cause, he stated.

BRESSLER'S comments brought partial agreement from Trustee John White and a suggestion by Trustee Jack Walsh that a copy of the traffic report and Bressler's comments be sent to the safety commission chairman.

White said he agreed with Bressler's "anti-yield-sign" stand but couldn't correlate the auto accident rise with failure-to-yield arrests. He pointed out that such arrests could also occur at unmarked corners without traffic signs.

Walsh said he had represented the village at a traffic safety luncheon last week. The village's annual 1965 traffic inventory analysis, prepared by the National Safety Council, was received there. (See separate story).

WALSH SAID that at the luncheon it was pointed out that there are two specific steps the village can take to improve its traffic safety record:

—Increase the police force until there is one officer for every 1,000 persons in the village. Walsh said this "represents a budgetary problem" that the village would have to solve.

—Utilize the safety commis-

Federal School Programs Studied

Arlington Heights' elementary school board Monday authorized the administration to continue study of its possible participation under the new federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

It asked Supt. R. E. Clabaugh to continue meetings with other area administrators leading to special programs for children in low income families, under Title I of the act.

And it authorized him to continue reviewing potentials of Title III, which provides for creation of supplemental educational centers and services — educational innovations a district normally would not try because of their cost.

DISCUSSION OF Clabaugh's report on the new act was brief and involved none of the philosophical musings about federal aid which have dominated High School District 214 discussion of the act. The superintendent did point out, however, "there is no involvement of the federal government in the administration of the schools as a result of this legislation."

Aid under title Title I is based on the number of families living within the district with an annual income of less than $3,000 a year and is designed to help districts meet the needs of disadvantaged children. Clabaugh said the Arlington Area Curriculum Council, composed of administrators of districts feeding into District 214, has been meeting to discuss potential area-wide programs.

Merit of Title III aid, Clabaugh said, is that the funds "are available only for districts to do what they have not attempted before. The task of financing the on-going program still remains the responsibility of the local district and state."

A POTENTIAL project, he noted, was use of closed circuit television at all junior high schools (a more limited TV program will be started at Miner this year). However, the superintendent said "guidelines" for use of Title III released by the state department of public instruction only Monday made him pessimistic about Arlington's eligibility for the funds.

(District 214 is less than optimistic about its $2.8 million proposal under this title. See separate story — inside.)

The guidelines state the supplemental educational centers must not be primarily for strengthening one district alone. Further, the Illinois allotment will total only $5 million, and the state expects to allocate it among 12 to 18 regional centers in addition to Chicago.

CLABAUGH NOTED the district may be entitled to some funds under the act's Title II, set up to assist schools in purchase of library resources, texts and materials.

One request for federal aid was approved by the board Monday — under the six-year-old National Defense Education Act.

Items in the request include projectors, recorders, lab equipment, books and teacher aids. NDEA funds will provide half of the $35,634 equipment purchases for use in language, math, science, English, history, civics and geography programs.

The district applied for $9,767 in NDEA funds last year.

Coronets Win First At State Fair Contest

The Coronets, Arlington High School's girls drill team, won top honors at the Illinois State Fair in Springfield Sunday.

The 48 Arlington Heights girls competed against 10 other teams in the fair "Veterans Day" contest. They took second in the state fair competition last year.

Judged on a 100 point basis, the precision drill team scored 90.8. Second went to the Hillcrest Lassies from Stone City, Ill., who received 88.9 points.

COMMENTING on the Coronets' performance, the general effects judge said he "would rate the show as excellent throughout. All positions seem to be working well together. In general, nicely executed drill, nicely written."

Captains of the drill team are Ruth Dougan and Cindy Karkula, both juniors at Arlington High. Color guard sgt. is Sandy Snyder, a senior this fall. Director is Mrs. Lynn Chapin, a physical education teacher at Arlington.

They are sponsored by Arlington VFW 918.

THIS WEEK the Coronets are entering the national VFW competition in Chicago.

The girls have been practicing four nights a week, 7-8:30 p.m., all summer. During the school year they use half their physical education periods for drill practice.

Attendance Dives At Community Pools

Swimming pool attendance in Arlington Heights has taken a belly flop this year, despite a few peak days in hot weather.

Park district records indicate 136,395 admissions to the pools at Pioneer and Recreation parks during June and July. Attendance in the same two months last year was 183,916.

WHEN SEVERAL park commissioners hitched eyebrows at the figures during last week's park board meeting, Park Supt. Thomas Thornton waded into the conversation with some possible explanations:

1) Cool weather. Low temperatures have held down attendance for several years, he noted. Attendance was better in July, compared to last year, than it was in June.

2) Inconvenience of location. Though the village is growing, Thornton indicated, most growth is in areas distant from the two pools.

"WE'RE SERVING a certain part of the population . . . in the areas around major parks where our recreation program is concentrated," Thornton said, noting slippage in other activity enrollments. "They're not convenient to many people."

3) Pool design. Existing pools don't lend themselves to family enjoyment as beaches do, the park superintendent asserted.

Rather, they have a "prison-like" atmosphere where persons pass through gates and into a swimming area surrounded by a high fence. Thornton said he'd like to see "more imagination" in the design of future pak pools, to encourage adult and family use.

THORNTON indicated part of the decline in sales of individual activity passes could be attributed to increased sales of family activities passes. The big $25 passes permit the family to take part in all park activities, including swimming.

Sales of $25 passes jumped from 682 last year to 770. At the same time, family swimming pass sales ($15) declined from 1,551 to 1,392, adult passes from 252 to 216, children's passes from 1,161 to 1,018 and wader passes from 143 to 119. Late sales for most swim passes also trail last year's figures.

Total for all activity pass sales this year is 3,356, compared with 3,588 last year. Revenue from the activity passes is $9,456. Last year it was $9,503.

Golfers Lose

Burglary of $620 in golfing equipment was reported to Arlington Heights police Sunday by Robert E. Allen, 131 N. Gibbons Ave.

Allen said his and his wife's clubs and other equipment were taken between 1 and 9 a.m. They had been stored in a garage. Entry was gained through an unlocked door.

Thieves Busy

A rash of four attempts to enter coin operated soft drink machines was reported at Arlington Heights service stations early last Friday. Only one was successful. A machine at State & Central Shell Service, 934 S. State Road, was broken into, but there was no estimate of loss.

Rand Apartment Plan Still Not Satisfactory

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission made another date last Wednesday with developer Joseph Bernstein after ruling on the unit density of his proposed apartment complex at Rand and Camp McDonald roads.

The commission limited the apartment development to 420 units, by ruling that the peripheral streets and the equivalent of one 66-foot-wide thoroughfare be deducted in figuring permitted density of the planned development.

Bernstein and his associates had originally proposed at the commission's Aug. 4 meeting, that the interior streets be included in figuring density.

THEY CAME TO last Wednesday's meeting with a modified proposal that would have provided no roadway connection to two of the 13 apartment buildings. The modification did not meet with favor.

Building Commissioner H. C. Best commented, "The fire fire chief hasn't seen this plan, but I don't think with this plan (without roadways to buildings) he would be able to fight a fire in this area."

"That driveway is needed to service the building, to provide for movers and garbage trucks, delivery trucks and emergency vehicles," said Harold Carlson

A SECOND point of difference between village code and height of buildings—was eliminated when Bernstein sttorney Richard Haupt said the planned development had been revised to include no five-story structures.

The original proposal had been for nine two-story buildings and four five-story buildings. Last Wednesday's revised proposal listed eight two-story buildings and five four-story structures.

The plan commission will have Bernstein's Rand complex on its agenda again Aug. 25. (A

Legion Play Opens Today In Regional

Arlington Heights will play Grove City, Ohio, today (Thursday) at 5:30 p.m. in the second game of the Fifth Regional American Legion baseball tournament in East Chicago, Ind.

Seven state championship Legion teams are entered in the regional tourney; the winner will advance to the national Legion finals at Aberdeen, S. D. Aug. 31-Sept. 6.

The regional meet is a double elimination tournament and is scheduled to run through Monday.

Paddock Publications again will offer a sports bulletin service. Results of the game will be available at the close of the game, probably about 8 p.m., on a special night number, CL 3-1531.

Information on the service for the ensuing games, and details about the East Chicago regional, will be found in the sports section.

Train Blocked By Stalled Truck

A disabled truck halted eastbound trains on the North Western Railway for a half hour Saturday night.

According to Arlington Heights Public Works Supt. Eugene Willroth, the truck became stranded at the State Road crossing shortly after 8 p.m., its "dollie" wheels firmly locked between the tracks.

Driver Rex Hamilton, 303 N. Haddow Ave., said he was turning the huge vehicle, owned by the Refiners Transport Corp. of Chicago, onto Northwest Highway. The steep grade at the right turn lane brought the normally elevated dollies into contact with the crossing.

WILLROTH, POLICE and two tow trucks from Arlington Fender & Body Shop were unable to work it free. The dollie wheels finally were cut off with a torch and a waiting North Western commuter train moved on.

The public works chief barricaded the turning lane and notified the state highway department.

Restaurant Completes Remodeling

Rapp's Restaurant, 602 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, has completed another remodeling in the interests of customer comfort and convenience.

This is the eighth time the family restaurant has been remodeled since it was started more than 25 years ago as an ice cream parlor by owner Bud Rapp and his late father, Harvey Rapp.

To celebrate the latest improvements Rapp's will offer reduced prices on ice cream and menu specials for one week starting today (Thursday). (A

Planners Urge Orchard Manor Plat Approval

Approval of the plat of Orchard Manor, new Peter Peterson subdivision at Olive and Dryden, was recommended last Wednesday by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission.

The commission also recommended vacation of a 33-foot wide strip of Dryden in the subdivision.

COMMISSION members were told that the subdivision layout had been developed by John Best of the village engineering department to give best use of the land lying behind homes on Olive and joined with Georgetown Manor subdivision.

The village board will act on the recommendations at its first September meeting. (A

Reports Theft Of 27 Turtles

Theft of 27 turtles valued at $50 to $60 was reported to Arlington Heights police Monday by John P. Karst, 5 N. Phelps Ave.

Karst said the turtles, all about a foot long, were taken from a galvanized tub in his back yard while he was out of town Sunday. There were a variety of species.

He told police the turtles were part of a collection.

Library Vote Date Expected

A prediction that a date for the library building bond referendum will be set "in the near future" was given to the village trustees Monday evening by their attorney, Jack Siegel.

Siegel, who drew up the proposal by which the library board is offering its present building to the park board for $57,000, added, "This whole thing is boiling!"

THE LIBRARY board has been considering expansion plans since receiving a consultant's report last year which said village library needs require a new structure almost as large as the municipal building. So far the board has not definitely settled on a site, partly because of the problem of disposing of its present building.

In March, at the library's request, the village passed an ordinance reserving three sites for library development for a year. On Monday, again at the library board's request, the reservation on one of them was lifted.

Taken from the list of sites was the block bounded by Eastman (extended) and Miner, Douglas and Hickory. Still under consideration are the block on which the present library building sits — the block bounded by Belmont, Pine, Wing and Miner; and a block bounded by Dunton, Euclid, Fremont and Vail.

TRUSTEES DID not formally amend the ordinance which originally had reserved the sites, but indicated by resolution that the Douglas-Hickory block was not longer under consideration. They said they would formally amend the ordinance if the property holders wished.

Four Area Girls Score In Jamboree

Four Paddock area girls scored points in the 10th annual Illinois Junior Sports Jamboree held on Lincoln Field at Eastern Illinois University, Charleston.

Nearly 600 children from all parts of the state competed in the three-day Jamboree, which is sponsored jointly by the Illinois Youth Commission and the Illinois Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Cheryl Bator of Prospect Heights topped the area finalists with a second in the Junior Girls High Jump.

Janet Stegmann of Itasca was fourth in the Midget Girls Hop, Step and Jump, and Sandi Clark of Wheeling was third in the Intermediate Girls High Jump. Diane Taylor of Wheeling placed sixth in the Junior Girls Broad Jump.

Compromise Approved to Allow Apartments, Street Extension

Arlington Heights village trustees Monday approved a compromise proposal which would allow rezoning to R-5 (apartments) of a Campbell Street parcel plus extension of Chestnut Street between Campbell and Wing.

The proposal came from a special trustees committee, assigned to iron out difficulties between the village and architect Robert Babbin over financing of the Chestnut paving project.

BABBIN HAD requested rezoning of the land, which lies on the east side of Chestnut (extended) across from Paddock Publications, to put up an apartment building. He had told the village, however, that he would not go ahead with the project if he received a special assessment for the Campbell paving. Extension of the street requires 50 feet of his property for the right of way.

The compromise was reported to the trustees by committee chairman Carl Mees.

"We are willing that rezoning be granted if the village can acquire the 50 feet for more than $9,000, the village to bear the cost of paving," Mees said.

He said Babbin had told him the 50-foot-strip was costing him $18,750.

TRUSTEES ACCEPTED the committee report and authorized Village Atty. Jack Siegel to go ahead with drawing up the acquisition agreement and the rezoning ordinance, but several questioned the costs involved.

"Is this a just, 100 per cent public benefit? Is the street absolutely necessary?" asked Trustee Jack Walsh.

"I think if this downtown area is to develop as we expect it, then we must have some way to handle traffic," stated Mees.

At present there is no connection between West Campbell and Wing in the five-block area between Vail and Ridge. Chestnut's extension would alleviate this, serving also as an outlet for traffic on the north end at Vail near the post office.

VILLAGE MGR. L. A. Hanson said total cost of the one-block street would be about $44,500, including the $9,000 for Babbin's strip, $20,500 for acquiring the rest of the right-of-way, and $15,000 for paving. He said he had a verbal commitment for motor fuel tax funds for the paving.

"How do we stand on this paving project in comparison to Highland?" asked Walsh.

If Highland were extended between Wing and Campbell, he was told by Hanson, it would be far more costly because of the necessity for acquiring and razing the Arlington News Agency building which blocks the Campbell end of the extension. (A

School Boundaries Won't Be Changed

The Arlington Heights District 25 Board members turned thumbs down Monday on a request to change attendance boundaries between Patton and Wilson Schools.

Residents of the area asked last May to have the boundary jog to include a stretch of Kaspar Avenue in the Patton attendance area; acting on the school administration's recommendation Monday the board refused.

ACTION CAME after the board learned the county will not install sidewalks in a one-block Ridge-to-Fernandez stretch along Palatine Road, on the route to Wilson School, but after assurances from Asst. Supt. Robert Campbell that the village has been cooperative in getting sidewalks in the past.

Though residents of Kaspar are within sight of Patton School, and Wilson is a seven-block walk, Clabaugh said changing the line would make other boundaries "subject to negotiation."

The board asked the administration to ask the village to close the gap in Palatine Road sidewalks soon. (A

Report Increase In Unemployed Claimants

State Director of Labor John E. Cullerton today reported an increase in the number of individuals claiming benefits under the Illinois unemployment compensation program during the week ended Aug. 7, 1965.

Cullerton said the increase was due to short-term, seasonal layoffs, even though many workers were recalled to their jobs following similar layoffs.

Claims for Illinois unemployment compensation were filed by 53,968 persons throughout the State during the week. There were 1.8 percent more than in the preceding week (53,002) but 13 percent fewer than in the corresponding week in 1964 (62,025).

Included in the state-wide total were 10,777 individuals who filed their first claims following a layoff. This was 37 percent more than the 7,841 in the preceding week and 9.4 percent more than the 9,850 in the same week one year ago.

There were 30,090 claimants in Cook and DuPage Counties. Their number was 3.2 percent above the preceding week's figure (29,146) but 18 percent below the comparable week last year (36,487). The total for Cook and DuPage Counties included 5,542 persons who filed their first claims following a layoff.

This was 47 percent more than the 3,783 in the preceding week and 17 percent more than the 4,956 in the same week in 1964.

Friday Last Day For Free X-Rays

The remainder of this week is the last chance for Arlington Heights residents to take advantage of the mobile X-ray unit in their community. The big blue and white bus will be at the Arlington Market Shopping Center today (Thursday) and tomorrow.

X-ray hours are from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. today and 1:30 to 8:30 p.m. Friday.

MRS. MARIA Coburn, director of health services, is in charge of the summer X-ray survey. "We have only two more days," said Mrs. Coburn, "so, take a moment from your daily routine and get a free chest X-ray. Remember, the unit won't be back again until next summer."

Civic and church organizations have been assisting at the mobile X-ray unit all week. Volunteers for Thursday and Friday, not mentioned previously, include: Mrs. Charles McCall, 232 Illinois; Mrs. Pat Kaine, 708 W. Maple; Mrs. William Patterson, 1011 S. Dunton; Mrs. Arthur Olsen, 616 S. Walnut; Mrs. William Hemphill, 1331 W. Park; Mrs. Hubert Flack, 301 S. Dunton; Mrs. Frank Hornof, 418 S. Kennicott; and Mrs. Joseph Thompson, 114 S. Kaspar.

Heat Doesn't Stop Summer Entertainments

Arlington Heighters are keeping busy with guests and a variety of other activities in spite of the heat. Miss Shirley Heckelman of Evanston was the guest of honor at a surprise birthday party given for her Sunday evening by her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Klingenmaier, 615 W. Wing. Decorations were carried out in shades of violet, with the centerpiece, the large birthday cake, and other table accessories in varying hues.

Among the 25 guests were four others whose birthday anniversaries were also celebrated. They were William Nero of Oak Forest, a grandson who will be 2 Sunday; Mrs. Klingenmaier's brother, Donald L. Hermann of Palatine, whose birthday is Friday; and the daughters of the host family, Susan and Gail, who have anniversaries the 12th and 27th of this month.

ALENE POSSELT, daughter of the Keith Posselts, 302 W. Maple, arrived at the home of her parents Saturday, after spending the summer in Gainesville, Fla. studying at the University of Florida. She was accompanied by her grandmother, Mrs. Nina Posselt of Bradenton Beach, Fla. They will visit here until Aug. 28, when they will motor back to Florida in time for Miss Posselt to resume her studies.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger T. Berg of Napoleon, Mich., spent the past weekend in the home of the latter's parents, the Keith Posselts.

Mrs. Keith Posselt entertained 12 guests at coffee Aug. 11, in honor of Mrs. R. Howard Heberling, a former Arlington Heights resident who now makes her home in Lakeland, Fla. Mrs. Heberling has been visiting in the area and spent several days in the Posselt home. She greatly enjoyed the opportunity which the coffee afforded for renewing acquaintances with her former neighbors.

The Herb Fasths, 103 N. Gibbons, returned Friday from a five-day trip to Harbor Springs, Mich., where they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pierce of Bay Village, Ohio, former neighbors, and enjoyed a vacation of golf and relaxation.

ELIZABETH BUCK, daughter of the James Bucks, 705 S. Vail, was guest of honor at a pre-nuptial shower in Indianapolis, given by Misses Caryl Fernandes and Cathi Hash in the Fernandes home. Among the 25 guests who showered Miss Buck with miscellaneous gifts were a number of her sisters in the Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority and members of the bridegroom's family. Miss Buck became the bride of John L. Chesterfield on Aug. 8 at the First Presbyterian Church.

Guests in the James Buck home to attend the wedding were aunts, uncles and cousins, Mrs. Harry Ritchie, Mrs. Roy Weiss, Mrs. William Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Christman Sr. and Miss Hazel Christman, all of North Wales, Pa.; A. C. Christman Jr. of Palo Alto, Calif.; the George C. Christmans, Drehel Hill, Pa.; and the John Liljas of Minneapolis.

The Charles Rothers family, 710 S. Walnut, returned Saturday from a week's vacation at Lac du Flambeau, Wis., where they enjoyed water-skiing, swimming and relaxing in the sunshine.

Maureen Joyce, daughter of the Edward M. Joyces, 924 N. Walnut, was guest of honor at a recent pre-nuptial shower given by her sisters, Jennifer and Katie, in the Joyce home. The surprise personal shower, attended by 25 close friends of the bride-to-be, featured the blue and white bridal colors in floral and table decorations. A special guest was Mrs. Thomas Corcoran of Earlville, Ill., grandmother of Miss Joyce.

MISS JOYCE was honored in June at a linen shower given by her cousins, Paula and Stephanie Corcoran in Earlville. The shower, held in the Parish center, was attended by 25 friends and relatives.

On July 12, Maureen was honored at a surprise miscellaneous shower at which 40 guests were present, at the home of Mrs. Donald Redmond, sister of the bridegroom.

Miss Joyce became the bride of James Chavoen at St. James Catholic Church on July 31.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were the bride's aunt and uncle, the Martin McGreals of Long Island, N.Y., and the George McKays of Orlando, Fla., cousins of the bridegroom.

Terry Murphy, daughter of the Stephan M. Murphys, returned Aug. 12 from a 10-day trip to New York, where she visited her grandmother, Mrs. Henry F. Corwin of Long Island, and her aunt, Mrs. Donald Abrew.

The W. B. Crooker family, 12 N. Gibbons, spent the weekend in the Birmingham, Mich., home of the Robert Freeburgs, former residents of Arlington Heights. Included in their activities was an outing on Saturday which featured a picnic and swimming.

DR. AND Mrs. William T. Jones, 1309 Leona Trail, traveled to Sheboygan Falls, Wis., recently to attend the wedding of their son, William, and Nancy Denzin. Dr. Jones took part in the ceremony.

Dr. and Mrs. Jones returned recently from a 10-day vacation in Wisconsin and a visit in the home of their daughter and family, the Donald Youngs in Readstown. They then motored north along the Mississippi River to Lake Superior and into the north woods. After swimming in Little Silver Lake in Wild Rose, they traveled to Hayward, where they witnessed a log-rolling contest in which world champions participated, a tree-topping contest and a number of other events. They also visited the Wisconsin Dells and enjoyed a relaxing and interesting trip.

Mrs. Jones recently spent a week at Decatur, attending the area leadership school as a representative of the Chicago Presbyterial Society.

Weekend guests in the Dane Smith home, 815 W. Miner, were Mr. Smith's cousins, Dr. and Mrs. G. O. Brown and five children of St. Louis, Mo., who were traveling to Michigan for a vacation.

MISS MARTHA Ideson, of Ann Arbor, the Smith's niece, spent a week in the Smith home and returned to Michigan last weekend. John Ideson, a nephew, arrived Sunday for a week's visit. On Friday, the Smiths will entertain Miss Betty Proctor, of Schenectady, N.Y., who will visit for a month before entering college in Minnesota in the fall. On Saturday, Mrs. Smith's parents, the R. W. Proctors of Detroit, will arrive in the Smith home with her aunt, Miss Jennie Proctor of Raleigh, N. C., to spend four days. Jerry and Bob Bebber, formerly of Arlington Heights, are spending the week visiting in the Smith residence.

The Edwin Piepenbrink family, 1112 N. Walnut, took a five-day motor trip around Lake Michigan. High points in the trip included a stop at Mackinac Island and a six-hour boat trip from Muskegon to Milwaukee.

Guests in the Edward Johnson home, 714 S. Walnut, over the past weekend were Dianne Baker and Julie Michaelvitz.

BARBARA JOHNSON, daughter of the Edward Johnsons, who has spent the summer studying in Germany, will return to Arlington Heights early in September. She will then begin post-graduate work at Northwestern University, where she has been awarded a fellowship, majoring in German.

Mrs. Edward Johnson and Mrs. Bill Boyd were hostesses at a pre-nuptial shower in July honoring Miss Marilyn Hookom, daughter of the John Hookoms. Sixteen guests were present to shower her with miscellaneous gifts.

Charles Hood, son of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hood, 604 W. Campbell, arrived Friday morning by plane from Corvallis, Ore., where he was enrolled in the summer session of Oregon State University. He will return to resume his studies in mid-September.

Jo Ann Hood, daughter of the Kenneth Hoods, will leave early in September for St. Louis, Mo., where she will teach second grade in the Hazelwood school system.

MR. AND MRS. Theodore Mendl and daughter, Barbara, 745 S. Vail, returned Saturday from a week's vacation at the Golden Horse Ranch in Wautoma, Wis. They enjoyed such outdoor activities as canoeing, swimming and horseback riding, and Barbara received a ribbon for horsemanship in the equitation event held at the close of the week.

Gary Green, a student at Parsons College in Fairfield, Iowa, spent five days last week in the home of the Floyd Terbells, 402 W. Kirchoff. Gary is the cousin of Peter Yarrow of the well-known folksing trio, Peter, Paul and Mary. The Terbells' daughter, Martha, had become acquainted with Mr. Yarrow when the trio appeared in the area in December and the occasion of Gary's visit was the appearance of Peter, Paul and Mary at McCormick Place last week.

Highlights of the week took place when Martha and Gary attended two recording sessions of the trio; joining Mary for dinner; attending performances and visiting with the trio backstage. A friend of Martha, Miss Margaret Munson, a former resident of Arlington Heights who now makes her home in Milwaukee, accompanied Martha and Gary on several occasions.

MRS. STEPHEN Jurco, 217 S. Windsor, and son, Stephen, spent the past month vacationing at Chain of Lakes, Wis., with her sister, Mrs. Peter Lucchesi of West Plainsfield, N.J., and her two children.

On Sunday, Mrs. Jurco, Mrs. Louis Fischer of Inverness and Mrs. Carl Bowen of Arlington Heights were hostesses at a dinner and bridal shower held at Corrados Restaurant for Ann Carlisle, daughter of Mrs. Edward G. Carlisle, who will be married Saturday to Jeremy John Redfield of Pewaukee, Wis.

Larry Hawkey, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Hawkey, 310 S. Windsor, arrives home Thursday, today, from Devereux Academy in Devereux, Pa., for a three-week stay.

The Hawkeys' elder daughter, Barbie, is currently vacationing in Miami and Nassau with Miss Peggy Miley of Arlington Heights.

The William R. Gards, 336 S. Windsor, their daughter, Catherine, and Mr. Gard's mother, Mrs. Mable Gard, are home from a two-week vacation at Lake Mills, Wis., where they enjoyed sailing, swimming and relaxing.

MISS TERI Tobin, daughter of the William Tobins, 339 S. Carlyle, returned home this week from a two-week vacation in California. She went with a Mount Prospect friend, Miss Nancy Kolaris. Miss Tobin's father accompanied them on the flight to San Francisco, and after a sightseeing tour of the city, left them to attend matters of business while they went on to visit friends and relatives in San Rafael and Stockton.

Mr. and Mrs. Nat Evans, 1223 Woodford, spent the past two weeks vacationing at the Rolling Stone Lodge in Lac du Flambeau, Wis.

While vacationing in Miami Beach, Fla., the Leroy Garrs, 316 S. Derbyshire, enjoyed a visit with their eldest son, Roy and his wife, Anne-Marie, who came down for a week from their home in Savannah, Ga. The Garrs were accompanied by three of their children, Bonnie, Nadine and Marcia. Marcia enjoyed Florida so much that she persuaded her parents to let her stay on for another week with her aunt and uncle, the Ralph Isacksens of Prospect Heights, who were also vacationing in Miami Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lanzillo, 1101 Mayfair, celebrated their 13th wedding anniversary with his parents in New York City. Three days were spent at the World's Fair, during which time they were guests of the Ford Motor Co. at a cocktail hour and luncheon. The return trip included a visit to the Canadian Niagara Falls and a luau with friends in Ohio.

MRS. EARL E. Odal, 734 S. Belmont, accompanied by their young daughter, Marcia, took a six-week motor trip to the West Coast. They camped along the way, stopping to explore the Ozark, Yellowstone and Yosemite National Parks. In California, they visited relatives in La Mirada and Laguna Beach before going up the coast to visit friends in Portland and Soap Lake, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Housenecht, 510 Mayfair, flew to San Francisco for a week's business and pleasure trip. Mrs. Housenecht especially enjoyed a tour to San Mateo and a visit to the Memorial Chapel in Stanford, after which they visited Big Basin Redwood Park and Santa Cruz.

Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Chaps, 740 S. Belmont, and their children, Nancy and Douglas, spent last week in New York City. They were joined by Arlington Heights friends, the Paul Marquardts, with whom they visited the World's Fair and toured the city.

The Earl E. Diehls, 413 Lincoln, are looking forward to the arrival of their son, Tom, and new daughter-in-law on Monday from Seattle. Tom and the former Miss Betty Swanson plan to stay here for a week before going on to Birmingham, Ala., where he will work with the McDonald system.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Faner, 615 Mayfair, and their son, Rick, spent the weekend at Klinger Lake in Sturgis, Mich., visiting former Scarsdale neighbors, the Harold Vaughns.

AMONG ARLINGTON Heights and area residents competing in the Summer National Bridge Tournament held in the Palmer House last week were Mrs. William M. Chambers, Mrs. James Van Winkle, Mrs. J. Kemp Blackwell, Mrs. Clair Lee Erickson of Mount Prospect and Mrs. Paul Peisert of Park Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Grayson, 768 S. Belmont, have as their houseguests the latter's sister, Mrs. Ray Rash and her son, Dana, here from southern California for an extended visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight R. Prugh, 356 Burton, their daughter, Sherry, and her friend, Dale Turkcan of Arlington Heights, went east to visit friends and relatives. They stopped in Cincinnati first, to visit Mrs. Prugh's parents, the Alfred Fifers, and then went on to Dayton, their former home town, to visit Mr. Prugh's brother and family, the R. B. Prughs, and to see old friends and neighbors.

Sherry entertained a group of her former schoolmates at a swim party in the Stratford House Hotel, where they stayed during their visit in Dayton.

Good fishing, especially for bass and blue gills, was reported by the Anthony Manns, 304 E. Fairview, during their week's stay at Mammoser's Sunset Lodge in Barnes, Wis. Fishing companion of Mr. Mann was his cousin, Charles Mammoser from West Bend, Wis.

Recent houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hughes, 848 S. Belmont, were the latter's mother, Mrs. William M. McKay of Sarasota, Fla., and her sister, Mrs. Robert Franks and her three sons of Warren, Ohio.

Traffic Safety Rating Improves

3) More parking restrictions on major thoroughfares.

4) Investigate need for more channelized traffic lanes.

5) More pedestrian walk signals at traffic lights.

Police traffic supervision rating for 1964 was down to 59 per cent, from 61 per cent. Major component involved in the reduction was police training, while the percentage or the drunk driving enforcement program increased sharply.

Noting a "recommended" force of 65 men on the department, the inventory recommended an increase in staff over the 1964 figure of 39 men. Also among the recommendations: investigation of declining convictions in accident arrests and start of a pedestrian enforcement program. The village had no pedestrian convictions in either 1963 or 1964.

THE REPORT recommended traffic training of 40 hours for each uniformed officer every two hours; actual training last year varied from 6½ to 101 hours.

Traffic courts were given an 85 per cent rating in 1964. There was no report for comparison in 1963 because of the changes brought on by the Blue Ballot.

For the courts, the safety profile recommended:

1) A written set of rules governing traffic court procedure be prepared for use of the court and defendants.

2) The violator's record of prior convictions be made available to the judge after a guilty finding to assist in determining a penalty.

3) Jail penalties be imposed for conviction of operating a vehicle after suspension or revocation of driver's license.

THE PUBLIC school's safety education program rating was increased from 73 to 77 per cent. Recommendations were for increased staff time devoted to safety education, student-faculty committees at each school and increase in driver education enrollment and instruction.

The rating for the public safety education program increased from 19 to 35 per cent. The safety analysis report recommended initiation of a planned program based on local needs, involving publicity through the newspaper, radio station, civic clubs, posters and billboards.

The final category, organization for public traffic safety improvement, was given a 0 per cent rating in 1964; there had been no report on such activity in the 1964 analysis. A public safety commission — one of the recommendations — was established early this year.

Trustee Opposed To Yield Signs

sion to encourage optimum communication between all agencies interested in traffic education.

THE TRAFFIC inventory shows that the village had 39 police officers. The report recommended 65.

The village got no score at all for its safety commission in the traffic inventory, but this was because the commission was not organized until January 1965.

The traffic inventory also noted that Arlington recorded 60 yield signs. The inventory recommended none.

A common plight of villagers —that of being caught at a north-south intersection with Northwest Highway when the crossing bars drop and the traffic lights freeze—was given a possible solution by Trustee Carl Mees.

WHY COULDN'T the traffic rules be changed to allow right turns onto Northwest Highway from these north-south streets? he asked.

Trustee Walsh, agreeing, suggested that Village Engineer Norman Toberman be asked to give the board an opinion as to the feasibility of such "proceed with caution" right turns. "We can go from there, if we agree, to the state highway department," Walsh asserted.

'Housecleaning' Work Approved for Schools

Housecleaning projects were approved by Arlington Heights elementary school board Monday when low bids on painting, concrete and equipment were accepted.

Approved were the low bid of $3,138 from Karr Bros., Inc., for interior and exterior painting at seven schools; a low bid of $645 from Cote Decorating Co. for glaze painting corridors at Dryden School, and a low bid of $1,632 from Claude Markstrom Co. for replacing the entrance walk at Park School.

Eight bids were received on the three projects; low bids were below estimates.

THE BOARD also approved the low bid of $895 from Roseman Tractor & Equipment Co. for a tractor-drawn lawn aerifier. Two firms bid on the equipment, which had been estimated at $845.

And the board approved purchase of an International Cadet 100 tractor from John F. Garlisch & Son for $1,175. The bid was identical to one submitted by A. J. Firnbach & Son in July.

At that time, board members objected to tightly written specifications for the tractor and asked for "or equal" bids on other models. This time, Firnbach bid $1,254. International Harvester Sales & Service bid $1,209.

The only "or equal" bid—from Garlisch—was for a Simplicity Landlord Tractor. That bid was $1,110, but Business Mgr. Peter R. Bakas said the International model had a larger motor. Estimated cost of the tractor had been $1,150. (A

$4.5 Million Budget For Schools Okayed

A budget totaling $4.5 million for the 1965-1966 school year was approved Monday by Arlington Heights' School Board.

No residents appeared for the public hearing on the budget.

The board withheld action on tax levies, expected to increase the district's rate between eight and 11 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, until after remodeling plans for South Junior High are approved.

THE REMODELING work — as required by the state Life Safety Code — will add a special five cent levy. Remainder of the anticipated increase is mostly in the transportation fund. Recent legislation permitted an increase from two cents to eight cents per $100 for the special transportation fund.

District 25 had been subsidizing that fund with monies from its education fund prior to the increase. Supt. R. E. Clabaugh said Tuesday it is possible the district may need a rate of only six cents for transportation, rather than the full eight cents.

Here are the anticipated rates for each fund: Education fund, $1.46; building fund, 25 cents; Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, three cents; transportation fund, six to eight cents; bond fund, 48 cents; Life Safety Code, five cents; total $2.33 to $2.35 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Approval of the Life Safety levy is expected in September, pending approval by the county superintendent's office of an architect's report presented to the board Monday.

That survey estimated cost of renovating South School, to meet the code, at $97,000. A five cent levy for one year would give the district about $70,000.

ARCHITECTS said major chunks of their estimate would be needed to relocate a stairway which currently feeds into an inadequate hallway, to relocate and modernize toilet facilities and to replace flammable ceiling tiles.

Clabaugh informed board members that under legislation enacted last spring school boards need not conduct a formal survey in schools constructed since 1955. Under the original Life Safety Code released by the state department of instruction last year, all schools would have needed surveys.

Most Arlington Heights schools have been built since 1955. (A

Two Arlington High Youths Join Ravinia Theatre Cast

Two Arlington High School boys with an interest in acting have been given nonspeaking roles in the current production of "Trojan Women" at Ravinia Park's Murray Theatre.

They are Douglas McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. McDonald, 215 W. Orchard St., and Bill Blair, 1316 E. Miner St. McDonald is a senior at Arlington, Blair a junior.

They play guards in "Trojan Women." McDonald plays an attendant to one of the male leads; Blair helps carry an eight-year-old boy off stage, where he is supposed to be thrown from a tower, then helps carry him back in on a shield.

"WE LOSE more eight-year-old boys," quipped Blair.

The two got their jobs after Douglas Murphy, English-drama teacher at Arlington High School, heard of the openings and called them.

"We didn't try out," said McDonald. "The costumes fit, so we had it."

They are paid $5 a performance and work each day except Monday. The play began Aug. 10 and runs through Aug. 29. They have nightly performances six days a week and matinees two days.

"YOU CAN pick up a lot of things in a professional performance," commented Blair, who is thinking of a career in English, possibly teaching. "Like acting methods, the movements on stage, the chorus."

McDonald, who is thinking of an acting career, feels discipline is an advantage of taking part in a professional show.

"You learn the need for discipline and punctuality. And routine. . .repeating the same performance over and over, like you would in an acting career.

Blair played in all three shows at Arlington High School last year. McDonald has had roles in seven shows there and had the lead in "Once in a Lifetime." (A

Assigned To Mission In Japan

The Rev. Roy F. Shelangouski, a member of the Clerics of St. Viator, has been assigned to the Viaorian Foreign Mission in Kyoto, Japan.

Departure ceremonies for Father Shelangouski will be held today (Thursday) at the provincial residence in Evanston.

A native of Iowa, Father Shelangouski was graduated from Alleman High School in Rock Island and received his B. S. degree from Loyola in 1960 as a Viatorian Scholastic. He got an M. S. degree from Catholic University of America this year and celebrated his first solemn mass June 14 at St. Mary Church, Hampton, Ill.

The Viatorian Fathers mission house is at 1115 E. Euclid, Arlington Heights. (A

Citizens to Review High School Plans

A lay citizens committee to review plans for a sixth high school in High School District 214 is being organized.

First meeting for the group will be September 20.

Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer urges residents who would like to serve on the committee to contact his office at 799 Kensington, Mount Prospect, or to call 259-5300.

"Work on the committee affords an excellent opportunity to learn more about the operation of our school district and provides insight into growth problems peculiar to our district," Slichenmyer said.

"FOR A MINIMUM amount of time and effort, the taxpayer can become a well-informed member of our community. We especially invite residents who have lived here only a few years. Committee members need not have children in high school."

The board of education has approved a 40-acre school-owned site on Willow Road, east of Rand Road, as the location for the sixth school. The property is in the Prospect Heights elementary school district and on the Arlington Heights Village boundary line.

Slichenmyer said the school would be needed by the fall of 1968 when enrollment would exceed the capacities of the district's five high schools.

District 214 includes Arlington High School, Prospect High School, Forest View High School, Wheeling High School, and Elk Grove High School (now under construction).

Trip Tips

Time is drawing near for my trip around the world. Next week, I'll be leaving for New York, then to Madrid, Rome, Athens, the Holy Land, India, Bangkok, Singapore and Hong Kong where I'll attend the convention of the American Society of Travel Agents. I'll return via Manila, Taipei, Japan and Hawaii (stopping in Honolulu to check on our tour plans for next March). I've been reading temperature charts for each country and summer clothes should do the trick all the way.

EIGHT, DIRECTORS
— whose decisions are community-minded!

The difficult thing about decisions is that they always involve choices — frequently, hard ones — between separate courses of action. The difficulty worsens when the public or common good conflicts with private interest.

An important characteristic of the Arlington Heights Federal Savings board of directors was noted by its first chairman, Charles H. Wilson, upon his recent retirement. This has been its willingness to resolve issues by decisive action — not in terms of what is best for Arlington Heights Federal Savings, but what is best for Arlington Heights.

In this decision-making, the directors have always been aware that the Association, as a mutual institution, belongs to everyone — savers and borrowers — and not to the directors personally.

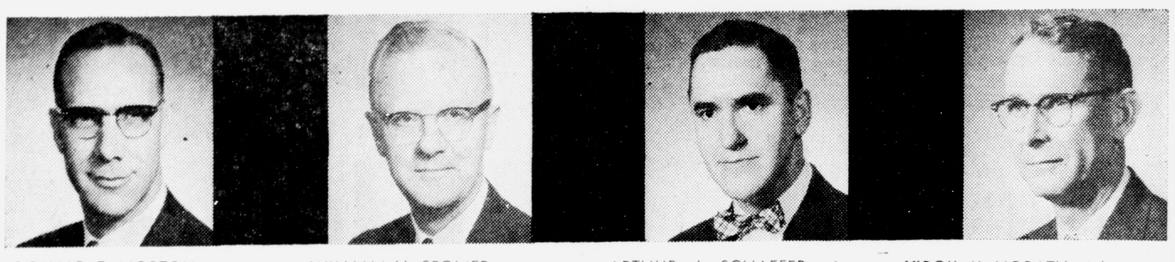
There has never been any private-profit motivation in the decisions they have reached.

IRVING T. RINKER, chairman of the Arlington Heights Federal Savings board and president of Glennon & Kern, Inc., Chicago, has resided in Arlington Heights since 1935.

PAUL E. COLLINS, board vice chairman and Association president, lives in Palatine after residing in Arlington Heights since 1937. He is past president of A.H. Chamber of Commerce.

ALVIN A. POPP owned the Arlington Heights Roller Mill serving the area for a half-century and resided in Arlington Heights since 1934. He now manages his Crystal Lake farm.

CARL G. KLEHM is owner of Charles Klehm & Son, nursery and peony farms founded by his father in Arlington Heights in 1902. Mr. Klehm is a native of Arlington Heights.



DONALD F. MORTON, Association executive vice president and past president of the A.H. Chamber of Commerce, has resided in the northwest suburbs since 1945, lives in Mt. Prospect.

WILLIAM H. SPOMER, manager of the economic analysis and planning department of the Pure Oil Company, has lived in Arlington Heights for 25 years and has served in civic capacities.

ARTHUR J. SCHAEFER, vice president for development and public relations at DePaul University, has resided for almost 20 years in Des Plaines and Park Ridge.

VIRGIL K. HORATH, Arlington Heights business man for 30 years, past president of the Lions Club and past senior commander of the American Legion, has resided here since 1929.

Notes from Arlington Acres

Marie Marshall — CLearbrook 5-2936

A welcome to Arlington Acres is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Dan Switzer at 413 S. Gibbons. Dan and Mary Ann moved to the area from Lombard and have two children, Darcy, 3, and Todd, born July 13.

The first official act of the Switzers after moving in was to celebrate Darcy's Aug. 12 birthday. Among other guests at the party were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bowne of Ottumwa, Iowa, and Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Switzer of Peoria.

Life for the Raymond O'Donnells, 405 S. Gibbons, never settles down to a dull routine. When not entertaining guests, mostly from out of town, some or all members of the family are visiting out of town. When Catherine's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wisniewski, were here for the All-Star football game and returned to Cleveland the following Sunday, they were accompanied by James, the youngest O'Donnell boy. Saturday Catherine and the other boys, Dennis and Kevin, flew down to join them, and while Catherine and Dennis returned Sunday, Kevin and James remained behind to visit respective friends. Kevin plans on getting back Thursday in time to join the other Beatle fans at White Sox Park Friday, the same day that James will be back home accompanied by his aunt and the friend with whom he stayed in Cleveland.

AMONG THE area families for whom August meant an out-of-town vacation were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Byrnes and daughters, Debby and Nancy, of 437 S. Phelps. Taking only a part of their annual vacation at this time, they spent a week at Ephraim, Door County, Wis., where they rented a cottage a short distance from the shore of Green Bay. Boating, swimming and horseback riding for the girls were activities worked in between trips to such resort towns on the peninsula as Fish Creek, Baileys Harbor and Sister Bay.

The Don Cooks, too, were away only a week. With their daughter, Debby, they drove to Cable, Wis., and stayed at a cottage on Crystal Lake. The time passed too quickly in swimming, playing golf and all around relaxing.

The Cooks live at 525 S. Forrest.

A vacation trip to Charlevoix, Mich., was enjoyed by the entire James Thorstad family, 412 S. Phelps, even though the timing conflicted with plans for a neighborhood party in honor of Susan's Aug. 7 birthday. The day did not pass unobserved, however, as they were visiting an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Starr, who hosted a party for the 13-year-old. Other relatives living in the area happily gathered at the Starr home to congratulate Susan and to visit with the other members of her family.

DEBBY DREWS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Drews, 517 S. Forrest, was the center of attention Friday evening at a party in honor of her fourth birthday. Guests were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Draper, an aunt, Mrs. Sam Vanbuto, and a young uncle, David Drews, and Debby's godmother, Judy Obuchowski, all of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Rotramel, 517 S. Phelps, celebrated their second wedding anniversary Aug. 3. In honor of the event, they had dinner at the Embers and attended a performance of "Angel Street" at Old Orchard Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. John Matthewson and son, Blake, 516 S. Waterman, are home after spending several enjoyable days visiting relatives in Waupon and Warsaw, Wis.

Laura Post, 2105 E. Park, celebrated her eighth birthday Aug. 10 at a family party. Gathered around her for the special dinner were her parents, brothers, Bob, Steve and Jimmy, and sisters, Karen and Nancy.

Grant Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Smith, 512 S. Waterman, enjoyed the party which his parents gave in honor of his second birthday Aug. 13. A special guest was Grandma Smith of Arlington Heights. Another party in his honor is planned for next weekend by his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Aden Wilson of Glen Ellyn.

JO ANN SWAIM, who with her husband and two children left Arlington Acres last April, writes friends in the area from their new home in Hawaii that life on the island is most enjoyable. Swimming every day and the soft trade winds that blow through their home every evening are partial compensation for leaving a neighborhood in which she was very happy. However, Jo Ann admits that she still misses her old neighbors and many friends.

Members of the Birthday Club decided early in the year to enjoy a get-together other than a birthday observance, and to that end started planning early to have dinner and take in a show some time during the summer. The culmination of their plans took place Aug. 10, when they dined at Tiffany's and saw Caesar Romero in "Slightly Dishonorable" at the Mill Run Playhouse. Members fortunate enough not to have made other plans for that evening were Mesdames Dassonville, Brunsfeld, Jahnke, Glynn, Fritz, Lorr, Butkus, Lucas, Wendt, Both and Novy.

Comments following the performance could easily indicate the birth of a new Caesar Romero fan club in Arlington Acres. (A

Deny Use of Playground For Parking

The District 25 School Board Monday approved requests from seven Arlington Heights groups for regular use of school facilities, but turned down one request.

Rejected was a suggestion by St. John United Church of Christ that it be permitted use of blacktop play areas at North School for parking. Supt. R. E. Clabaugh noted oil drips might spot and deteriorate the play surface. A second request from the church—use of North School auditorium for Sunday School—was approved.

So were requests from Southminster United Presbyterian Church, Boy Scout Ttroops 132 and 7, Cub Packs 65 and 129 and the Junior Cotillion. (A

Eastwood Events

Robert and Jessie Griesmeyer are home at 627 Beverly Lane, after enjoying a two-week camping trip with their daughter, Carol, and their son, Dennis who was home on a three week furlough from Bealle, Calif. They made a circle tour into Canada along the Lake Superior route, staying at eight different camp sites. They saw Ontario, the Niagara Falls of the north and spent a day riding a carriage on Mackinaw Island.

Dennis, an airman second class, will be stationed in Guam beginning January. His brother, Harold, joined the Air Force Aug. 6 and is in basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Eastwood offers best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. John Seick as they move from 615 Beverly Lane to Greenwich, Conn. John Johnna, will be a junior in high has been transferred to a job in New York. Their daughter, school.

John and Lee Larson and their sons, Glenn and Jackie, vacationed for two weeks. They drove to San Antonio and stayed for three days in the Menger Hotel. From their bedroom window they could see the Alamo across the street. A visit in Lorado gave them the fun of crossing into Mexico for one day. On their return, they spent four days in New Orleans and enjoyed touring the French Quarter. In Natchez they visited southern plantations. The boys especially enjoyed seeing the battleground at Vicksburg, After traveling 3,000 miles, they are now home at 623 Beverly Lane.

MARY AND ROBERT Kennett, 604 N. Dryden, report that their newly married daughter, Mary Ann, is now living in Detroit. Her husband, Walter Dotherty is a public relations man for Mt. Sinai Hospital.

August finds Robert Kennett serving as foreman for the Cook County Grand Jury.

Eastwood naturally is looking forward to the results of today's Junior American Legion baseball game being played in East Chicago, Ind. Lloyd Meyer, 307 N. Hickory, will be coaching the local team as they play against Ohio's state winner in regional competition.

Peter Koch finally celebrated his fifth birthday with Eastwood friends. On June 22, he celebrated his birthday in Germany. Thursday a luncheon party was held at 420 N. Hickory. The guests, Nancy Klussmann, Susan Bartolone, Susan Jochims, Billy Bartolone, Brian Cassidy and Jeff Thut first listened to "Mary Poppins" record, ate lunch and then played a few games. Younger brother Frank also enjoyed the party.

Life seems more normal at the Sam Cullison home, 511 N. Hickory, now that younger son, Sam, is home after spending the summer working as a junior counsellor at Camp MacLean in Burlington, Wis. Sam had the new experience of having complete charge of the camp's store. In his spare time, he made a mahogany water ski and managed to water ski daily.

Parents Sam and Eleanor drove to Burlington to bring Sam home and also to see his living quarters in the main lodge. Upon returning to Eastwood, Sam and several of his co-workers enjoyed an evening at Arlington Height's popular "Cellar."

THE CULLISONS recently attended a family picnic at the home of Eleanor's sister in Kenilworth. Her mother, Mrs. Jacob Wilkins of Gary enjoyed seeing all but one of her children at the gathering. At the party, given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Witter, weather was against them, but happily the recreation room offerred enough space for the group of more than 30.

Chuck and Jackie Pipher and their children, Diana and Chuckie, 311 Beverly Lane, enjoyed a week's vacation in July at Wisconsin Aire Resort in Hazelhurst, Wis.

A few weeks later, Chuck and Jackie and their friends, Richard and Gwen Kelly, 911 N. Belmont, celebrated Jackie and Gwen's birthdays by staying for the weekend at the Water Tower Inn in Chicago. They toured Old Town and dined at the Gas Light Club.

With Labor Day approaching, Jackie is again busy with the group that she began organizing last year here in Arlington Heights. Aug. 11, the members met for an election of officers at Georgia Buxton's home, 502 N. Hickory. The first president for the north suburban service league will be Jackie Pipher. The other six officers are mostly from Eastwood. They are: vice president, Delores Nielsen; ways and means, Georgia Buxton; treasurer, Avis Schoendorf; secretary, Gwen Kelly; publicity, Ronna Griffin and membership, Marge Hammerstrom. The group will support a training center for crippled children of Chicago and northern suburbs.

FIND YOUR NEW IDENTITY WHEN RETIREMENT COMES

Merritt H. Hanson, a railroad plant worker, got a job as an automobile salesman.

Eunice Swanson, a bookkeeper for a retail lumber firm, retired against her will at 60, went to work for a tax lawyer.

Cliff W. Nichols, retired from a rubber plant job, chose not to stretch a point. He set up in his garage a lawn-mower shop . . . renting, repairing, sharpening. When the grass season surrendered to winter he did, too. He went off to Sarasota, Florida, until spring came again.

Walter T. King, supervisor in a department store, retired and took an insignificant job as receptionist in a large travel agency. He held it six months, learned the ropes, then opened a small travel agency in his home.

Something to do does not necessarily mean a job that you are paid for and since you have your pension it does not have to concern money at all.

The second positive angle of retirement is that you must be important.

One of the major ailments of retirement, once there is enough money to live on, can be wrapped up in two phrases: a loss of recognition, and a loss of importance.

Whatever you have done for your living, there was a precious piece of dignity and recognition to it. In our complex society you were not just Joe Smith. You were an inspector in Plant 5 . . . You were with the Super Super Company . . . You were an assistant to Mr. Jones in the accounting Department . . . You were the Shipping Foreman.

You were something first, and somebody next. Do you remember how it always is, when you are introduced to a person, you find out what he does before you can pronounce his name?

With retirement this identity is lost.

But all tied in with that identity is your importance. As an assistant to Mr. Jones you were the best one he ever had. And Plant 5 never saw an inspector as smart as you. If you ran the elevator or swept floors, gave the orders or counted the cash, you —to you—were a vitally important cog.

That is one of the great blessings human nature showers upon us all . . . this conviction that we are important.

But for most people this importance has attached almost exclusively to the job.

Along with the identity, the importance is lost too when retirement comes. You must sally forth and get a new supply of both.

The world is crying for you to do it.

We CAN save our ELMS

After years of testing by various midwestern universities, state departments of agriculture, conservation departments and others cooperating, it was found that it was possible to get protection from Dutch Elm disease without toxicity.

Every owner of elm trees should start a complete control program now for the prevention of Dutch Elm disease. Only by making practical use of the latest scientific research information can the elm be saved.

Surveys in infected areas have consistently proved that proper control programs can save the elms.

Mariners Take to the Sea Off Connecticut

19 Local Scouts In Youth Program

A square rigger and a 61-foot schooner are serving as home and classroom for 19 area girls this week.

They are among the 29 Mariner Scouts, Ship 334, who are attending the youth training program at Mystic Seaport, Mystic, Conn.

The girls undergo intensive seamanship training, living aboard and acting as crew for either the training ship, the Joseph Conrad, or a 61-foot schooner, the Brilliant. The Conrad, permanently anchored in the harbor, serves as a practical classroom for the 10 first-year students of the program.

The nine girls returning for their second year will spend their week aboard the Brilliant, actually sailing the 61-foot craft. Sailing experience for the first-year girls comes with the use of dinghies.

AS THE ship's crew, the scouts do all the routine ship's work, aid the ship's cook, and stand watches. The captain and mates provide instruction in sailing, rowing, basic seamanship, and other shipboard procedures.

The girls also have a chance to learn about charts, the compass, piloting, the weather, marlinspike seamanship and other basic nautical skills. The captain and mates are all members of the U. S. Coast Guard.

MYSTIC SEAPORT is a reconstructed old seafaring community. Besides the two training ships, the harbor contains dozens of other historic watercraft. Among them are the Charles W. Morgan, last of the old-time whalers, the Danish ketch Gundel which in 1948 brought a group of Latvian refugees to U. S. shores in a voyage for freedom, and another schooner, the Bowdoin.

The streets of the old New England town are lined with the shops and lofts from which the old whalers, clippers and schooners were equipped.

This is the third year area mariners have gone to Mystic for the training rpogram. The program is open to all recognized youth groups, boys ages 13-18 and girls 15-18.

CREW ON the Brilliant includes:

Crew for the Conrad includes: Paula Currier of 1006 N. Stratford, Lynn Koenig of 1604 E. Frederick, Sally Jo McCrantic of 1002 N. Dryden, Susan Morrow of 1011 N. Evergreen, Jane Nichol of 1430 W. St. James, Franci and Nancy Palmatier of 408 S. Patton, Barb Schultheis of 826 N. Harvard, Kathryn Waflfe of 1154 N. Dryden, Debbie Yates of 903 N. Vail, Becky Blaine of 2107 E. Fremont, and Becky Shelley of 357 S. Derbyshire, all of Arlington Heights; and Candy Scalpone, Box 348, R.R. 3, Palatine.

GOING WITH the girls are Mrs. Clare Sargol, 1770 Lee Court, and Mary Alice Hamilton, 15 S. Linden, both of Palatine, and Susan Yates, 903 N. Vail, Arlington Heights.

Also attending the sailing school are nine girls from Winnetka, Burlington, Skokie, Park Ridge, Morton Grove and Elgin, all members of Ship 334. (B 10

LINDA AND SUE Hamilton, 16 and 17 years old, are among 29 Mariner Scouts from the northwest area who are spending this week at Mystic, Conn., attending a seamanship training program. Packing their duffle bags, they were allowed to take only regulation uniforms and a few other necessary items to spend the week aboard ship. The girls live at 15 S. Linden Ave., Palatine. 32 'Strong' Candidates In Search for College Head

A group of 32 "strong" candidates for president of the new northwest area community college has been named in a preliminary selection.

The group includes 10 who are now college presidents.

This was the report from Dr. George Olson, chairman of the presidential selection screening committee. Olson is former superintendent of Lyons Township High School and Junior College and headed a similar selection committee for Trident College, the first new comprehensive community college district in Cook County, covering Elmwood Park, Proviso and Leyden Townships.

THE NEW northwest area Community College District 301, approved by voters March 27, is the second comprehensive and independent community junior college district in Cook County.

Olson has notified the prospective candidates that a group of six or seven final candidates will be named by Aug. 26. The 32 in the preliminary group have been asked to send any supplemental information they feel would be of help to the committee and the college board in making the final selection.

The candidates were told the final group of nominees would be asked to come to Palatine for personal interviews with the selection committee and the college board. The college district will pay expenses for the interview trips.

OLSON IS expected to report the names of the final group of candidates to the college board at its meeting Thursday, Aug. 26, in the administration offices of High School District 214, 799 W. Kensington Road, Mount Prospect.

The college board last Thursday agreed to ask that Dr. Olson and his committee bring credentials for other candidates who might be "close" in the final selection of six or seven.

3 Area Men Serve In Mercy Crusade

Three area men have been named group leaders in the commerce and industry division of the Chicago area's first Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy.

They are Joseph R. Hendrix, 2008 Eastman Court, Arlington Heights, chairman of the auto manufacturing and sales group; Paul E. Collins, 243 Brookdale, Palatine, and Harvey P. Cleven, 3 E. Berkshire, Mount Prospect, co-chairman of the savings and loan group.

Hendrix is regional manager of the Buick division of General Motors Corp., Collins is president of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association, and Cleven is president of Community Savings and Loan Association, Chicago.

THEY WILL enlist leading businessmen in their fields to help organize employee solicitation campaigns.

The new Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy, the Chicago area's largest charitable drive, will cover Cook and DuPage counties and part of Lake County (Ill.) It combines the fund-raising efforts of 55 suburban community chests and united funds affiliated with the Suburban Community Chest Council, the Community Fund of Chicago, and the Mid-America Chapter of the Red Cross.

The Metropolitan Crusade will open Sept. 30 with a goal of $20,937,000. The funds will help finance the services of almost 700 voluntary health and welfare agencies in the metropolitan area. (B-10

Arlington Leads Fine Collections

Arlington Heights led local communities in fines reimbursed for the month of June by the Circuit Court of Cook County.

Arlington Heights collected $3,576. Palatine collected $2,500, Wheeling, $1,497; Rolling Meadows, $1,329; Buffalo Grove, $315; Inverness, $46. All the communities are in the north suburban second municipal district.

EVANSTON collected $6,687 to lead the communities in the district. Skokie was second with $5,209.50.

45th Brigade Plans Salute to Villages

The 45th Artillery Brigade, whose headquarters are located at the Central Road Nike site in Arlington Heights, will present a musical salute to Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows and surrounding communities at the Nike site next Thursday, Aug. 26.

For the occasion, the Fifth U. S. Army Band from Fort Sheridan will perform an hour-long concert beginning at 7 p.m.

THE CELEBRATION is being staged by the 45th Brigade as a tribute to the local communities for their support of, interest in, and cooperation with the brigade for the past year. During that time many local merchants, civic and business leaders, school officials and groups, social clubs and organizations have toured the brigade facilities. The brigade has been invited to participate in holiday and anniversary celebrations in the area.

The concert will be conducted outside the helicopter hangar at 45th Brigade Headquarters.

From Emma McClain, Bakersfield, California: I remember the old days of my childhood when we lived in a large two story log house with three huge fireplaces.

A most pleasant recollection is that of Dad bringing in Yams he had buried in a pit before the first snowfall. He would put them in an old iron Dutch oven and place it in the fireplace. Covered with embers, the yams would roast and be dripping with thick syrup. I wish I could bake one like that today.

We also would pop corn in a wire popper over the flames, while listening to Dad tell stories about his childhood days in Georgia. He was raised on a plantation and knew the hardships of the Civil War. I wish I could remember his stories in greater detail.

When we were ready for bed, Dad would tuck us four youngsters in a big old feather bed and cover us for the night. I remember going to sleep with the sound of a howling wind and the knowledge that come sleet or snowfall, we were safe and warm.

Best...and next best!

The best car you can buy today is a new 1965 Cadillac. The second best is a late model, previously owned Cadillac. In your authorized dealer's current selection you're sure to find one in your price range.

Surveys of automobile popularity have for many years revealed that people consider Cadillac to be the finest car in the world. This is, we think, as it should be—for no other automobile offers such a splendid combination of beauty, luxury, smoothness of ride, brilliant performance and superb handling. The most magnificent interpretation of these unique qualities is, of course, the 1965 Cadillac. But, if you are not yet ready for a new Cadillac, a previously owned Cadillac, regardless of age or prior service, represents a truly outstanding and lasting value. And many late model Cadillacs offer equipment and conveniences still not to be found in many other new cars. See your authorized Cadillac dealer soon. He is the one man who can best satisfy your fine car needs—and he will do everything possible to make your ownership of the Standard of the World a richly rewarding motoring experience.

Teacher Gets On-the-Job Training in Theatre

Hopes Experience Will Aid Students

by MICHAEL HESS
Staff Writer

An Arlington Heights woman has just returned to earth.

From a frantic theatrical constellation she has plunged back to solid academic terra firma.

Miss Lyovonne Trad, 505 W. Euclid Ave., spent the summer as assistant manager of the Studebaker Theatre, Chicago. Next week she resumes her duties as an Arlington High School speech and English teacher and director of extracurricular speech activities.

"This Was Burlesque," a reincarnation of old-time burly-q starring elder stripper Ann Corio, was the production Miss Trad assisted. Her initial day on the job was July 1; the show opened July 6.

"DURING THAT first week," recalls Miss Trad, "I helped the press agent, arranged theatre parties and filled mail orders." Her whole summer was spent handling a similiar multitude of details.

"After 'Burlesque' began I had no specific duties and there were times when I seemed to do nothing but answer the phone. Questions or problems came up every day, and when they did I'd try to settle and answer them. That's how I learned."

Center of Miss Trad's hot weather world was room 308 of the Fine Arts Building on South Michigan Avenue. There, in a high-ceilinged, dully-yellowed, glass-fronted office, she worked with advisor, instructor and superior, Anne Eddie Gray.

Miss Gray is a creature of the stage. She taught dramatics at Fordham, Loyola and Northwestern Universities and has founded three stock companies. Since 1960 she has served as the Studebaker's assistant press agent and manager.

"I DON'T CARE about the heat," offers Miss Gray, waving an arm toward a broiling sun streaming through the picture windows. "I just won't hang curtains and give up this magnificent view. I love it!"

Continued Miss Gray: "It's been tremendous having Lyovonne here; it reminds me of my preparation for a master's degree in theatre arts the way she's learned. She's been such a great help —."

A telephone interrupts. "Studebaker Theatre . . . Yes, Ooooh, hello," and Miss Gray swivels eagerly to her desk. "The greatest spot just burst open, two spots, and they'd be just perfect for you, darling."

The great spots were explained while Miss Trad told more abut her summer.

"I WANTED to do this because I didn't know anything about the business side of professional theatre. Because of this summer I now feel better prepared to teach students about aspects of the profession I now know first hand.

"One of the major things I did was to help collect information for the New York agent of 'The Subject Was Roses' which will open here in late November.

"We got information on hotels in Chicago, bus and train schedules, baggage and express rates and times, what type of ads the newspapers and TV stations use, which papers use colored ads and when they want them. It came out to be something like a small book.

"Also, we contacted the columnists — Irv Kupcinet, Herb Lyon, Maggie Daly — to find out what type of blurbs they could use. That agent should have very little to do once he gets here!"

THEN THE Arlington teacher related a crisis which developed on opening day of "This Was Burlesque."

Shortly before the first curtain it was discovered that no one had made arrangements to have leading lady Corio's gowns pressed for the performance. She had nearly 20 costume changes each night and couldn't go on unless her garments were ready.

"There was a meeting," Miss Trad remembers. "The producer, director, press agent, stage manager and Miss Gray were there. Everyone was frantic. Only two hours before the show began, and no one knew what to do."

Then Miss Trad jokingly suggested that they buy an iron and simply press the clothes themselves.

"THEY SEEMED delighted with the idea," states Miss Trad. "There was some confusion over where to buy the iron and who should buy it and use it, but they did and the costumes were ready. Much of the summer was like that."

Then Anne Eddie Gray got off the phone and quickly related "inside" stories on the burlesque company and crew, Chicago's theatre history, various reviewers including Claudia Cassidy, performers in other shows, theatre of the absurd and the recent $30,000 remodeling of the main floor seats.

"There was one girl in 'Burlesque' who was amazing and I'd try to catch her act every night." Described Miss Gray: "She had tassels attached to her and, without using her hands, she could twirl them in different directions at the same time. What muscular control! What talent!"

Both the Studebaker manager and her assistant were enthusiastic about the bill for the upcoming season. "I think it's very exciting," said Miss Trad, "especially 'Subject Was Roses.' There's hope for Chicgo theatre when we get such good shows with original Broadway casts."

REVIEWING HER summer, Miss Trad commented on the effect on her personal ideas about theatre and the comparison between professional and educational threatre:

"I don't think my basic attitudes toward theatre have changed. I still think it's extremely important and that it can be very valuable to society in general.

"However, I discovered that professional theatre isn't as glamorous as I thought it would be. These people are more high powered, they move at a faster pace. There's a lot of hard work in the theatre and nearly continual pressure.

"Perhaps this experience has cured me of wanting to go into professional theatre. It was exciting and fun and frantic but, well, I don't know, I might go into it someday but, well I just don't know."

MISS TRAD thought wistfully about leaving her summer completely behind her. Then she continued:

"This summer was personally very rewarding for me. I hope that because of it I'll be able to give more to my students, to answer more of their questions, and do a better job with the plays I direct.

"There isn't a very direct relationship between professional and academic theatre. Working with students who are very anxious to learn and are inexperienced is more of a challenge. I hope that what I've gained will permit me to enrich their experiences."

SHE CONCLUDED: "The summer that I've had would be of considerable value to anyone in academic theatre who is interested in a broader view and enriched background. It can be wonderful."

A summer such as the past one could also be of value to anyone interested in working and traveling and living on that other planet, that constellation called The Stage. (A15

THEATRE LIGHTS SHINE from an empty house as Lyovonne Trad (left) observes another aspect of stage practice as pointed out by Ann Eddie Gray. Miss Gray, former college instructor and former summer stock director, is now assistant press agent and manager of Chicago's Studebaker Theatre, a post she has held since 1960. Miss Trad, an Arlington High School speech-English teacher, recently completed a summer of work as the Studebaker's assistant manager. Under Miss Gray's supervision, Miss Trad learned of the other-world atmosphere of professional theatre. (Staff Photo)

Top Plays Set for Studebaker Season

The 1965-66 schedule of plays set to open at the Studebaker Theatre is every bit as "tremendous" as Lyovonne Trad and Anne Eddie Gray indicate.

Those shows coming to Chicago are still running on Broadway; recipients of rave reviews, they will be classed among the best of the year. This season's play bill includes:

"The Owl and the Pussycat" starring Eartha Kitt and Russell Nype. This two-character love story involving a prostitute and bookstore clerk will run from Sept. 28 to Nov. 20.

"The Subject Was Roses," running from Nov. 29 to Jan. 22, has already received the Pulitzer Prize, Drama Critics and Tony awards. It stars the original Broadway cast of Jack Albertson, Martha Scott and Martin Sheen.

THE NATIONAL Reoprtory Theatre company will open Jan. 27. The N.R.T. run will end sometime near the end of February and will feature some of the best in classic and modern drama.

A play for March and April is as yet unscheduled. Most likely Studebaker presentations for those two months are "The Odd Couple," now starring Art Carney and Walter Mathau, "Absence of a Cello," "Baker Street," or "Kismet."

Set for a May 2 opening and extended run is "Luv." This satiric comedy now on Broadway stars Anne Jackson, Allan Larkin, and Eli Wallach. Appearing in the Chicago production will be Tom Bosley and Dorothy Loudon. Former comedian Mike Nichols, who stars in his own right with partner Elaine May, will direct.

Ticket information for all presentations can be obtained by calling Mis Gray at 922-2973 or writing to Anne Gray, Room 308, 418 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago. Benefit or theatre parties may be arranged in the same manner. (A15

6 Residents Lose Driving Privileges

Driving while intoxicated was cited as reason for the revocation of driver's licenses for three area residents this week. A total of six residents lost their licenses.

The other three local drivers had their licenses taken because of three moving traffic offenses within a 12-month period.

Another 15 drivers had their licenses suspended for getting three reckless driving convictions within a year.

Probationary permits to drive were granted to seven drivers with less than a 62-point accumulation. Their licenses had previously been suspended.

THOSE WHOSE licenses were revoked were Clater Hilbert, 801 E. Central Road, Arlington Heights, and Eugene J. Kereszturi, 621 Larkdale, and Theodore Lambert, 903 Golfview Park, Mount Prospect, all for driving while intoxicated, and David L. Jack, 791 Brantwood, Elk Grove Village; Clarence J. Paul, 506 S. Ioka, Mount Prospect, and Merle Smith, 371 Red Oak, Bensenville, all with three violations.

Those having their licenses suspended were Carl D. Brandson, 309 W. Campbell, and Phillip C. Gorman, 1821 Patton, Arlington Heights; Dale M. Hoagland, 213 N. School St., Mount Prospect; John C. Heinritz, 40 Woodcrest, Elk Grove Village.

Raymond H. Teichman, 306 W. Circle Drive, Prospect Heights; Edward A. Carlsen, 519 Greenwood Road, Northbrook; Guadalupe Cavazos, 46 N. Milwaukee, Wheeling; Patrick F. Farrelly, 658 E. Dundee Road, and Lester E. Tuttle, 490 W. Daniels, Palatine; Roy V. Marzano, 36 Somerset Lane, Roselle; Josef Klein, Route 1, Prairie View.

FRANK A. BARZSO, 4N358 Pine Green, and Chester E. Zako Jr., 226 N. Orchard St., Bensenville; Harvey B. Blain, 4N706 Mill Road, Addison; Rogelio Garza, 6N355 Catalpa, Wood Dale.

Those receiving probationary permits included George C. Armstrong, 136 E. Jonquil Ter., Arlington Heights; Jack L. Maddox, 372 Newport Road, Schaumburg; William R. McKinley, 2580 Lawson Road, Northbrook; Robert M. Mobus, 409 N. Forest Ave., Mount Prospect; Charles E. Splithoff, 104 Elm Lane, Streamwood; Jim F. Cofield, 431 Moreland Ave., Addison, and Arthur F. Weichmann, 116 Orchard, Bensenville.

Polio Decline

Paralytic polio cases in the U. S. dropped from 21,300 in 1952 to only 95 last year.

Railway Workers

U. S. railroads employ more than 70,000 women, 14 per cent of whom have 30 or more years of service.

HOME ACCIDENTS ARE COVERED BY

Paddock Publications

Suburbanite Emergency Protection Personal Accident Policy

ISSUED EXCLUSIVELY TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS AND THEIR FAMILY HOUSEHOLD MEMBERS

- Each member of the family spends the greater part of every 24-hour period at home and far more accidents occur here than anywhere else. Falls on stairs, floors, rugs, in the bathroom, from chairs and ladders, cause injuries to many people. Cuts and burns through the simplest of household chores are very common. Power lawn mowers seem to be an extreme hazard.
- The entire family should have this protection—man, woman and children.
- Policy will help pay those expenses resulting from bodily injury—whether simple or serious—when accidents strike at home, while traveling, at work, on the farm, at school, or at play.
- Subject to its provisions, the policy includes indemnity for: Loss of Life, from $500 to $10,000; Loss of Limb, $250 to $10,000; Loss of Sight, $175 to $10,000; Total Disability, up to $500, pro-rated on a daily basis; First Aid, up to $5 for non-disabling injury; Ambulance, up to $10 for this service; Hospital, up to $200, pro-rated on a daily basis; X-Ray, up to $10 for injury examination.
- Issued without medical examination.
- No age limits (Specific Loss and Total Disability Indemnities are reduced fifty per cent (50%) when insured is or becomes age 70 or over).
- Pays in addition to other personal accident insurance carried.
- Pays on work accidents that are covered by State Compensation Laws.
- Specific Loss Indemnities increase in value ten per cent (10%) each year during first 5 years of consecutive renewal.
- The policy is issued by Old Republic Life Insurance Company, Chicago, Illinois. Protection begins at NOON on the actual date of issuance of the policy.

Creekside Park May Raise Problems, Officials Fear

Long-range effects of development of an Ivy Hill creekside park continued to be explored by village and park board officials this week.

While moving forward with plans for a park on McDonald Creek land donated by builders Meister-Neiberg, local officials worried whether acceptance of the Ivy Hill land would set off a chain reaction of donations from other builders with similar McDonald Creek problems.

For the park district, this might mean too many string-bean-like creek parks and a shortage of donated land for more conventional park use.

For the village it might mean taking on a mammoth job in keeping the creek flowing, for the park district has said it will not accept the Meister-Neiberg donation unless the village agrees to maintain the creek bed.

PLAN COMMISSION members hit upon a partial solution to the "chain reaction" problem after hearing a report on the Ivy Hill park matter from Charles Cronin, who serves on both the plan commission and the park board.

Cronin said the park board is accepting in principle the Ivy Hill donation, but wants direction from the plan commission and village as to acceptance of other creek land. He said the park board would really prefer more standard donations in the future.

Plan commission members discussed the matter and the creek drainage problem in general with John Best of the engineering department and some said they thought only partial credit should be given in the future for donation of creek lands.

"PERHAPS ONLY 40 per cent credit," commission chairman Harold Carlson estimated.

Further, they hinted, the park board might be doing the developer a favor in accepting the land anyway. Best told the commission it was his opinion that if the park district did not take over the creek bed the builder could be required to put in storm sewers. This would be at the builder's sole expense, Best said.

Best also told the plan commission, however, that in his opinion the best way to handle the creek drainage was to leave it in the creek bed rather than enclose it in a drainage pipe.

"We could use a pipe and one or more retention basins," he said. "But every once in a while I go out and look at the retention basins that we have and decide they're not the best solution." (A

Rights Group Plans Neighborhood Meeting

The first in a series of neighborhood meetings to discuss the implications to Arlington Heights of the Negro revolution will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Frisbie, at 8:30 p.m. today (Thursday).

The neighborhood meetings are an educational service of the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee.

Residents attending will hear and discuss a tape recorded interview, "Let's Face the Facts," with two Chicago sociologists. They will discuss the effect of intergration on various communities.

"FEAR, IN the suburbs, generally means only one thing, that property values will go down," commented Mrs. Frisbie. On the tape, Dr. Paul Mundy of Loyola University and Dr. St. Clair Drake of Roosevelt University assure listeners that research done on whether Negro move-ins cause property values to fall shows that—on the contrary—values usually remain stable or even move upward when there is no panic.

"The committee has said it is not agitating for social change, but helping to prepare the community for the inevitable changes that the social revolution in the United States is certain to bring as Negroes are accorded their full rights as citizens," added Mrs. Frisbie.

Organizations wishing to borrow a copy of the tape for use at meetings may contact Mrs. Frisbie at CL 3-8485.

School Smeared By Vandals

Vandals smeared an oily, red substance over the entrances and windows at Wlson School, 15 E. Palatine Road, over the weekend, Principal Robert Parsons told Arlington Heights police.

In addition, numerous holes were punched in the blacktop playground area.

Recent outbreaks of vandalism at Arlington Heights schools prompted the District 25 school board Monday to ask for a comprehensive report on losses. Supt. R. E. Clabaugh said he would prepare a report to the board on kinds of vandalism against schools, areas hit, costs and how the district handles vandalism. (A

Schools Consider Land 'Horsetrade'

Authority to "horsetrade" with a property owner adjacent to Wilson School was given Monday to Supt. R. E. Clabaugh Monday by the Arlington Heights Elementary School Board.

The land is held in trust in the First National Bank of Des Plaines. Clabaugh told the board the developer had proposed a land swap and agreed to install Highland Avenue east of Wilson School and a walkway connecting the grounds to Lillian Street, south of the school.

There are no present walks to the school from the south. Traffic must reach the school from Palatine Road on the north.

BOARD MEMBERS indicated pleasure over the potential improvements but reservations over the land swap. Under the developer's suggestion, the board would trade a 3,480-square-foot strip for a 2,940-square-foot strip.

Board members asked Clabaugh to seek a more favorable swap and report back. (A

Park-School Lease Drafted

Drafting of a lease for the Arlington Heights Park District to extend the Greenbrier School playground was approved Monday by the District 25 School Board.

School directors authorized their attorney to meet with the park district attorney to draft the lease for approval of both boards. The park board plans to extend the paved play yard to make it available for tennis, basketball and other activities.

Fire Department Adds 4 Men

HIRTH

SCHARRINGHAUSEN

Four men have been added to the paid division of the Arlington Heights Fire Department, according to Chief Harvey Carothers.

They are Donald Hirth, Edward Grant, Ronald Tossman and William Scharringhausen, The four have been given a 30-day course in fire department operations and have been assigned to one of the three shifts.

THE VILLAGE board authorized expansion of the force by three men this year; the fourth man fills a vacancy on the staff. Size of the full-time force now is 17 men, including the chief and four lieutenants.

With the additions, three men will be assigned each shift to the North Side station and two to the South Side station. The chief and one lieutenant — the fire inspector — are on duty in standard shifts, as opposed to the 24 hours on, 48 hours off of regular firemen.

The four new men received orientation courses locally, along with other firemen. One week was devoted to drill instruction led by the assistant chief of the Evanston department.

HIRTH, 33, is a former bricklayer. He lives with his wife and two children at 1036 S. Douglas Ave.

Grant, 22, former assistant manager at a food store, lives at 205 S. Maple Lane, Prospect Heights, with his wife and two children.

Tossman, 33, lives at 411 N. Evergreen Ave. with his wife and son. He is a former milk salesman.

A former carpenter, Scharringhausen, 29, lives at 379 Maple Lane, Elk Grove Village, with his wife and four children.

Arlington Greens

A board meeting of the Arlington Greens Community Assoc. will be held at the home of A. J. Tomaso, 635 E. Clarendon, Tuesday, Aug. 24, at 8:30 p.m.

The season for both men's and women's bridge will begin in September. Residents interested in an evening of social bridge, as regulars or substitutes, may call Len or Joy Hauskey, CL 9-0316.

A two-week business and pleasure trip took the Len Hauskey family to Charlotte, N. C., where Mr. Hauskey attended to "winning the bread" and the rest of the family swam, sunned and rested. The trip included sightseeing stops at Chattanooga, Tenn., Shenandoah Valley and Thomas Jefferson's Home. They returned to N. Haddow Court Aug. 4. Two days later they greeted the Edwin Tauge family of Hopkins, Minn. for a week's visit. Sightseeing in Chicago and the suburbs was holiday fare for the guests.

On Sunday, Jimmy Hauskey, celebrated his fourth birthday. Guests at the dinner party included grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Misic of Chicago and the Don Misic family of Arlington.

MORE VACATION returnees the first weekend in August were the Robert Larson family of N. Hickory. A stop back home to attend a high school class reunion in Minneapolis began the holiday. Then on to Brainard and Gull Lake for a week of summer cottaging, fishing and swimming. Back to Minneapolis and visits with parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Larson and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Scott, brought them homeward bound on Saturday of last week. On Sunday they greeted the vacation bound Penn Nelsons of Minneapolis. They stopped for a two-day visit.

All members of the Wilkiewicz family returned to their N. Dryden home Thursday, each enjoying a separate vacation. Seven-year-old Janet visited an aunt and family, the Donald Schneiders in Rockford; Peter was a guest in the Chicago home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stanis; Julie was in Forest Park with the Thomas Hereau family, while their mother, her mother, Mrs. Romeo Hereau, and cousin, Mrs. Ruth DeGrand of Chicago, chose Minnesota for their holiday, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Darold Fredrickson in Granite Falls, with a weekend of sightseeing in Minneapolis a part of their seven-day holiday.

FRIDAY ENDED A second vacation for the John Heyer family of E. Clarendon. Their 11-day trip included stops at Niagara Falls, Lake Champlain, Quebec, Montreal and Toronto in Canada.

In July, Mrs. Heyer, Steve and Connie motored to the Grayling, Mich. area for a week of summer cotttaging, fishing and swimming at Higgins Lake as guests of cousins Dr. and Mrs. Duane Heilbronn. They also stopped to visit the grandmother, Mrs. Marvin S. Heilbronn in Saginaw.

Still more vacation returnees last weekend were the Ernest Heebs and daughter, Kathy. Two weeks before, a flight to Clarksdale, Miss. for Mrs. Heebs and daughter began a visit with grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Garst. Swimming and relaxing was their holiday fare, while Mr. Heeb spent the same two weeks at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. on Reserve duty.

The family was intact Sunday to celebrate Kathy's first birthday. Grandparents, the August Heebs of Highland Park were on hand for the occasion.

Another birthday celebrant on Sunday was 6-year-old Lori Phillip. Attending the buffet supper in her E. Clarendon home were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Feller of Chicago, the Joseph Elbow family of Arlington, Les Burton family of Norridge and the Tom Feller family of Chicago.

Four-year-old David Woehlck also celebrated his birthday last weekend. A morning party in his N. Pine Court home was attended by the Damiano brothers, Freddie and Angie, Frankie Daletski, Ralph Sass, Trudy Ann Rateike, brothers and sisters, Bob and Mary Beth. A clown face cake delighted the young guests.

STILL ANOTHER birthday celebrant was 6-year-old Nancy Saemrow of N. Hickory. Guests at her Saturday afternoon party were Nancy Radcliffe, Eileen Hoffman, Daryl Reed, Jane Henricks, Gayle Schroeder, Cynthis Aksamit, Debbie Geiger, Marian Kagay, Linda Herbst, Judy Friese and the Farnan sisters, Valerie and Tammy. Later the family greeted Miss Delna Spitzak of Faribault, Minn., on a vacation visit in the area. The Robert Ahrend family of Wheeling were also Saturday dinner guests. Earlier in the week Mrs. Edna Lutzke and daughter, Sandra, were house-guests. The Saemrows took them for sightseeing trips to Chicago.

A flight home last Wednesday ended a three-week vacation for the Damiano brothers, Peter and Henry. They visited their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Probst in Naples, Fla., where they enjoyed swimming, surfing and shell collecting. Visiting with the Damianos Monday afternoon to hear of their holiday were the Kenneth Zeuschners of Morton Grove.

A surprise birthday dinner party was arranged Friday the 13th for the unsuspecting Mrs. Ron Lundell of N. Hickory. Joining them for the occasion at Mangam's on Beverly Lake were the Howard Schicks and the Bill Millers.

Michael Pettenuzzo of N. Dryden competed in the Plymouth Baseball Grand Slam last Wednesday evening at Pioneer Park. At the end of the evening, Mike carried home the second place trophy. On Saturday, Mike played left field for the Arlington All Star Team at Thillens Stadium in Chicago. The game with Lake Meadows Little Leaguers ended with a score of 1-0, Arlington winning.

The Red Nolte family of E. Olive arrived home Saturday fro ma two-week vacation. The couple and their sons, Jimmy and Bobby, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eaton in Shelton, Conn. A day in New York City and a tour of the fair, plus visiting in the Connecticut area, filled the bill for the family.

HICKORY MEADOWS

With ideal weather, a place to gather, juke box music for dancing and refreshments available, more than 60 couples attended the block party in Hickory Meadows Saturday evening. The affair was sponsored by the Civic Assoc. and provided ample opportunity for the many newcomers to get acquainted.

New residents in the Meadows are the Rev. Linas H. and Virginia Brown at 704 E. Jules. The family, former residents of S. Yale, moved to the Meadows in June. Their children are Fredrick, 20, attending school in Decatur; Christine, 19 who will be a sophomore at MacAlester College in St. Paul; Deborah, 17, will attend Wilmington College in Ohio; Robert 14, and Tim. almost 12, junior high students at Thomas. Rev. Brown is curate at St. Simon Episcopal Church on Kirchoff Road.

Just after moving in, the family motored to Washington, D. C., to visit a brother and family, the Robert C. Browns. Their week's stay included sightseeing tourist attractions. Their next stop was The School of Pastoral Care at Whitensville, Mass., where they spent the second week of their month's vacation. Next stop was Maine and Penobscot Bay, where they were guests of the Timothy Rhodes family. The family returned in time to get Robert and Tim ready for camp at Twin Lakes, Mich. (A

VIRGINIA TERRACE

A two-week Eastern vacation was concluded when Bob and Kay Roden and daughter, Kathy, returned Sunday to 1212 N. Illinois. They drove to New York, spent four days touring the World's Fair, toured New York City, the Empire State Building and the Statue of Liberty being highlights of the tour. Connecticut was the next stop. They visited friends in Norwalk, where they formerly resided. Seeing Niagara Falls both by day and night was another vacation thrill. The Rodens drove home through Canada.

Canada was the vacation site of Phillip and Pat Peterson and their two older daughters, Susy and Sally, 1433 N. Wilke. They spent 10 days in Canada at the New Moon Lodge, Morson, Ontario, Lake of the Woods, which they had to get to by boat, since the lodge is located on an island. The vacation was a treat for Phil who likes to fish (he caught a big one) and for Pat who didn't have to cook; meals were taken at the lodge. The Petersons returned Sunday night.

Arriving Monday to spend a week with Donald and Linetta Schmidgall, 1216 N. Race, were Chuck and Ida Butterfield from Minneapolis. Aug. 7 guests were Linetta's brother and family from Brainard, Minn.

HOSTESS AT a farewell coffee for Betty Cech on Aug. 11 was Shirle Husted, 1610 W. Olive. Bidding Betty farewell were Phyllis Fluhrer, Betty Sorensen, Joan Donath, Jo Rozdalovsky, Pierrette Leckie, Donna Garland and Helen Flesch.

The Cechs moved to Pittsburgh Thursday.

Returning home Thursday from a three-week vacation were Eugene and Mary Ellen Van de Merkt and children, John, Pat, and Larry, 1231 N. Wilke. On the combination visiting and camping trip, the first major stop was in Nogales, Ariz., where they visited Eugene's mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Town. California was the destination of the campers. There they visited Eugene's cousin and family, the Frank McKenzies. Tour highlights included seeing Grand Canyon, Petrified Forest, Painted Desert, a Navajo reservation and Disneyland.

Fred and Valerie Good and sons, Jimmy and Johnny, 1310 N. Illinois, returned Monday from a 10-day vacation trip to Seattle to visit Valerie's mother, Mrs. Marie Herbster.

The fashionable Abbey Resort in Fontana on Lake Geneva was selected by William and Jean Guderley and daughters, Jean and Gail, 1228 N. Yale, for their recent vacation. They returned Aug. 10 from the five-day vacation.

A TWO-WEEK Eastern vacation was enjoyed by Jack and Elma Harmon, 1430 N. Race. They drove to Mackinac Island, then to Montreal, Canada. Continuing on, they went to Cape Cod with Bar Harbor, Maine, and Hyannis Port being selected stops. New York was the final destination for Jack and Elma. They met their son, Bruce, at the John Whipple home, where he had been visiting the ex-Terrace friends. The Harmons returned Thursday.

Tom Clinite, son of the Rodney Clinites, 1244 N. Chicago, was 8 Aug. 12 and he was feted at a patio party on the 13th. Attending were Tony and Ronnie Roberts, Frank and Bill Ziegler and David Davis. Assisting with the party were Tom's sisters, Chris and Barbara, Donna and Denise Davis and Sharane Roberts.

On Aug. 15, Mike Flesch, son of the Kenneth Flesches, 1417 N. Chicago, was 6 and he celebrated at a party Saturday for Jack and Jimmy Kelley, Danny Kennedy, Jeff Teschner, and Mike's sisters and brother, Susan, Karen and Tom.

Sunday Mike's aunt, uncle and cousins, the Edwin Kielbasa family came from Chicago to help him celebrate.

A surprise baby shower was given for Dorothy Roser, 1447 N. Race, on Tuesday night by Ann Kennedy, 1425 N. Chicago. Guests included Phyllis Fluhrer, Pierrette Leckie, Helen Flesch, Dianne Rudolph, Sandy Teschner and Trudy Vonderheide, all neighbors of Dorothy. Also present were Dorothy's mother and mother-in-law, Mrs. Cecil Collier and Mrs. Sam Roser, both of Chicago, and two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Roger Collier of Calumet City and Mrs. Sheldon Staubitz of Palatine.

ATLANTIC CITY was the vacation spot for Richard and Ruth Frost and children, Cheryl and Scott, 1302 N. Illinois. They returned Monday from the 12-day trip. In Atlantic City, the family stayed in a hotel. Richard and Ruth enjoyed some of the night clubs; the family enjoyed seeing the steel pier and other points of interest. On the way home, the Frosts visited relatives in Mount Carmel, Pa.

Spending the weekend in Springfield were Eugene and Marie Sharp and daughter, Debbie, 1425 N. Wilke. They stayed with Eugene's mother, Mrs. Viola Sharp, and also visited brothers, sisters, nieces and nephews.

A number of short trips were enjoyed by Jim and Janice Murphy and children, Gail, Jimmy, and Christine, 1326 N, Chicago, during Jim's recent two-week vacation. Highlight was a three-day visit to the Wisconsin Dells area. Taking the boat ride and viewing Story Book Land were two points of interest in the Dells. They also visited the Ringling Circus Museum in Baraboo. In Baraboo, the family took a short airplane ride, a first for the Murphy children. After returning home, they spent a day at Santa's Village, visited in DeKalb and went to Holiday Park.

John and Mimi Mabie, 1243 N. Race, attended the wedding of their godchild, Craig Tribolet of Highland Park, when he married Nancy Claycombe in Indianapolis on July 31.

Visiting Dave and Nancy Smith, 1259 N. Chicago, this week is Nancy's grandmother, Mrs. Lottie Gill of Chicago.

CHARLES AND Diane Moser and children, Chuck, Mike, Valerie, Michelle, K. C., Mark, and Ricky, 1418 N. Illinois, spent last week vacationing at Elkhart Lake, Wis. They had a cottage on the lake and enjoyed the water activities, plus horseback riding and go-carting. Their nephew, "Spike" Kane of Des Plaines visited them during their vacation on the lake. On the way home, the family toured the Wisconsin State Fair in Milwaukee.

Three Shellander birthdays were celebrated Sunday at a his July 14 birthday; Al Shellanders', 1716 W. Olive. Three-year-old Tom was celebrating his July 14 birthdays; Al Shellander's Aug. 17 birthday was celebrated as well as the Aug. 3 birthday of Al Shellander Sr. of Chicago. Present in addition to the senior Shellanders were Tom's aunt, uncle, and cousins, the James Schillings of Glenview.

Weekend guests of Dick and Shelba Lefort, 1246 N. Yale, were Shelba's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Moore, now of Galesburg but soon to be moving to California. Shelly Lefort returned with her aunt and uncle to Monmouth to visit her grandmother, Mrs. Stanley Halley, this week.

Bob and Nancy Nelson and daughters, Karol and Janet, 1251 N. Race, spent last week in Florissant, Mo., visiting friends. The Nelsons formerly lived there.

Enjoying a vacation while staying at home last week were the Paul Krewers, 1256 N. Illinois. Paul, Jan and children, Julie, Janine, Johnny and Jo Anne, spent a day in Milwaukee visiting the zoo. On the way home they stopped at Holy Hill near Hartford. Picnicking and swimming were enjoyed one day in Crystal Lake. Jan and the children went by train so the children could have their first train ride. Paul met them there. A day at Santa's Village and a nature hike at Deer Grove were other vacation highlights.

CELEBRATING his eighth birthday Aug. 15 was Bob Kruse, son of the Dale Kruses, 1518 Clarendon. A party was given for Bob Saturday attended by Jimmy Kilby, Tom Miller, Bob Ninneman, Scott Johnson, Nick and Johnny Kautz and Bob's sister and brother, Sue and Russ. The children attended the movie at the Arlington Theatre and then returned to Kruses' for refreshments.

Aug. 16 was the fifth birthday of Steve De Quaker, son of the Don De Quakers, 1325 N. Wilke, and he celebrated at a family party Sunday attended by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Plzak of Palatine and Mrs. Jean De Quaker of Elmwood Park, his uncles, Richard and John Plzak of Palatine, and his sisters, Donna and Lori.

Visiting Lyle and Virginia Miller, 1525 N. Clarendon, for 10 days is their niece, Cheryl Lindquist of Kingsford, Mich.

Spending Sunday with the Hugh Bredenbecks, 1706 W. Oakton, were the Charles Millhousers, former next-door neighbors. The families enjoyed an outdoor barbecue.

Saturday night guests of the Jerry Pollards, 1400 N. Yale, were Nancy's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cook of Rolling Meadows, and her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Price of East Moline. The Prices' 2-year-old daughter Jennifer, is visiting the Pollards this week.

Bill and Freya Jones, 1227 N. Illinois, went to Freeport Thursday to visit Bill's sister and husband, the Gordon Rosses. Sunday they visited another sister, Mrs. Jacqueline Klein and children in Skokie.

Monday Bill returned to work at Chandler's, only this time at Randhurst, a change of location for him.

Bob and Shirle Husted, with Debbie, Robert and John, traveled to West Allis, Wis. Sunday to attend the Wisconsin State Fair. They saw Al Hirt in a stage presentation while there. (A

How Much Should College Tax Before Its Opening?

ROTARY CLUB OF Arlington Heights last week presented another $500 check toward to club's pledge to Northwest Community Hospital expansion fund. That's Rotarian Hal Rose, left, chairman of the hospital's building and grounds committee, receiving the check from Rotary Pres. Raines.

Should the new community college district tax next year to its full 15 cents per $100 valuation, or is it fair to taxpayers to ask them to pay the full authorized tax bill when the college is not yet open?

This was the problem facing the Community College District 301 board Thursday, with opinions varying to extremes.

At the heart of the problem is lack of previous cost experience by the new junior college district, created by voters on March 27.

After lengthy discussion on the "fairest" method of setting tax rates, member James Hamill suggested board members "do some homework" to determine what they think will be needed in 1966-67.

TO FIND WHAT type of "unexpected" expenses might be incurred, board members agreed to invite one or two representatives from other recently formed community colleges to their meeting August 26. These representatives should come from schools which have not set up "instant campus" type of programs through leasing arrangements. Schools which have waited to establish college classes in their own buildings were to be sought. Such schools would have a similar background of experience to that of District 301, board members indicated.

The complete authorized junior-college tax rate of 11 cents per $100 valuation for education and four cents per $100 valuation for building are far below comparable elementary high school tax rates in the area. Tax rates for elementary and secondary schools in Palatine, Schaumburg, Elk Grove and Wheeling Township are all about $2 per $100 valuation.

This is the same area to be served by the community college.

Favoring a maximum or near maximum tax rate was A. M. "Bud" Bernstein, chairman of the board financial committee. "We have to take a conservative tack," he stressed. "We would have real criticism if we tried to gamble (with low taxes) and then had to restrict the program," he added.

SEVERAL BOARD members, including board secretary Mrs. Jessalyn Nicklas and Richard L. Johnson stressed there would be no major educational expenses until near the date of the college opening. A maximum educational tax rate could not be justified for the 1966-67 school year, Johnson stated.

Johnson stressed that building a surplus for the purchase of a school site in the event a college land and construction referendum failed would be an error. "If a building referendum fails we didn't sell it properly and we should go back to the voters in 30 days," Johnson said. Hamill agreed that the referendum should be the source for site purchase money and construction funds, with the bond issue resubmitted to voters if it failed to pass in its original form.

Based on estimates of the Area Community College Committee, which worked for establishment of the college district, the college building should cost about $7.2 to $7.5 million, including site. Up to 75 per cent of this amount would be paid by state and federal funds, leaving a balance of less than $2 million to come from local taxes. This would mean a tax rate of about two cents or less per $100 valuation to pay for construction bonds.

A spot check of board members at the meeting showed that the average tax rate they might approve would be 11 cents per $100 valuation instead of the maximum 15 cents rate.

ALL MEMBERS agreed that the full authorized four cents building fund should be levied. The best way of supporting the college educational program seemed to show a majority of board members willing to use about seven cents of the 11 cents educational rate.

These rates would provide $511,000 for the educational fund and $280,000 for the building fund, or a total of about $800,000 for operation of the district from July 1, 1966, to June 30, 1967. The college has a $100,000 grant from the state for the operation of the district until next June.

The college board is aiming for a September, 1967, opening date for the school. With the start of the educational program taxes would be supplemented by state aid of about $350 per student and tuition of $200 to $250.

The actual tax levy is to be adopted after the public hearing on the 1966-67 budget. This meeting is set for 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 14, in the college office, 34 W. Chicago Ave., Palatine.

This budget covers expenditure of the $100,000 state grant plus an additional $16,000 which might be received in government subsidies or interest on investments. The budget is not the basis for the 1967 tax levy for District 301. (B10

Boys Race Homemade Sailboats

Tuesday morning a post-swim lesson activity was held at Pioneer and Recreation Park wading pools. The Arlington Heights Park District sponsored a boat regatta for young boys who owned sailboats and desired to sail them in an over-sized bathtub.

Approximately 15 boys attended the sailing races at Pioneer pool, where John Thompson captured first place with his home-made sailboat. Winning second and third places were respectively, James Winkler and Frank Buckingham. All three boats which placed were products of the park district's model-making class. Miss Marilyn Hookum instructed all classes at four different locations.

First place winner at Recreation pool was the result of a year-long effort by Kirk Stahnke, 15, of 110 S. Brighton. Second place went to Jim Cassidy, 10, 419 N. Hickory. (A

Economic Crisis in Rural Delta

Chicago to Get New Negro Migration?

THESE NEGRO RELIEF RECIPIENTS in Illinois, waiting for handouts of surplus food commodities, may soon be joined by hordes of fresh migrants from the Mississippi Delta region, where a farm labor crisis this summer may spur a new exodus of untrained, and largely untrainable, Negro cotton field hands northward to Illinois.

Farm Workers Look to City

by NOEL WORKMAN
(Special to Paddock Publications)

LELAND, Miss. — The civil rights movement in Mississippi this summer marched from voter registrars' offices to dusty cotton fields as a group of Negro farm hands ventured into the area of plantation labor relations by striking for higher pay.

The action struck at the heart of the Mississippi Delta's social and economic structure — the plantation. Its outcome could speed the exodus of unskilled, semi-literate rural Negroes from the Delta to Chicago and other urban centers. The majority of Chicago's in-migrant Negroes come from the Delta area.

Most Mississippi observers view moves to Memphis, Jackson or Greenville as intermediate moves as obsolete cotton field laborers search for economic survival as well as civil rights.

Thousands of untrained, and largely untrainable, Negroes will be added to already glutted urban relief rolls if more workers join the strike and forsake their only sources of income.

FIELD HANDS have been promised food, lodging and clothing by the Mississippi Freedom Labor Union but its several hundred dollar treasury offers little security as the organization urges workers to leave the fields.

As the strike finishes its first month, the situation is stalemated but the walkout must now grow radidly or die.

Shortly after the first walkout, the Rev. Art Thomas questioned its purpose. The Rev. Thomas is director of the National Council of Churches' Delta Ministry based in nearby Greenville.

"I don't see that they can gain by striking," he said. "If, say, 500 workers leave their jobs, there'll just be 500 more waiting to take their places, happy to get what they can—even if its not enough."

THE INITIAL wage and hour walkout was staged May 31 by a dozen resident farm machinery operators and about 70 field hands employed on the 1330 acre plantation of A. L. and W. B. Andrews about seven miles south of here and 18 miles southeast of Greenville.

Andrews evicted the strikers from his tenant houses. Credit furniture companies were quick to reposess much of the furniture placed on the road side. Washington County sheriff's deputies patrolled the area and Andrews obtained an injunction to "quarantine" the strikers from other farm workers.

Nonetheless, a second crew of 45 day field workers struck several days later at the much larger Dean and Company plantation adjacent to the Andrews place.

As the strike progressed, traditional day labor pick-up points in Greenville's Negro section were deserted as hundreds of day haul field hands stayed away from the fields in support of the strikers' $1.25 per hour minimum wage demand. Agricultural labor is exempt from the Fair Labor Standards Act (minimum wage laws.)

There was considerable uncertainty whether the empty labor buses resulted from worker sympathy with the strike or worker fear of reported threats from strike supporters.

MAYOR T. M. Pitts and law enforcement officials of nearby Indianola distributed leaflets to day laborers assuring them of protection "to do what you want within the law" following charges of intimidation.

Greenville's police chief W. C. Burnley Jr. charged strike supporters with "gross intimidation" of Negro drivers hauling cotton choppers to the fields.

Area planters acknowledge that a wide-spread strike could provide the most severe economic setback in this cotton and soybean producing area since the Depression era.

Or it could speed conversion "to full mechanization of the cotton crop." B. F. Smith, executive vice president of Delta Council, a powerful area agricultural and industrial development organization, said the threat of farm labor strife would hasten adoption of new chemicals and advanced weed control techniques.

He conceded that the striking machinery oprators "are essential."

One thing is clear. The civil rights movement, with its cries of "freedom now" has finally invaded the cotton fields where most Delta Negroes live and work.

THE STRIKE flies the banner of the Mississippi Freedom Labor Union, a little-known organization of undetermined strength fashioned by Mississippi Negroes and several civil rights organizations.

The MFLU has the active backing of the Delta Ministry, the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO), and the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party.

It is, ostensibly, a labor union. But labor unions are rare in Mississippi and almost unheard of within the regular framework of the civil rights movement.

Prior to the Andrews plantation strike, MFLU activities had been more closely associated with the non-union phases of civil rights work with picketing and demonstrations bearing little direct relation to wages.

One of the union's firebrand leaders is Mrs. Fannie Lou Hamer of nearby Ruleville A former field hand, Mrs. Hamer was the MFDP challenger last November for the congressional seat of Rep. Jamie L. Whitten and a participant in the present move to oust the Mississippi delegation from the House of Representatives.

SHE TOLD a farm labor group meeting last April in Greenville, that the MFLU "believes all work should be based on $1.25 an hour pay, an eight hour day with overtime, social security and limited to the 16 to 60 age bracket."

At an early June rally near the Andrews plantation, she praised the workers "for having the guts to strike." She told the 150 farm hands and civil rights workers attending that "a good whipping behind the bushes might convince" other laborers to honor the strike.

Delta farmers contend that Negro workers who live in rent-free houses actually earn more than $1.25 an hour. They note the workers are largely non-productive during the winter.

Strikers confirmed that during May, Andrews paid a $430 hospital and medical bill for the wife of one of the workers who later struck.

Andrews said he paid two drivers $5.50 a day and the rest $6. Cotton choppers, mainly members of drivers' families, said they were paid $3 a day. Demands for driver pay hikes to $9 a day or $1.25 an hour were rejected several times by Andrews prior to the strike.

The Negroes vacated Andrews' tenant houses with considerable reluctance.

THE 12 ORIGINAL strikers settled down in mid-June in a 16 foot by 22 foot war surplus tent pitched about four miles from the Andrews plantation.

Their families were housed in a training center operated by the National Council of Churches at Edwards, Miss., near Jackson. A week after the walkout strike, they returned to the Delta to live in the Greenville Industrial College where their household possession had been stored since Andrews' eviction.

Greenville city officials ordered the families to vacate the Negro trade school by July 1 because they were violating City Housing Code multiple family restrictions. City fathers Friday granted an additional two week "period of grace" at the request of the Rev. M. M. Morris, GIC president.

Meanwhile, strike supporters continued to discourage cotton choppers and those who transport them to the fields from providing the labor needed to hoe weeds from among the young cotton plants.

Andrews said strikers and civil rights workers frightened about 50 newly hired choppers from his property with jeers and catcalls. A busload of field hands also deserted him soon after the strike when elderly women among them were frightened by strike activity.

A STATE court injunction forbids loud language, more than four pickets at one time at the Andrews headquarters and signs larger than 30 inches square.

About 15 Negroes had marched on the road carrying signs urging support of the MFLU. The union, which claims as members many of the Andrews strikers, costs $1 to join with monthly dues of 50 cents.

In a petition for removal of the case to the jurisdiction of Federal District Judge Claude F. Clayton, the strikers claimed the injunction "has a chilling effect on free speech activities."

Also chilling to the strike was the firing of four shots over the heads of laborers gathered at a store near the farm the day after the walkout.

Judge Clayton later ruled that he was without jurisdiction in this case and remanded it to the state court.

As strike sympathy spread, Andrews operated his plantation with a half dozen white tractor drivers after several Negroes began working and later left the plantation. One of the new drivers is a woman, a situation almost unheard of in the Delta and the cause of much derision by striking Negroes.

"We can help when something like this is limited to one place," said one planter. "But if the problem spreads, there may not be enough help to go around."

RIGHT NOW, the problem belongs to MFLU and its a difficult one to solve.

The union has guaranteed food and lodging to strikers but the imminent eviction of those living in the Greenville Industrial College has leaders scrambling.

Money has been sought through COFO and the Delta Ministry to finance strike plans. Northern funds have been solicited but the treasury isn't bulging.

The current problem of the union is spreading a strike when a seasonal peak demand for day labor has already passed.

But, with weed control periods and picking seasons near, the MFLU will have its chances.

Planters and civil rights workers alike acknowledge that labor strife, in the long run, will cause remaining field hands to be replaced by chemical and flame cultivation and other mechanical means of weed control.

Cotton choppers will flee the fields and Mississippi for the industrialized "promised land" as the last vestiges of the system which brought their ancestors to America disappears.

Exclusive Report By Ex-Illinoisan

This special report was prepared by Noel Workman exclusively for Paddock Publications suburban newspapers.

As a "turncoat midwesterner" now working for a deep South daily newspaper, Workman is able to view many of the current developments in Mississippi with the dual advantage of a long-time northern point of view and a recently acquired Southern frame of reference.

A former resident of Illinois, Workman is the great grandson of the late William Busse of Mount Prospect, Cook County commissioner of roads for a half century and a prominent leader in civic and Republican Pary activities throughout northwest suburbs.

A University of Illinois graduate and Air Force veteran, he works for the Greenville, Miss., Delta Democrat-Times as a staff writer specializing in civil rights, education, and Mississippi river trade. Editor and publisher of the Democrat-Times is Hodding Carter, Pulitzer Prize journalist.

In addition, Workman has also done special assignment reporting for the New York Herald-Tribune; Memphis, Tenn., Press Scimitar; Little Rock, Ark., Arkansas Gazette; and United Press International news service, for which he is also Greenville correspondent.

47,549 Pupils Counted In District 214 Area

The number of elementary and high school students in High School District 214 showed an all-time high of over 47,000 at the clost of school in June.

Total listed enrollment of the four District 214 high schools was 8,185. Underlying grade schools, both public and parochial, had 39,364 students, or a total 47,549.

While these figures show enrollment, the actual number of students in District 214 schools probably varies by several hundred. The count includes 3,374 elementary students from District 15 who attend Rolling Meadows schools, but some of these students actually reside in the Palatine High School area.

SEVERAL OF THE Catholic elementary schools on the fringe areas have appreciable numbers of students who live outside of District 214. These schools include St. Colette, Rolling Meadows, with 656 students; St. Emily, Mount Prospect, with 982 students; St. Zachary, Des Plaines, with 575 students; and St. Thomas of Villanova, Palatine (Winston Park) with 299 students. The majority of students at St. Thomas and St. Emily do not live in District 214.

These students which swell the enrollment count probably are offset by the number of District 214 area high school students who attend St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights, and Sacred Heart of Mary High School, Rolling Meadows. Both of these Catholic high schools have a student enrollment from a wide northwest suburban area, but the majority of students live in the District 214 area.

Enrollment for the 1965-66 school year is expected to increase in all schools in the area. The increase in high school students in the four District 214 schools will be about 1,200. (ACM-E

Courses Planned In Office Skills

A new office occupations program will be offered this fall to senior students at Wheeling and Forest View high schools.

The course, taught in the business education department, gives students an opportunity to apply classroom skills "on the job." They spend half the day in school, half the day at work.

Work skills include performing secretarial tasks, typing, taking dictation, operating office equipment, and serving as a receptionist.

INSTRUCTORS MRS. Ada Songer at Wheeling High School and Mrs. Helen Graves at Forest View are contacting local businessmen for possible "work stations" for their students.

The course is open only to seniors who have had necessary business education curriculum as a background.

Mrs. Songer stressed that both boys and girls may take the class. "In fact," she informed, "we have had specific requests for boys."

Regular high school credits are given for the completion of the course.

Students interested in enrolling should contact their counselors at Wheeling High or Forest View. (ACM-E

Subdivision Plan Vetoed

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission last Wednesday turned down a request by D. A. Brown, 201 N. Schoenbeck Road, Prospect Heights, that the board approve subdivision of his 1.75-acre parcel into two lots.

Planners said they would not approve it until Brown agreed to dedication of land for extension of Olive Street through the property.

THE BROWN parcel lies in unincorporated Prospect Heights. Approval of Arlington Heights must be given because the land is within 1½ miles of the village boundaries.

Brown said he had already been given approval to subdivide by the county and by Wheeling and Mount Prospect, which also are less than 1½ miles from his land. (A (G

Firecrackers Thrown Into Convertible

Arlington Heights police are considering what action to take against two 19-year-old boys who they say admitted throwing firecrackers into a parked auto.

The car, a convertible owned by Bernard Kula, 709 S. Highland Ave., was parked at his home shortly after midnight Saturday. Kula reported a black car stopped and an occupant threw a firecracker in the rear seat of his car. It circled the block and the incident was repeated.

Police stopped the youths, one from Mount Prospect and the other from Arlington Heights.

Double Meaning

Since the rose ranks preeminent among all flowers in Iran, the word "gol" means both rose and flower in general.

Kids Compete in Park Gymnaramas

Gymnarama programs were held at Pioneer, Dunton and Dryden Parks last week. In each event, children demonstrated their skills for the second session of activities.

The program started with a tumbling and trampoline display under the direction of Tom Toman and Jack Romme. A demonstration of the modern dance activities for children ages six through teens also was on the agenda.

Cheerleading and baton work closed the evening's presentation. This activity for girls six through 13 was directed by Nanette Rathsam.

Handicrafts, model making, and jewelry making were on display during the program.

FIRST PLACE winners from Pioneer in the handicrafts division were: Wendy Seiler, Ann Porter, Ellen Guenther, Dotty Massey, Margaret Gabler and Linda Schnur. Second place winners were M. A. Spieker-man, Julie Porter, Maury Nerolia, Jan Butkin, Carol Johaack and Susan Emerick.

Third place winners were Jack Owen, Sue Piefer, Ed Kemper, Peg Pray, Linda Forch and Susan Wray. Honorable mentions went to Bill Foreman, Joy Schaad, Geoffrey Slagh, Missy Hemphill, Karen Forch and Barbara Hey.

The winners in model making were: first, Robert Enurich; second, Ed Kemper; third, Tom Hartnett. First place jewelry makers were Beth Brankem, Susan Winter and Joan Kadow. Second place went to Susan Melko, Phyllis Gens and Susan Estey. Third place winners were Mary Slagh, Julie Sorgatz and Terry Vanderholder, and honorable mentions went to Becky Branham and Bill Bardley. (A

Post Office Drivers Earn Safety Citation

The Arlington Heights Post Office vehicle fleet has been cited for meritorious safety performance by the Chicago regional director of the Post Office Department. The citation was issued to postal installations with improved accident prevention records in the fiscal year 1965.

Postmaster Virginia F. Dodge said, "Courtesy is the key to good vehicle operations and to patron respect which we have earned, as symbolized by this award."

The citation is an annual award presented to selected postal installations which have five or more vehicles. Evaluation is made on the basis of past performance standings. Improvement must be shown from previous experience, consisting of lower accident costs, fewer casualties and lesser number of vehicle accidents — or a perfect record.

IN PRESENTING the safety award to the post office, the regional director, Donald L. Swanson said:

"In today's hectic traffic, accident reduction is not easily accomplished. Despite the traffic and climate conditions in our region, your drivers demonstrated commendable skill in the performance of their duties."

In addition to this fleet award each of the vehicle operators in the Arlington Heights Post Office receives an individual safe driver award from the National Safety Council for each year without a preventable accident. (A

Parks Seek Edison Land

Land along the Commonwealth Edison high line between State and Buffalo Grove Roads is being sought for park use by the Arlington Heights Park District.

Park board member Charles Cronin told the plan commission last Wednesday the park wants to lease the high line land, which adjoins the Ivy Hill creekside park. Land for the park is being donated by developers Meister-Neiberg.

HE SAID THE power company's land would not be developed as a "full park" but would have a bike path and perhaps some playground equipment. The bike path would make it possible for youngsters to bicycle to the creek park from the new Ivy Hill School.

Park Supt. Thomas Thorton said the power line land is about 198 feet wide and totals 20 acres. He said he has written the electric utility people about the leasing, asking for a list of use restrictions.

Similar electric high line land is leased by the Mount Prospect park district for recreational use. (A

The Suburban Beat

Late-Hour Municipal Sessions Are Unwise

By HOWARD HARMENING
Staff Writer

One of the first orders of business for Arlington Heights Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson seven years ago when he accepted his position was to have a cut-off time for village board meetings established.

It was a wise move. Too many village boards in the northwest suburbs meet beyond midnight all too often.

Harmening

The result is often that nothing of consequence is really done. Worse yet, what is done sometimes shows poor judgment on the part of officials.

"What can you do at this hour?" asks Hanson. "Are you at your best efficiency late at night after working all day?"

FEW PEOPLE ARE. Trustees are even less so. Besides wrestling with fatigue like the rest of us, they also often face the problem of dealing with an emotional issue, of having their decisions formulated and questioned in the public view.

This doesn't mean that trustees should meet in closed sessions. What it does mean is that trustees should realize they're human. Being human, they cannot make a satisfactory decision on an emotional issue at 1 a.m.

There are times when a board will act on an issue to appease an angered citizen. The following day, though, the result is usually unacceptable to both the citizen and the board.

Such action is useless and only delays a satisfactory solution to a legislative problem.

THERE'S ANOTHER result of a long board meeting, however. Oftentimes it becomes a political podium for a member that alienates the citizenry as well as fellow officials.

Arlington Heights found itself experiencing problems similar to other boards prior to passage of its ordinance to establish a cut-off time.

"Before that, they were meeting until one and two in the morning sometimes," explains Hanson. "Tempers often get short at that hour, and offenses and defenses are created that have nothing to do with the issue. Nothing is really accomplished."

Recognizing this, the board approved an ordinance to establish a 10:30 p.m. cut-off time.

"We arrived at the fact we could accomplish our business in two and a half hours," adds Hanson.

In addition to the cut-off time, though, the ordinance also allows the board to extend its meeting by a vote if it wishes — a rare happening, says Hanson.

An integral part of the procedure is also a comprehensive agenda — probably the best I've seen — that's distributed to members a few days prior to the meeting.

THIS ALLOWS trustees and other officials to assimilate all the facts in an upcoming issue beforehand and seek additional material if desired.

Approximately 140 copies of the agenda are prepared for distribution to homeowners' groups and other interested non-official organizations as well as those sent to officials.

All of this gives Arlington Heights trustees ideal conditions for decision-making.

With the agenda digested beforehand, they know the pertinent facts. Interested citizens, armed with the same knowledge, can ask better questions or submit better suggestions.

This expedites the legislative process while, at the same time, allows better legislation to be formulated.

ALONG WITH this, a trustee knows beforehand that he won't be asked to decide an issue in the wee hours of the morning — unless he and the rest of the board wishes to.

Since few municipal officials are "mild-mannered Clark Kents," they would be wise to consider passage of an ordinance similar to that of Arlington Heights.

Needless to say, they would be especially wise to consider such an ordinance at 8 p.m. instead of 2 a.m. (A15

Terms High Rise Fear Detrimental

Suburban fear that high rise apartment buildings will lead to over-crowding of nearby schools is largely a fallacy and deprives the suburbs of the benefits of large-scale developments, according to John D. Cordwell, of Solomon-Cordwell & Associates, Chicago architects.

The reason: High rises appeal mostly to people who don't have school age children.

"People who want apartments are older persons who want to give up their large houses but remain in their home communities, young married couples and single persons," Cordwell said. "The comparatively small size of rental units does not appeal to families with children."

Cordwell said that when a group of high rises with larger units is contemplated, they usually are part of a planned community with land set aside for non-residential facilities.

Cordwell cited a number of benefits stemming from high rise developments.

"Under a new concept of development, high rises are placed on large areas, with much of the ground left in its natural state for recreational purposes. This contrasts with the small yards that go with single-family homes.

High rise developments offer economic benefits to the municipality Cordwell said.

Greater tax revenue is derived than when the same land is restricted to single homes and that there is less demand on municipal services when people live in several tall buildings rather than 200-300 houses, he said.

Cordwell also noted the "skyline" value of high rise construction.

"Tall buildings add visual interest to landscapes largely composed of row after row of small homes broken only by streets, a few trees and small yards. The eye needs something to relieve the monotony."

He emphasized, however, that tall buildings should be located only where there is enough land to put them in proper relationship to lower structures.

"They should never be built in areas of existing single family houses," he said. (A-15

Don't Forget To Register For Draft

Young suburban men are reminded they must register for the Selective Service within five days after their 18th birthday.

Most northwest suburbanites may register with Mrs. Dorothy Valladares, duputy village clerk, at the Arlington Heights Municipal Building, 33 S. State Road. Included are youths from Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Palatine, Schaumburg, Barrington, Mount Prospect, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Roselle.

BIRTH CERTIFICATES or driver's licenses are required for registration. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Aliens over 18 must register for Selective Service within six months after entering the United States. (A15

Railroad's Tax Bill Is $1,813,863

The Chicago and North Western Railway Co. reported that its 1964 taxes on its operating properties in Illinois, paid this year, totaled $1,813,863.58, with more than 61 per cent of this total going to the support of schools.

The North Western is the largest railroad taxpayer in Cook, Lake and McHenry Counties where the aggregate tax bill amounted to $1,180,625.32. With the addition of the road's tax bills in DuPage and Kane Counties, the combined tax paid in the five counties served by the road's commuter trains totals $1,309,983.55.

SCHOOL TAXES paid by the railway company in all 29 Illinois counties in which it operates totaled $1,112,408; city and village taxes, $315,554; county taxes, $138,068; sanitary district taxes, $66,294; park district taxes, $65,524; township road and bridge taxes and road bond taxes, $54,414; township taxes, $30,086; library, airport, hospital and cemetery taxes, $5,116; fire protection taxes, $12,992; forest preserve taxes, $11,929, and mosquito abatement, $1,475.

Taxes paid by the North Western by counties included Cook, $988,557.98, and DuPage, $68,585.87. (A 15

Report from Washington

Congressional Support Is Growing for Metric System

by BRUCE LADD
Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Can you imagine describing Miss America's measurements as 91-66-91?

Or referring to a Texan's 38-liter hat?

Last week the House Science and Astronautics Committee favorably reported a bill which calls for study of whether the United States should convert its weights and measures to the metric system.

If the study is approved by Congress, and if it is recommended that the metric system be adopted, we'll be in for some painful adjustments.

Various proposals for switching from the inch-pound system have been made in the United States since 1790, but Congress has always failed to act on them.

THERE IS now a special reason for a study of the question. The British government has disclosed its intentions to convert to the metric system over the next 10 years. And other countries, including Canada, are expected to follow suit.

This will reduce even more the minority of countries using the inch-pound system, roughly 10 per cent of the world's population doing 40 per cent of the world's trade.

Congressman Donald Rumsfeld, R-13th, who represents the northwest suburbs, is a member of the Science and Astronautics Committee. He favors the study.

"I feel a comprehensive study is in order so we can determine the relationship between use of the metric system and world trade," Rumsfeld said.

"Once we have all the facts, then we can judge whether or not metric conversion is for us."

PROPONENTS of conversion argue that America's position as the major non-metric power could jeopardize its role in world trade. Most of Europe adopted the metric system in the 19th Century, and in recent years more nations have adopted that system — Egypt (1951), India (1958), and Greece and Japan (1959). The Soviet Union adopted it in 1927 and Communist China made the change in 1949.

Opponents of conversion say that the move would be too costly, confusing and complicated to American industry and to the public. They point out that the American system is widely accepted in certain major areas of production, such as machine screws and automobile tires, in which American industry is dominant. Moreover, they say, the American system works just as well for production and engineering purposes as does the metric system.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce, for years strongly opposed to conversion, is now supporting the study being considered by Congress.

Irving Lipkowitz, a member of the manufacture-distribution committee of the U.S. Chamber, testified before a Senate hearing last month that despite confusion, expense and other difficulties of conversion, the Chamber feels that the world-wide "metric trend" warranted the study.

OTHER THAN the long tradition of the inch-pound system, the main argument against conversion seems to be that it would be quite costly. Estimates range from $20 billion to $150 billion.

The proposed study, to cost $2,500,000 over three years, would be designed to answer questions of financing the change, timing, approach and the like.

Scientists, many of whom use the metric system, advocate its adoption for the sake of simplicity and international uniformity. Educators also generally agree that teaching the metric system would be both beneficial and time-saving.

Under the inch-pound system, 16 ounces constitutes a pound, 2,000 pounds makes a ton, 12 inches in a foot, 16 fluid ounces in a pint, 5,280 feet in a mile, and three feet in a yard.

The metric system, properly called the International System of Units, uses the meter (39.37 inches) as the unit of length, the gram (.035 of an avoirdupois ounce) for weight or mass, and the liter (1.06 of a liquid quart) for capacity.

It appears there is enough sentiment in Congress in favor of the study to get it approved this session. (A15

YMCA Expands Program

Designed to Meet Communities' Needs

The concept of the YMCA as a place for swimming and gym is changing.

Cultural activities have become as much a part of the YMCA as the physical education and swimming.

"We're attempting to stay current with communities' needs," said Marvin Lotz, executive secretary of the Leaning Tower YMCA. "Flexibility is the keynote of the present YMCA policy."

During the construction of the Northwest YMCA in Des Plaines, many people showed an interest in having cultural activities, Lotz said. The YMCA officials surveyed those individuals later to see if the interest still existed and the YMCA began a cultural pilot program last year.

IN OCTOBER the YMCA's will begin a broad range of cultural programs. Each will tailor its program to meet the local interests.

The Northwest Division of the YMCA School of Fine Arts will offer courses in art, ballet, drama, literature, and music designed to improve the cultural climate of the northwest suburbs.

The programs will be in the financial range of most area residents, Lotz said. They will be open to children and adults with varying abilities, interests and needs.

THE YMCA HAS sought outside staff for the program. Many will be "moonlighting" by teaching at the YMCA.

Dr. B. G. Gross, director of the school, was assigned responsibilities for staffing and scheduling the program.

The art department plans a fundamentals of art class for children, designed to encourage them to express their creative ideas and feelings. Skills in line drawings, shading, lighting, color harmony, still life, pencil, crayon, and water color illustrations will be taught.

An informal workshop will be held for adults with instruction on an individualized basis.

BALLET CLASSES — modern and classical—will show methods for developing beauty, poise, physical coordination, body contro, rhythm and graceful equilibrium through music, gesture, and pantomime.

The YMCA plans a play production class for children with presentations of one-act plays designed to encourage self-expression and confidence. Adults will be able to participate in a series of dramas and a group eventually may develop into a "little theatre." Registration will not be based on previous experience.

Four literature courses will be offered for adults: creative writing, Great Book seminar; parental seminar, and current book review seminar.

THE CREATIVE writing course will offer writers instruction in preparing short stories, plays, essays, and poems for publication.

The Great Book seminar twice a month will have free discussion on philosophical questions based on reading literary classics.

The parental seminar is designed for women, to present and discuss problems of modern housewives. The most recent theories of child development as seen by clinical psychologists will be discussed.

The current book review seminar will help women keep abreast the books concerning political, social, economic, and moral issues.

THE MUSIC department will offer two classes in music theory, one for children, another for adults. Teachers will give children a basic "musicianship" for any line of music, and the group will form a children's chorus.

Choral singing will be part of the adult course, which also will include reading, singing, and piano playing of melodic or rhythmic patterns.

Private lessons in piano, voice, organ, violin, and band instruments will be available. Private lessons are scheduled weekly for 30 minutes. Organ practice hours will be available to organ students and lessons on classical guitar will be offered on request.

PSYCHOLOGICAL counseling will be part of the YMCA activities, to help individuals evaluate aptitudes, interest, talents, skills, and personality traits. The analysis is expected to help students determine collegiate or vocational direction.

The YMCA always has offered some of these activities, Lotz said. "We haven't tooted our horn as much on these activities." Twenty years ago, such programming would have been considered "way out." Now it is accepted.

He said the Northwest YMCA's programming seemed untraditional when it first opened. Now it provides a pattern for others.

The YMCA's are evaluating their communities and finding these cultural needs exist and must be met, he said. The YMCA does not put itself in competition with high school adult education programs, Lotz added. Surveys have shown a demand for YMCA courses in addition to the high school program.

GROSS, THE director, is a "living proof that the YMCA isn't gym and pool," said Lotz. Interested in the YMCA since he was a child, he has a doctorate degree in music and teaches at Loyola University. He was a natural to organize and direct the program, Lotz said.

Registration for classes will be Sept. 27-30 from 1 to 9 p.m. They will be offered at the Northwest YMCA, the Leaning Tower YMCA, the Park Ridge YMCA, and the Elmhurst YMCA.

Alumni to Have Golf Outing

The annual University of Illinois dental alumni golf outing will be held Wednesday, Sept. 29, at the Mohawk Country Club, Bensenville.

Dr. A. J. Sells, of Cicero, chairman of the event, announced that, in addition to all alumni and their guests, current senior dental students are being invited to the outing.

Further information and reservations are available through the Alumni Office, University of Illinois, 1853 W. Polk St., Chicago, 60612. (A15

Third Birthday Party Climax Slated Friday

By BEVERLY TUTTLE

Who ever heard of a birthday party lasting for 10 days? I have been to birthday parties before, but this one is just too much! I thought for sure the newness and excitement would wear off by now, but not at Randhurst, there's always something exciting going on.

Last week, hundreds and thousands of warm, glowing faces watched the funny clowns perform on the mall and pass out free balloons to the kiddies. The mall looked something like "Rose Heaven" with all our lady customers walking around with their free roses in so many beautiful colors.

Free roses were given away to the first 5,000 ladies last Thursday by our pretty Nancy Randhurst girls.

WE HAVE HAD so many wonderful comments from mothers who took advantage of Randhurst's free movie tickets to the Randhurst Cinema on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, of last week. I sure am glad so many mothers were able to use our babysitting offer while they shopped Randhurst's stores and services.

Randhurst's birthday Sell-A-Bration isn't over yet! Today and tomorrow, August 19 and 20, the Ice Royals will continue their shows on the mall with performances at 10:30 a.m., 4:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Our shoppers, neighbors, and visitors have certainly enjoyed the ice revues, as we have had so many wonderful comments on the shows that were held Monday through Wednesday.

If you have not seen the show yet, come on out and get in on one of the last six performances. I am sure you will enjoy Meg and Mike Muto, the Casey Twins, plus many other wonderful ice acts. They are all just fabulous!

Randhurst will top its Birthday Sell-A-Bration with a GIANT fireworks display on Friday, August 20, at 10 p.m. immediately following the last performance by the Ice Royals. Why not shop early, take in the last ice show, get in your car and drive out to the parking lot, and see some of the country's most outstanding ground and aerial fireworks displays. I am sure this is one event your family will not want to miss.

RANDHURST continues to grow and grow. When Randhurst first opened its doors it had 41 stores to help serve your every shopping needs with its three major department stores, two super food markets, variety store, drug store, bank, and professional level, besides its many speciality and service shops.

The first year of operation we added 14 stores to our list, last year we have added another six stores. We have seen Beau Monde Boutique and Concourse Sports Chalet go up on the Concourse Level and Gangi Men's Wear, Seno & Sons, Bombay Shop, and Hickory Farms go up on the mall.

Of course, we have had one very large addition to our family, the Randhurst Cinema, which recently opened doors. Now playing at the Randhurst Cinema is "Sons of Katie Elder" with John Wayne and Dean Martin.

I imagine many of you were quite surprised to see another Randhurst Value Days in your mailbox this week. For this Birthday Sell-A-Bration only, were the merchants able to continue their birthday specials and extra values. Maybe you had better pick it up again, breeze through it, gather ideas, make out your shopping list, look for back-to school specials.

Randhurst is definitely in tune to back-to-school. All the windows are trimmed with new fall lines. The Store mannequins are wearing the latest in fall fashions. The counter displays are showing the most modern in lunch buckets, pencils, paper holder, satchels, and everything that "Johnny" will need when he returns to school. The food markets are giving out new ideas for lunches. The department store college boards are modeling the newest campus look.

BEAUTIFUL colors and new textures for back-to-school season are all seen throughout the center. These "SIGNS" tell us summer is dissappearing fast, the school season is about to begin again. Everyone and everything is getting back into their new schedule.

No more vacation days . . . no more sleeping late in the mornings . . . no more running in and out of doors by the children all day long no more late, late shows . . . no more children to keep you company all day long (smile). Things are really going to change, mother! (Thank goodness. . .)

Prospect Issues Dividend Shares

The Prospect Plaza Bank, 1050 Prospect Plaza, Mount Prospect has distributed two additional shares of common stock for each share held.

This increases the number of shares outstanding from 10,000 to 30,000.

The bank has also sold an additional 12,500 shares of common stock, increasing the number of shares issued to 42,500. The additional capital was desirable because of the anticipated growth expected in the Des Plaines area.

The bank is moving to Oakton and Lee, Des Plaines, in October. (B10

Arlington Couple's Book — Broad Educational Survey

Outlines Status Quo, Recommends Practices

by BOB SETLIK
Staff Writer

A locally written and printed book provides the first extensive survey of many educational practices in the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Reuter Jr., 1806 E. Lilac Terrace, Arlington Heights, have written "Democracy and Quality Education" to outline the status quo of American education and recommend future practices. The 200-page book is the largest ever printed at Paddock Publications.

Reuter has been research director for the American Federation of Teachers since 1958. He formerly was dean of the state teachers college in Minot, N. D.

His wife, Helen, was postmaster for College Heights, Ark., home of Arkansas A&M College, for 10 years. She now works for the Glencoe post office.

They were married nine years ago and have lived in Arlington Heights for five years.

THE BOOK'S eight chapters survey and discuss many problems which are subject of debates in northwest suburban school districts.

One chapter outlines 34 current programs for potential dropouts in the nation's schools. Among the recommendations are that the federal government provide money for experimentation for dropout retention programs.

The authors recommend that federal aid to education be increased and suggest that it include school construction and teachers' salaries.

They find no evidence of federal aid bringing undue controls. The book includes a chart listing federal aid proposals which have received legislative action since 1789.

THE REUTERS believe historical prohibitions create a "mandate against support to private schools at all levels." A chart lists restrictions in the states against aid to private schools.

The Illinois constitution provides that "Neither the general assembly nor any county, city . . . or other public corporation shall ever make any appropriation, or pay from any public fund whatever, anything in aid of any church or sectarian purpose, or to help support or sustain any school, academy, seminary, college, university, or other literary or scientific institution controlled by any church whatever."

The authors suggest that shared time programs could help resolve the church-state conflict: A shared time program, such as practiced in the Elk Grove elementary school district, permits parochial school children to use public school facilities for selected purposes.

THE BOOK contains an extensive survey of fiscal policies among the states toward school districts. The Reuters outline the tax resources in each state, and provide charts showing the independence or dependence of school districts in such matters as levying taxes, issuing bonds, and choosing board of education members.

Among the surveys included in the book are class size, grouping, textbook policies, length of the school day, tenure policies, and rights of school teachers.

According to the authors, the unfairness of neighborhood schools is "obvious."

"THROUGH NO fault of his own, the child in a poor neighborhood becomes disadvantaged in education, has less chance for higher education, and less chance for a good job," they write.

In discussing the book, Reuter said Illinois' educational practices are "above average" in comparison to other states. He believes the state should institute an income tax, and lower the sales tax to less than one half per cent. An income tax, he said, would provide an equitable and stable means of supporting education and other state programs.

IN GENERAL he finds the suburban school districts doing a better job than the central city schools. He believes some suburban school districts have reached a "plateau," and are uncertain what course to take in the future. He hopes the book will encourage these districts to continue progressive programs.

The final chapter lists 23 guidelines which if followed, "will provide quality education under democratic procedures."

"Democracy and Quality Education" is the second book the Reuters have written. The first, entitled "One Blood," was published in 1965.

U.S. SENATOR Wayne L. Morse of Oregon quoted more than 60 pages of "Democracy and Quality Education" in the hearings on President Johnson's education bill earlier this year.

Mrs. Reuter said her husband did most of the research and writing. She helped with proof reading and lesser labors.

'Birthday Bonus' Date Is Worth $25

Some lucky suburbanite will be eligible to win $25 cash this weekend in Paddock Publications new Birthday Bonus for readers of the Sunday Suburbanite.

First published birth date will appear in this Sunday's issue. If you have previously registered your birthday and it is published in the Suburbanite, you may stop in at Paddock Publications, 217 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, by Tuesday noon to claim the prize. If more than one registered person claims the prize, it will be shared equally.

There is nothing to buy and no contest to enter.

EXPLAINED Robert Y. Paddock, vice president of Paddock Publications:

"Just register your name and birth date in our Birthday Bonus Book and you'll be eligible to win $25 or more if your birth date is published in the Sunday Suburbanite. A new month and date will be published each week in the Sunday edition. If no winner is found, the prize will be increased another $25 for the following week. Thus if there is no winner for four weeks, the winner in the fifth week will receive $125."

The lucky birthdays are selected at random from a basket containing each day of the year.

All members of the family can be registered, but separate registration forms must be filled out for each person. Once a person is registered, he is eligible to compete in every weekly selection.

The official registration form is published each week in the Sunday Suburbanite. (b10

Proposals Ask Half Of State's Share

A near knockout punch was thrown this week in a report by Ray Page, state superintendent of public instruction, to the $2.8 million federal aid proposal by Arlington High School District 214.

Page set out guidelines for Illinois schools for application under Title III of the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. He stressed that two or three supplementary or exemplary centers probably will be located in each of the state's six supervisory regions. This could mean as many as 18 centers.

Page also noted that Congress is expected to approve funds for the program soon. The total amount designated for Illinois is $4,929,120, including Chicago schools.

This would make the $2.4 District 214 proposal somewhat out of line. The total $2.8 million proposal would cover three years, with $2.4 million required the first year.

"I DIDN'T REALLY expect to get the total program, but if you don't ask you can't get anything," said District 214 Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer.

The District 214 proposal included four main programs. One would be a "comprehensive exemplary program" for providing instructional resources and materials. These would include slides, filmstrips, instructional films, microfilm records, overhead projection materials, printed materials, taped or live instructional television programs and taped audio materials. These would be used by the four District 214 high schools and be available to the underlying public, private and parochial schools.

Also to be available for both high school and all area elementary students would be a proposed planetarium. This program includes development of a kindergarten through high school suggested curriculum on celestial science and in-service training of teachers.

A PROPOSAL for a cultural and performing arts center including art galleries and a 1,500-1,800-seat auditorium would be used for all types of musical and dramatic performances. Fine arts demonstration centers in metal sculpture, ceramics and printmaking were suggested.

A fourth proposal was for a district-wide extended reading program.

Slichenmyer said this week that superintendents of underlying elementary school districts were particularly interested in extending this proposal to a full kindergarten through 12th grade program.

Underlying public schools include Wheeling-Buffalo Grove, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, River Trails, Elk Grove, Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows.

He noted that the elementary superintendents also appeared to be enthusiastic about the instructional materials center. "They certainly were not opposed," he emphasized.

SLICHENMYER explained that the $2.8 million proposal had been developed with the encouragement of Dr. Eric Baber, regional director of the U. S. Office of Education.

School officials had conferred with Dr. Baber on the types of ideas they were considering. He asked that the various proposals be prepared into a single application to be submitted as a possible "guinea pig" for testing the tentative guidelines then being developed at the national level. When the proposal was submitted it was decided by the regional office to consider it a formal application, Slichenmyer said.

Copies of the proposal were sent to Page.

PAGE IN HIS guidelines stressed that all plans must be submitted through his office for review and recommendations.

Page also said that "it is not assumed that plans approved during the first year or two of operation will include construction."

All of the District 214 proposals except the enlarged reading program call for construction. Slichenmyer noted that it might be possible to set up the instructional materials center at the new Elk Grove High School, eliminating construction from this proposal.

AIM OF THE federal act is "to strengthen and improve educational quality and educational opportunities in the nation's elementary and secondary schools." Title III of the act is for "supplementary educational centers and services . . . and to stimulate and assist in the development and establishment of exemplary elementary and secondary school educational programs to serve as models for regular school programs."

Page stressed in Illinois the centers will be "strategetically located to give the best possible service to area schools," indicating the number and needs of students to be served would be a strong consideration.

He also stressed that centers will be developed only where "adequate basic strength in terms of educational assets already exists."

SERVICES to be rendered must be unavailable currently or not available in sufficient quantity or quality.

The centers are to be centers of service to schools within a given area, Page explained. "It is not intended that a center be approved for an individual school district for the purpose of strengthening that district alone," he added. The exception to this rule probably would be the Chicago system, "a very large metropolitan district."

MOUNT EMBLEM

"Illinois' Most Beautiful Cemetery"

Site of the
OLD DUTCH MILL
Built in 1850

The DuPage County Historical Society presented an AWARD OF HONOR to Mount Emblem in 1956 for preserving the Old Dutch Mill as an educational and historic exhibit.

Visitors to the Old Dutch Mill are always welcome.

Mount Emblem is distinctively different.

Here is the expression of an ideal-Nature's eternal loveliness transformed into a memorial of Living Beauty. Natural beauty-unmarred by artificiality or perishable structures. This is the keynote of our landscape policy. Objects of nature are real, their appeal is universal, continuous through time.

When you visit you will be aware of the meticulous maintenance. You will find that our prices are moderate. It costs no more to own the best.

"It is better to have it and not need it—than to need it and not have it."

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED USERS

Before you call an ad-visor to place your

consider this:

You are about to invest money for an ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this it is necessary for you to TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results:

1. DON'T OMIT THE ADDRESS

Many out-of-town readers will write you, but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. DON'T OMIT THE PHONE NUMBER

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. DON'T USE BLIND BOX NUMBERS

Avoid them if at all possible. They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4 DON'T CONCEAL THE PRICE DESIRED

Surveys show that a high percentage of readers will not answer an ad unless the price is given.

5. DON'T LEAVE HOME ON THE DAYS YOU ADVERTISE

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.

6. DON'T OMIT IMPORTANT WORDS TO SAVE MONEY

Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written informative ad will get results faster and amount to much less in the long run.

7. DON'T OVERLOOK OUR LOWER RATE FOR CONSECUTIVE INSERTIONS

You'll get the biggest parade of readers at the lowest price. Your Needs Satisfied thru Paddock Publications Classified.

Notice of Public Hearing

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that the Plan Commission of the Village of Schaumburg will hold a public hearing on September 8, 1965 at 8:00 P.M. in the Village Hall of the Village of Schaumburg, 51 Carver Lane, Schaumburg, Illinois, to consider the following proposals:

1. An amendment to the Schaumburg zoning ordinance relating to Article XI whereby the word "transitional" would be eliminated and the figures "O-R" substituted.

2. That Article XI of the Schaumburg zoning ordinance be amended to add thereto Section 3, "T-1 Transitional District." That the provisions of explanation of the purpose of said proposed district include an explanation of the purpose of said district, an enumeration of permitted uses, including any use permitted in the B-4 Business District, offices and laboratories for administrative, executive, research and similar purposes, wholesale and warehousing facilities, public and community service uses, residential uses, and accessory uses. Said district also contains restrictions on the conditions of use and conditions of residential use. Said district provides for automobile parking and loading facilities as required or permitted in Article VIII of the zoning ordinance, except for retail and service uses wherein one parking space shall be required for each 500 square feet of floor area. Said district also provides a minimum lot size of 20,000 square feet, a maximum floor area ratio of 7.0 minimum setback requirements as provided in subsection 2.9 of Article XII of the Schaumburg zoning ordinance, and for yard requirements adjoining residential districts in accordance with the provisions of subsection 2.7 of Article XII. Said proposed district regulations also include restrictions on signs whereby no advertising signs shall be permitted within 75 feet of any property in a residence district, the gross area in square feet of all signs within 100 feet of the lot lines shall not exceed four times the linear feet frontage of the zoning lot and to further prohibit interference with vision.

3. A proposal to classify upon annexation as T-1 Transitional District the following described property, to wit:

PARCEL 1

The East ½ of the East ½ of the Northeast ¼ of the Northwest ¼, also the West ½ of the Northeast ¼ of Section 13, Township 41 North, Range 10 East of the Third Principal Meridian in Cook County, Illinois; and

Said agreement provides in part that the Village of Schaumburg will amend its zoning ordinance by adding to said ordinance a district to be known as "T-1 Transitional District." Said agreement further provides that said property shall be annexed to the Village of Schaumburg and rezoned upon annexation for T-1 Transitional District purposes. Said agreement further provides that said zoning classification, insofar as it affects the territory, will not be changed without the consent of the owners or their successors in title for at least five years and that all ordinances of the Village relating to subdivision control, zoning, Official Plan, building, housing, and related restrictions presently in effect shall continue in effect during the period of the agreement as applied to said property, except with the consent of the owner. Said agreement further provides that no increases in fees or charges for permits or licenses will apply to the subject property during the period of the agreement. Said agreement further provides that the owners will cause the construction and installation of water supply mains, water distribution system facilities, sewage disposal mains, and sewage collection system, which facilities will be acquired by the Village of Schaumburg at the request of the owners for the cost of construction of said facilities and the market value of the land. Said agreement further provides that if the Village is otherwise unable to provide funds for payment for said system the Village will issue revenue bonds and the owners will accept revenue bonds in payment for said system. Said agreement shall be effective for a period of five years from the date of said agreement.

A copy of said annexation agreement is on file in the Office of the Village Clerk of the Village of Schaumburg and is available for public inspection during regular business hours. All persons desiring to be heard on said annexation agreement will be given an opportunity to be heard.

Ordinance No. 399

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING SECTION 13.102 OF THE MUNICIPAL CODE OF ELK GROVE VILLAGE BY ADOPTING THE SUBURBAN BUILDING OFFICIALS CONFERENCE BUILDING CODE MARCH 1964 EDITION AS AMENDED HEREBY

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Elk Grove Village, Counties of Cook and DuPage, Illinois:

Section 1. That Section 13.102 of the Municipal Code of the Village of Elk Grove Village be and is hereby amended to read as follows:

"13.102 ADOPTION OF REGULATIONS. The provisions of the Suburban Building Officials Conference Building Code March 1964 Edition as amended by Section 13.102A as well as the provisions of the 1960 Edition of the Basic Building Code recommended by the Building Officials Conference of America except insofar as the former shall contradict the latter, are hereby adopted as the regulations governing the construction of buildings and other structures in the village; and it shall be unlawful to erect or construct any building or structure in the village in violation of, or without compliance with these regulations."

Section 2. There is hereby added to Article I Chapter 13 of the Municipal Code of Elk Grove Village the following:

"13.102A. The Suburban Building Officials Conference Building Code March 1964 Edition as adopted by the Village of Elk Grove Village, is hereby amended as follows: "That portion of the first page reading as follows: "for duplex houses (two units side by side), two flats, not over 2 stories in height;" is to be deleted and in lieu thereof the following language shall appear: "for multi-family dwellings such as duplex houses (two units side by side) Town houses, row houses, apartments, two flats, not over 2 stories in height." "Section 200-H2, of the Suburban Building Officials Building Code March 1964 Edition as adopted by the Village of Elk Grove Village, hereinafter referred to as S.B.O.C. is hereby amended to read as follows: "In crawl spaces ground shall be covered with a vapor barrier of minimum 4 mil polyethaline film (or material of equal perm rating) lapped 4 inches. Extend up foundation wall 6 inches. Two inches of concrete may be used in lieu of the vapor barrier."

"Section 204-A3 of the S.B.O.C. is hereby amended to read as follows: "Crawl spaces. Provide access not less than 18 inches by 24 inches, however if mechanical equipment is located in said crawl space, an adequate access shall be provided to permit easy removal of said equipment"."

"Section 300-E2 of the S.B.O.C. is hereby deleted."

"Section 301-A1 of the S.B.O.C. is hereby amended to read as follows: "Extend to undisturbed earth or place footings on a laboratory controlled engineered fill that has been compacted to a density of ninety per cent (90%) as certified by an independent testing laboratory."

"Section 305-F2(b) of the S.B.O.C. is hereby amended to read as follows: "Base flashing. Copper or other approved material extending over top of foundation wall from outside face of wall and not less than six (6) inches up on sheathing."

Section 3. That Section 13.115 of the Municipal Code of the Village of Elk Grove Village is hereby amended to read as follows:

"13.115 Copies of the Code. Three copies of the Building Code adopted by the village in accordance with Section 13.102 and 13.102A shall be on file in the office of the Village Clerk."

An Ordinance

AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

WHEREAS, the Plan Commission of the Village of Arlington Heights has heretofore held a public hearing on the request to rezone the property hereinafter described from R-1 single-family classification to R-5 multiple-family classification for a planned development; and

WHEREAS, said hearing was held pursuant to notice properly given and was held in all respects according to law; and

WHEREAS, the Plan Commission has recommended that said rezoning and planned development be granted subject to a suitable dedication in lieu of land; and

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees have considered said application for rezoning and planned development and have determined that the granting of said application is in the best interests of the Village;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS:

SECTION ONE: That the zoning ordinance of the Village of Arlington Heights, as amended, be and it is hereby further amended by reclassifying from R-1 Single-Family Dwelling District to R-5 Multiple-Family Dwelling District with a planned development the following legally described property, to wit:

That part of the East ½ of the Southwest ¼ of Section 15, Township 41 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian described as follows: Beginning at the intersection of the West line of the said East ½ of the Southwest ¼ with the North line of the Southwest ¼ of Section 15, aforesaid; thence East along the North line of said Southwest ¼ a distance of 562.96 feet; thence West 89 degrees, 26 minutes 46 seconds South, 1412.55 feet, more or less, to the center line of Algonquin Road; thence Northwesterly along the center line of said road, 634.94 feet, more or less, to the West line of the East ½ of the Southwest ¼ of Section 15 aforesaid; thence North along said West line to the place of beginning, in Cook County, Illinois, reserving however the West 33 feet of said premises for road purposes and the corresponding changes in designation on the zoning district map are hereby made. Said property is to be developed in accordance with a planned development proposal submitted to the Plan Commission as modified by the President and Board of Trustees. A true and correct copy of the proposed planned development, consisting of three sheets, is attached hereto and made a part of this ordinance.

SECTION TWO: The planned development authorized herein shall not exceed 230 units, to be constructed in five buildings. Said 230 units will be divided into 140 one-bedroom and 90 two-bedroom units unless said division be modified by agreement of the owners and the corporate authorities of the Village of Arlington Heights. There shall be provided 393 parking spaces on the site of said planned development.

SECTION THREE: The planned development authorized hereunder shall be constructed in substantial conformance with the plans heretofore submitted and shall conform to the subdivision ordinance, including requirements for sidewalks, of the Village of Arlington Heights as it exists on the effective date of this ordinance.

SECTION FOUR: The Director of Buildings is hereby authorized and directed to issue building permits upon proper application for the construction of said planned development as hereinabove approved.

SECTION FIVE: This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication in the manner provided by law.

'Metro' Idea Draws Skeptical Reaction

Civic Group Issues Study

by ROBERT SETLIK
Staff Writer

Northwest suburban officials reacted skeptically toward a study issued Monday which proposes consideration of a "form of metropolitan government" for Chicago and its suburbs.

A 48-man committee of Chicago civic and business leaders made that its major recommendation in a sometimes ambiguous and often provocative report on metropolitan problems.

The Committee on Urban Progress report recommends that Gov. Otto Kerner appoint a state commission to consider combining governmental units.

It states that a commission's proposals may not be activated for five to 10 years, and thus suggests some interim steps toward consolidation.

ONE OF THESE is the merging of Chicago and Cook County governments, for appropriate county-wide concerns "while leaving to the cities and villages within the county those functions best handled within their jurisdiction."

The report fails to define which municipal functions should be transferred to a regional governing body.

It does suggest eliminating township government and mosquito abatement districts and transferring their responsibilities to the county.

And, the committee would give the Northern Illinois Planning Commission authority to prepare a transportation plan for the metropolitan area.

IT CALLS FOR the proposed state commission to consider forming special service districts for the six-county area around Chicago to regulate air pollution, public health, transportation, water supply, flood control, and sewage disposal.

The report fails to mention such primary municipal functions as police and fire protection, and makes only a passing reference to zoning authority.

It calls for "establishment of a form of metropolitan government," but nowhere advocates complete abdication of local rule.

Matthew Rockwell, president of the Northern Illinois Planning Commission, disagreed with the report's proposals for a metropolitan government.

"AT ONE TIME I thought the idea of a metropolitan government was the answer," said Rockwell, "but the political climate in the Chicago area makes the idea unreasonable, and, I no longer think it's necessary."

He said a voluntary organization of village ofifcials, such as the Northwest Suburban Municipal Conference, appears the best means of achieving cooperative planning.

WHILE village officials find a need for some regional planning, they consider a county-wide or six-county metropolitan government too cumbersome to act efficiently.

John Woods, Arlington Heights village president, and Daniel Congreve, Mount Prospect village president, disagreed that a larger governmental unit leads to economies.

They both point to the Chicago Metropolitan Sanitary District's history of corruption and inefficency as an example which belies the committee's contentions.

The committee report refers to "the possibility of reducing taxes and bettering services by consolidating other existing governmental units."

ROBERT HOLLANDER, Palatine village manager, believes a county-wide or multi-county governing unit could not operate effectively, but that a smaller unit combining contiguous villages "bears study."

Ted Scanlon, Wheeling village president, said a multi-county group such as the Northern Illinois Planning Commission could not help the village with its transportation problems. He was skeptical that members of a large governing unit would consider individual municipal problems as attentively as local officials.

Most of the village presidents regard water and transportation as legitimate concerns on a regional basis, but believe other functions should remain on the local level.

Roy Jenkins, Hoffman Estates village president, said, "Many villages should be merged. Police, fire, planning, and zoning are duplicated." But he believes a large scale regional government would fail because of its size.

THE MOST favorable reaction came from Elk Grove Village Pres. Jack Pahl. He said a need exists for more consolidation and regional planning, and that in many areas Chicago and the suburbs are interrelated.

He believes municipalities are going through a period of "evolutionary change" toward increased cooperation which may lead to extensive consolidation one day.

"It's just like the independence you forfeit when a zoning law goes into effect. Everyone gives up certain rights for the common good."

Pahl added that the hostility of suburban residents toward the city could act as a barrier toward effective joint planning.

NONE OF the village presidents had received copies of the study, but commented on the basis of newspaper reports.

Woods said he would be disappointed if the study were not more precise or deeper than initial reports indicate.

The committee which prepared the report organized on a voluntary basis in 1963 after Chicago newspapers and other groups called for a study of metropolitan problems.

None of the business, industrial, financial, cultural, or educational leaders on the committee is identified with the suburbs.

CHAIRMAN Allen P. Stults, who is president of the American National Bank and Trust Company, stated in the study that it "was not intended to constitute a definitive treatment on the subject."

He said its primary purpose is to "be provocative and give rise to further discussion and alternative approaches . . ."

Since the committee has no official basis, the state or county would have to initiate action on its proposals.

County Board Pres. Seymour Simon in a speech June 19 opposed a metropolitan government which superseded smaller taxing units. Mayor Richard J. Daley was reported to have spoken unfavorably toward extensive consolidation of Chicago and the suburbs at a press conference in May.

GOV. OTTO KERNER was reported to have stated in Springfield Monday that a metropolitan government would encounter great resistance among suburban residents.

He did not specifically comment on the proposal to establish a state commission on governmental consolidation, but suggested that initiative should be taken locally.

A bill to create a commission to study metropolitan problems passed the House but was defeated in the Senate during the last session of the Illinois General Assembly.

Gun-Slingers to Compete Sunday for Fast-Draw Crown

by KATHY GOSNELL

Split-second shooting is not a thing of the past. To a growing number of Americans the ability to rapidly and accurately "shoot from the hip" is a fascinating hobby.

Fast Draw clubs have formed all over the United States. Competition between the clubs is held on area, region and state levels. In the Midwest there are now about 75 such clubs with a total membership of more than 1,000.

Area residents can see a sample of the type of shooting done in Fast Draw competition in the fifth annual Mid-America championships Saturday, Aug. 21, at Adventureland, located at Lake Street and Medinah Road in Addison. Contests will start at high noon.

The "shoot" to be held Saturday is sponsored by the Chicago Colts, a sanctioned club in the area. It is an open tournament and competitors are expected from Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Arizona, Colorado, and possibly from Texas and California. Non-members may compete.

GUNS USED in the competition are usually either Colt 45's or Ruggers—both single-action six-guns. Amunition follows the safety first concern of the clubs. Wak pellets or black powder are used. Both are considered safe, according to Dick Plum, a member of the Chicago Colts. The club stresses safety precautions in all events.

Plum says he expects about 50 competitors—both men and women—at Saturday's shoot. Events include a two-part "wax competition" which combines five "walk and draw" shots.

Walk and draw shots involve walking six feet toward the target and shooting from a distance of 15 feet.

Time and accuracy are of the essence in this double event, Plum said.

AND WHAT IS good time? Plum said each shot, including reaction time, takes an average of less than one-half second. A stiff competitor can make an accurate shot in 50 to 60 hundredths of a second (it takes about that much time to blink your eyes twice), but Plum said he has seen an accurate shot timed at less than one-third of a second.

The top 32 in the wax competition will be eligible for the balloon elimination event. Here again speed and accuracy are prime considerations in finding the winner.

Competitors shoot at four inches of balloon from eight feet. In this event competition is between two people. The one with the best two out of three shots competes with another winner until the top shooter is decided.

Plum said $450 to $500 in trophies and cash awards will be given at Saturday's competition at Adventureland.

IN LINE WITH the fancy shooting will be fancy western outfits. Few of the clubs in the area have a set uniform, but nearly everyone competing will wear "cowboy" boots, hats, jean and shirts—this goes for the women too. Plum said the amount of "glitter" in the outfit depends on the person.

All, of course, will have a "rig," a western belt, holster and gun.

Two area men expected to appear in Saturday's shoot. Tom Koko and Pat McMahon, both of Arlington Heights, are former state Fast Draw champions. McMahon has been president of the Midwestern Fast Draw Association for the past two years.

Formation of the clubs began with the television westerns in the late 1959's and early 1960's. Membership is open to anyone over 18 years of age. Members include professional people such as doctors and lawyers and a few "big names" such as Hugh Downs, Jerry Lewis and Sammy Davis Jr.

PLUM SAID THE sport is growing in the suburbs because of a decrease in space needed for outdoor shooting. The Fast Draw sport can be held inside, and often club members practice in their garages in addition to weekly sessions as a group.

And the neighbors don't seem to mind, Plum said. When wax ammunition is used the sound is no louder than a cap gun.

Paddock in Second Place

Adlai Stevenson Still Leads Junior College Name Contest

The name of "Adlai Stevenson" still commanded a formidable lead this week in early balloting to suggest a name for the new District 301 Junior College.

The late ambassador to the United Nations and former Illinois governor has thus far received 54.5 per cent of total ballots mailed by readers of Paddock Publications.

The junior college district, approved in a referendum earlier this year, will serve residents in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, and Schaumburg Townships.

AS A PUBLIC service, Paddock Publications recently sought suggestions for names for the junior college. A panel of judges screened more than 100 names proposed by readers of the 16 suburban newspapers and selected what they consider the "ten best" suggestions.

Readers are now being asked to "vote" for their choice among the finalists. An official "ballot" is published on the Fence Post-Letters to the Editor page and will also be published in the Aug. 22 and 29 issues of the Sunday Suburbanite.

Still holding a solid second place position in balloting is the name "H. C. Paddock" with 25 per cent of the total votes. Paddock is a former school teacher and founder of the suburban newspaper chain which since 1872 has served all townships in the district. The suggested name also honors the beautiful paddock area of Arlington Park race track, well known area landmark.

In third place is "Euclid," which honors the educational dignity and inspiration of the great Greek scholar as well as an important tree-lined roadway serving the heart of the junior college district.

FOURTH PLACE contender is "Shabbona," part of the Potawatomi Tribe which first inhabited the northwest area. These Indians were of great service in keeping relations friendly with early white settlers.

"Pioneer," symbolizing the spirit of those who first settled here, is in fifth position.

Eligible to vote is any resident of the four townships included in district boundaries.

THE JUNIOR college board of education is not obligated to eventually select the name chosen by Paddock readers, and its choice will obviously be the only official decision. It may be several months before the board makes its decision.

If the board's choice coincides with one made to Paddock Publications in its recent search, the first person making such suggestion will receive $25 in cash from Paddock Publications plus suitable honors at the dedication of the junior college.

If the decision of the board does not coincide with one made in the Paddock search the person first suggesting the name judged "best" in the current reader balloting will receive $25 in cash.

Paddock records of receipt of suggestions will determine which person "first" suggested the name involved.

Other suggested names on the ballot are:

—Elkspaw. This name incorporates the names of four townships to be served by the college — Elk Grove, Schaumburg, Palatine and Wheeling — and also recognizes this area as site, in Busse Forest Preserve, of the largest elk herd in the U. S. outside of Yellowstone National Park.

—Lafayette. A distinguished French general and statesman who made a trumphant visit to Illinois in 1825, Lafayette was an avid supporter of the American Revolution. He served with distinction under Gen. George Washington and was instrumental in securing aid for America from neutral France.

—Nathaniel Pope. Without the efforts of Pope, the area to be served by the new college would not be located in Illinois. As delegate from the Illinois area, he convinced Congress the proposed boundary of the new state be moved from its original point at the southern tip of Lake Michigan northward to include the area now occupied by northwest suburbs.

—Prairie. This name pays tribute to Illinois, "The Prairie State," and to the original topography of the area now encompassed by the junior college district.

—Salt Creek. One of the main waterways serving the northwest area, Salt Creek winds from Schaumburg through Palatine and Rolling Meadows, then near the proposed college site and down into Elk Grove Village.

Ballots should be clipped, marked, and mailed to: "Name the College," P. O. Box 277, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Balloting will end Labor Day, Sept. 6.

Rumsfeld Tax Credit Bill Wins Support

Support for a bill implementing tax reduction for higher education, sponsored by Cong. Donald Rumsfeld (R-13th District) was given recently in a statement by Cong. Albert Quie of Minnesota.

A senior member of the Committee of Education and Labor for the House of Representatives, Quie made his comments in reponse to an attack on the bill by the unsuccessful 1964 Democratic candidate for the 13th District, Lynn A. Williams Jr.

WILLIAMS charge that the tax credits bill would give the "biggest tax credit to millionaires who don't need it, and the least . . . to those whose incomes and income taxes are small" is "patently false," according to Quie.

"It is clear that Williams does not know the difference between a tax credit and a tax deduction," Quie said. "Under the Rumsfeld tax credit bill both types of families would receive a tax credit of $255, which is subtracted directly from the amount of tax they owe the federal government," explained the Minnesota congressman.

Williams, in his attack, illustrated a tax deduction which is subtracted from the gross income, not a tax credit.

"IT WAS precisely because the tax deduction would have helped those in the upper income brackets more than in the lower and middle income brackets that Republicans have chosen the tax credit approach," Quie said.

The tax credit for higher education bill can't be attacked as helping the rich more than the poor because 98 per cent of the tax credits would go to families with incomes of $25,000 or less, 91 per cent to those with incomes below $20,000 and 62 per cent to those with incomes between $3,000 and $10,000, Quie pointed out.

With the Rumsfeld bill those with no taxable income would receive no benefit, but the tax credit is only one way of helping, not a cure-all, Quie continued. It is intended to relieve students, their parents, and others of the present tax on money spent for tuition, books, and other expenses of higher education.

Help is also needed for persons with no taxable income, but it is available under other grant and loan programs provided in existing and proposed legislation, he said.

UNDER RUMSFELD'S bill, a person who sets up a scholarship for a needy student can also receive the tax credit for the tuition he pays through the scholarship, Quie pointed out.

"Williams is also wrong about the support the tax credit has received in the past. The tax credit for higher education was only narrowly defeated in the Senate last year by three votes," the congressman said.

"Two sponsors and supporters of the tax credit, Senators Hubert Humphrey and Eugene McCarthy, abruptly changed their minds and voted against it at the last minute when they became prospective vice-presidential candidates for a President who opposed it," he charged.

"The cost of our tax credit bill is about $1 billion. I can't think of a better use for tax reduction than education," Quie said.

Apartment Proposal Revised, Approved

An apartment planned development which the Arlington Heights village trustees had criticized for including efficiency units was approved Monday evening after revision of the plans.

No studio apartments were included in the revised plans shown the board by attorney A. Howard Borde, who represented developer Ira Gold. His 14-acre parcel is located at the Northeast corner of Algonquin and Goebbert Roads.

The new proposal shows a planned development with five semi-circular buildings. The area will include a swimming pool and a lake about one acre in size.

JACK SIEGEL, village attorney, told the board the agreement with Borde's client calls for the planned development to have no more than 230 units, 140 one-bedroom units and the others two-bedroom, and at least 393 parking spaces.

Rezoning of the parcel, as recommended by the plan commission, was also approved by the village board. Siegel was directed to draw up the ordinance for formal approval.

THE BOARD also approved one other rezoning request at its Monday meeting, gave final approval for the plat of Peter Peterson's Princeton Court subdivision, and withheld approval of architect Ronald Petrolito's rquest to add a sheltered recreational area to his Cedar Glen planned development because Petrolito was not present to answer the board's questions.

The rezoning request came from Charles Hodlmair, owner of a 1.8 acre parcel south of Algonquin Road near State Road. Approval of the change in zoning from R-1 (residential) to B-1 (limited retail business) was given, as the plan commission had recommended.

Trustees noted that the Hodlmair property had recently come into the village as part of a large parcel involuntarily annexed. Hodlmair responded, "I was eager to get in. I didn't want to invest my money in an area that might go to pot because of county zoning." (A

$4,000 Returned By Contractor

Arlington Heights' elementary school board members had a pleasant surprise at their meeting Monday when a contractor returned slightly less than $4,000 to the district.

The credit came from Four Contractors Co., which has a $878,220 contract for general construction of four school additions and the new Ivy Hill School. Supt. R. E. Clabaugh told the board the original bidding techniques permitted contractors to make an "arbitrary" bid on finish hardware and bill the district — or credit it — after actual costs are determined. Auto Escapes Police In High Speed Chase

A 1957 auto led police from two villages on a chase at speeds up to 115 miles an hour —with its lights out—before it lost them early last Friday.

Arlington Heights Patrolmen Paul Michael Sandburg and R. O. Volker first spotted the car, with two occupants, driving north on State Road at about 2:05 a.m. Regarding it as suspicious, they began to follow. It led them on a circular route through the northeast side, where its driver doused the lights.

Reaching State Road again, the car sped north at speeds up to 90 miles an hour. It turned right on Palatine Road where it reached speeds estimated at 115. It was last sighted at Rand and Schoenbeck Roads by a Mount Prospect squad called into the chase. (A

Young Troublemakers Meet Their Match

Two Villages Crack Down

by DEL MARKS
Staff Writer

Teenagers and young adults looking for trouble this summer may be getting more than they plan on in at least two northwest suburbs.

Full scale crackdowns on youthful offenders have been waged by police officials in Mount Prospect and Palatine. Other police departments in the area report only the normal amount of enforcement activity in the younger age groups, but say they use a variety of methods to encourage good behavior.

While the stepped-up control appears necessary in only two villages, nearly every community in the area has been listed as an address for arrested offenders. Palatine Police Chief Robert Centner says many of the youths who get into trouble in his village have come from all over the area to congregate with other rebellious youths.

THE OFFENDERS causing the most trouble in Palatine are young men in their late teens and early 20's, many of them high school drop-outs, unmarried and unsettled. Many depend on their parents for support and "have not yet found their station in life," Centner says.

The profile of the average offender in Mount Prospect is much different than that of the Palatine troublemaker. The Mount Prospect crackdown has been aimed at younger offenders, most of whom live in or near the village, and most of whom are still juveniles. Their summer freedom from school may be in part responsible for the types of trouble they have been getting into.

The Mount Prospect teens have been accused with offenses such as vandalism, mischief and noise, while the older youths arrested in Palatine have been charged with offenses ranging from loitering and speaking profanely at passers-by, to arson in the burning of a police officer's garage.

CENTNER believes many of the area's troublemakers focus on Palatine because they have attended school there before dropping out, and because Palatine has a more developed business district than many surrounding towns. The youths congregate in downtown Palatine "like they would in the county seat in a rural area," Centner says.

Many of those who cause trouble for officials have been in trouble with school authorities before they get into legal scrapes. Centner says school disciplinary action often precedes dropping out for many youths.

Sgt. Frank Ortiz, Palatine juvenile officer, says the offenders are often rebels "without a cause." They roam restlessly looking for something to do, often because they are encouraged to go out on the streets by parents who don't want to be bothered by their antics in the home. Youths with this problem come from every social background in the area, Ortiz says.

THE WIDE variety of backgrounds and influx of youths not native to the village is a complication in the Palatine problem not faced in other suburbs. Rolling Meadows Police Chief Cy Campbell's observation that very few local youths get into trouble is borne out in other communities.

Campbell says youths who might otherwise get into trouble as young adults usually come to the attention of his officers while they are still juveniles. He says the very small percentage who need "straightening out" almost without exception benefit from early contact with the police.

Campbell also credits the Rolling Meadows park district and city programs for youths of all ages as helping to build a wholesome community atmosphere that deters delinquency. Centner pointed out, however, that Palatine's experience with youth programs has been that they do not reach the socially maladjusted youth who is usually the cause of trouble.

WHATEVER possible means of prevention villages use, officials are in agreement that if a problem does develop, making offenders aware that laws will be enforced is the best solution.

Centner's force started a crackdown at the first of the summer that has resulted in three times the number of arrests as during the same period last year. In Mount Prospect, several teens have been barred from using village park facilities because of misbehavior.

Courts have cooperated with villages in imposing stiffer penalties, although Centner says that with the rotating judge system it is difficult for every judge to be aware of how serious the problems are.

POLICE OFFICERS in the northwest suburbs are quick to point out that the teen-agers and young adults who cause trouble are in a very small minority of the total youth population of the area; less than one half of one per cent of all juveniles in Rolling Meadows had any contact at all with the police there, and only "about a dozen" of those cases were serious offenses.

However small the troublemakers' numbers may be, they are requiring a disproportionate share of police attention — attention that authorities hope will eliminate the problems.

Lessons in English

The distinction between the use of the nouns neglect and negligence is that neglect refers to the actual and specific failure or omission, while negligence refers to the trait of character, habit, or tendency. Thus: "His negligence has caused his family much distress," and, "His neglect of the notice cost him dearly."

SQUARE DANCE CLUB NEWS

Dorothy Meyer CL 3-2298

MEADOWSQUARES

There's still one more dancing-under-the-stars date left on the Rolling Meadows club's summertime schedule and everyone's welcome to join the finale Saturday night. Lenny Roos will team up with Don Finfrock to do the calling, and the two old pros promise a wing-ding of a windup to the vacation season.

Dancing begins at 8:30 and continues to 11:30 at the parking lot in Rolling Meadows shopping center, right under the lighted "Rolling Meadows" sign.

Meadowsquares also reminds future dancers to watch for the Arlington Heights Park District brochure, telling of beginners' classes co-sponsored by Arlington Squares and the Rolling Meadows club. "Tib" and Nina Tibbetts will teach the classes, tentatively set to begin the third week in September.

VERNON HILLS

Dancing every Friday night in Vernon Hills Country Club continues until Labor Day, and the public is invited to try the air-conditioned fun on any or all of the remaining dates. Many dancers make a night of it, enjoying dinner at the club before the square-'em-up call at 8:30. The club is located three miles west of Half Day on Route 45. Further information may be obtained by calling Frank Hurkmans, RO 3-0814.

PROMENADERS

Teens are invited to hop over to the Hasbrook Park Fieldhouse in Arlington Heights Wednesday night, Sept. 1, for a swingin' session to the calls of Wally Paulsen. The club continues to grow, although it's suffering an annual loss of membership among the June grad bunch, and new members are double-welcome.

Promenaders meet the first and third Wednesday nights of every month, and rack up an extra night of fun anytime there's five Wednesdays. September is one of the 5-Wednesday specials and would be a fine, full month to join the gang. Linda Lenz, CL3-5638, is the gal to call for complete Promenaders information.

EVERY MONDAY

According to a recent note from Harry Glass of Roselle, there's square dancing very Monday night from 8 to 10:30 in the Hiawatha Park fieldhouse, 8016 W. Cornelia, near Addison Street and Forest Preserve Drive. Harry's the caller, there's "coffee and" after the dancing, and everybody's welcome. The Glasses have further information; phone 529-5541 or write them at Route 1, Box 299, Roselle.

BRONCO SQUARES

"Hey pardner! Bring your filly to Bronco Squares' midsummer night mare on the street in front of the First National Bank on Park Avenue, Barrington, Saturday night (Aug. 21) from 8 to 11. No donations." This is the sprightly invitation of the Barringtonians whose club is corraling more and more local interest every time they meet. They hope to round up just about everybody for Saturday's street dance. Be there?

Bronc's first dance of the new season is going to be a splash party, so swim suits and towels will be as necessary as the yen to dance. Splashin' starts at 8 o'clock Friday night, Sept. 3, in the pool at North Park Fieldhouse, Lions Drive, Barrington. There'll be dancing too, of course, with club regular Paul "Foggy" Thompson at the mike and with rounds by the Sanders.

The club's regular dance dates in 1965-66 will be the first and third Friday nights of the month, with "Foggy" in charge first Fridays and guest callers the third Fridays. Full information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Robert Kastning, 438-6993.

PALATINE SQUARES

Everyone's invited to the Palatine club's annual warm-up dance Saturday, Aug. 28, in Fremd High School on Quentins Road just north of Higgins. Warmer-uppers will be club regulars Art Mathews and Jim Stewart calling the squares, and Jerry and Dot Daniels leading the rounds. It's a yearly must for most area club dancers and attracts many out-of-town guests as well. Everybody come!

Regularly scheduled dancing begins Sept. 11 for the Palatine Squares and will continue every second and fourth Saturday nights of each month through the new season. Art and Jim will alternate at the mike, the Daniels will continue their fine leadership of the rounds, and guests are always welcome. Pleasant Hill School, Cedar and Illinois Sts., is the place; 8:30 is the time.

Beginners' classes, sponsored by the Palatine club in cooperation with school district 211, will begin Sept. 27. They will be held in Fremd High School every Monday night from 8 to 10 o'clock. Bob Kim, Mathews and Stewart will instruct and Palatine club members will be there to help too. Brochures will be sent out soon by the school district. Information is also available from the Harold Crittendons, 359-1735.

BUCKS AND DOES

Club members are reminded to reserve Aug. 31 for the B and D dinner dance in the Arlington Heights VFW Hall. Invitations are also extended to former members of Bucks-and-Does-sponsored dance classes. Complete information for this members-only event is available via Jim and Joan Briggs, phone 392-3325.

Regularly scheduled dances in the 1965-66 season will be open to everyone as always. The club's opener is a Round-Up Dance, Sept. 11, in Dempster Junior High School, Dempster Street and Elmhurst Road. Square-'em-up time is 8 o'clock with Bob Lewis at the mike, and Carl and Marie Peterson leading the rounds.

There'll be dancing the second and fourth Saturday nights of every month throughout the new season.

Beginners' classes are again being sponsored by B and D's with Bob Lewis teaching square dance basics every Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, beginning Sept. 14. Carl and Marie Peterson will join Bob on the second, fourth and fifth Tuesdays to teach round dance basics. Squares are urged to attend the Peterson sessions and learn to be "rounders" too, so there'll be no sitting-this-one-out routine during the coming season. Further information about the classes may be obtained from the Al Wendts, CL 5-3518.

ARLINGTON SQUARES

Lenny Roos and Jim Smith will call in the new season at 8:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 10, when Arlington Squares have their opening night in Miner Junior High School, Arlington Heights. The club will again meet the second and fourth Friday nights of each month, with a new meetin' place for the fourth Friday dances — St. Simon's Episcopal Church, 717 Kirchhoff, Arlington Heights. Membership information is available via the Frank Zimas, SP 4-4729, and the Leo Larsons, CL 5-1074.

KICKIN' IT AROUND

by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

REGARDLESS OF WHAT TRANSPIRES in East Chicago, Ind. in the American Legion regional tournament, this has been a year to remember for baseball buffs in Arlington Heights.

First it was St. Viator's climb to second place in the state tournament in Peoria. Len Sparacino took the Lions to within one notch of the coveted top slot in Illinois prep baseball in his first year at the helm.

Now, it's the American Legion entry coached by Lloyd Meyer that's the talk of the town. By this time next week Arlington Heights could be preparing for a trip to Aberdeen, S. D. and the national Legion tournament.

Although St. Viator and Arlington's Legion entry both have enjoyed success in 1965, there are few similarities in the makeup of the two representatives.

St. Viator was guided by a new coach. Sparacino had taken over for Frank Mariani after spending a season at St. George in Evanston. Meyer has been the head man of Arlington's Legion team for ten seasons.

St. Viator was a young club. The entire pitching staff returns for 1966 in addition to three other regulars. Sophomores Jerry Donahue and Bob Stevens were the key men on the mound staff. Arlington Heights is stocked with veterans. Meyer guided basically the same team to a 26-4 record last summer.

St. Viator's rise to the upper echelon of schoolboy baseball in Illinois was a surprise. The Lions had struggled through a rather unimpressive season but got hot at the right time—at tourney time. Arlington Heights, however, was pegged as a team to watch at the outset of the Legion campaign, and it certainly has lived up to expectations.

But whether or not there are any similiarities in the two outfits, the fact remains that they've given fans in Arlington Heights a lot to talk about in the past three months. And Meyer's Legion team isn't finished yet.

AMERICAN LEGION BASEBALL became a national program by convention action in 1925, and the first national tournament was held in 1926. Only fifteen states were represented in the first year of national operation.

Finances became a problem the following year, but in 1928 Dan Sowers, the director of the National Americanism Commission, appeared before the Executive Council of Baseball in Chicago, which agreed to underwrite the national program up to $50,000.

With the exception of two years, the major leagues have continually supported American Legion Baseball. They presently underwrite the national program up to $60,000.

ONE OF THE CRITICISMS we often hear about the American Legion baseball program is that because it is tied to a national tournament the Chicago area leagues are conducted on a short-term basis. The vast majority of teams are finished by mid-July, the very height of the season.

The season is long enough, the critics say. It finishes around Labor Day. But they argue that 90 per cent of the teams are finished before July 15. That's fine if your Legion team gets to the state finals three years out of five and to the national one of those years.

Some people suggest forming a local organization which could operate from early June until early August with each team playing around 40 games. This league would have no connections which make national or even state tourney play necessary.

Would this be a solution? You can almost see where the divorcement from Legion would be followed by the collapse of the local league in a few years. Once in motion, local participation in a national movement has a way of continuing. But if it is interrupted, reviving that motion might take years.

$75,000 Added Matron Slated For Arlington Park Saturday

Many of the nation's finest fillies and mares are anxiously awaiting the annual renewal of the $75,000 added Arlington Matron Saturday as Washington Park Jockey Club concludes its second week of activity at Arlington Park.

The distaff event is for three-year-olds and upward at 1 1/8 miles.

Stanley Conrad's Old Hat, John Gaines' recent purchase Swoonalong, H. S. Nichols' Miss Cavandish, Moreno, Sawyer, and Macon's Jalousie II, Mr. and Mrs. F. Frankel's Yes Please, John M. Lee's Colonia, and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jones' Star Maggie are but a few of the probable contestants in the Matron.

THE AMAZING Old Hat, a six-year-old daughter of Boston Doge, has established herself a member of the very top echelon of mares now racing.

A three-time stakes winner this year, the hard-charging and alert runner has annexed the Columbiana, Black Helen, and Suwannee River Handicaps, and has actually been campaigned to a minimum thus far.

The Matron distance is one of her favorites, yet the steady mare has won at virtually every route of ground imaginable over the last few years.

BOUGHT FOR an estimated $100,000 shortly after winning the Beverly Handicap at Arlington July 24, Swoonalong will race under her new colors for the initial time in the Matron.

The four-year-old Swoon's Son filly, who has now won five in succession, is a graduate of the allowance ranks, where she spent the majority of her sophomore season.

With six triumphs now registered on her ledger this season, also including victories in the Colonial and Regret Handicaps, Swoonalong has come from virtually nowhere to rank among the finest.

Dave Kassen may again journey to the Windy City to ride Swoonalong, as he did with precision in the Beverly.

SUCCESSFUL SUMMER. Manager Lloyd Meyer proudly displays the trophies captured by the Arlington Heights American Legion baseball team this season. The large trophies represent the state Legion championship (left) and Cook County title (right. They flank the league award presented by the Ninth District. Lion Nine Records Two Wins, One Tie

It started out as a banner week — two wins in three games — but the Lions of Arlington Heights then skidded to five straight setbacks to set their season record at 16-28-1.

Coach Larry Nomellini's busy outfit, a member of the Winnemac Park summer baseball division, tripped the Panthers and Fox Lake and tied the Badgers before running into some difficulty.

The Lions stand 6-5-1 in league activity and are approximately eight points behind the leader. The Winnemac Park division is based on points with two markers for a win and one for a tie.

JERRY DONAHUE, the fireballing right hander who helped pitch St. Viator High School to second place in the state tournament, yielded only four hits and struck out nine as the Lions whipped the Panthers, 11-3, in league play.

The Lions put a tight game out of reach with a seven-run fifth.

Consecutive doubles by Dan Collins and Donahue brought in Bill Aylward with the first Lion run in the first, and they added three more in the second on two errors and a homer down the left field line by Mark Walinski.

Three walks initiated the uprising in the fifth. Tom Collins and Walinski had singles in the explosion, and Rich Loner contributed a double.

Walinski was the leading Lion hitter with 2 for 3, and he drove in five runs.

Score by innings:

Lions	130 07—11-8
Panthers	210 00— 3-4

TOM COLLINS and Walinski combined to shut out Fox Lake the following day 5-0 with the Lions scoring three times in the second and two more in the seventh.

Bill Miller walked, Dick Aylward doubled, Rich Loner drove in one run with a sacrifice fly,

Lundgren to Pitch Opener

Regional Legion Meet in East Chicago, Ind.

by BOB FRISK

Here we go again. The "vacation" is over. It's back to tournament warfare for Coach Lloyd Meyer and his Arlington Heights American Legion baseball team, state champion for 1965.

The Illinois representative, given a reprieve of eight days from the demands of tourney scuffling after topping the state finals in Carmi, swings back into action today (Thursday) in the second game of the Fifth Regional feature in East Chicago, Ind.

Arlington Heights will battle Grove City, the Ohio state champion, at 5:30 p.m. and, win or lose, will return to Block Stadium in East Chicago for a second game Friday.

SEVEN STATE champions will assemble at Block Stadium for the double elimination headliner that will determine the Midwest's entry in the National Legion tournament set for Aberdeen, S. D., Aug. 31 — Sept. 6.

Joining Arlington Heights and Grove City in the Fifth Regional meet will be Ashland (Ky.), Superior (Wis.), Detroit (Mich.), Whiting (Ind.), and Jefferson City (Mo.). Jefferson City drew a bye.

The tournament is set to go through Monday, Aug. 23 (see pairings) with Tuesday an open date if necessary. In the complex double elimination arrangement it is possible that the tourney will run through Tuesday. A team must lose two games before it is eliminated.

ARLINGTON'S MEYER will send stylish southpaw Tom Lundgren to the mound against Grove City and will follow with Paul Splittorff, another talented lefty, in the second game. If Arlington plays a third contest, Mark Newman or John Friedl will get the call.

If Arlington topples Grove City today, it will play the winner of the Ashland, Ky. — Superior, Wis. contest at 5:30 p.m. Friday. If Arlington loses, it will be set opposite the loser of the Ashland-Superior meeting at 1:00 p.m. Friday.

Meyer plans no changes in the alignment that operated so effectively in wrapping up the Illinois title.

HE'LL OPEN with Jerry Fink at first, Mike Frase at second, Howie Winkelhake at shortstop, and Rich Hoppe at third. Mark Frase will be behind the plate with Newman, John Loughman, and Thad Woodard patrolling the outfield.

The only shift in the Arlington lineup comes when Newman is on the mound. Splittorff then goes to left field.

Gaining the state crown wasn't easy, and Meyer knows there's a rugged road ahead in the Regional. You have to be strong to get this far and you have to possess that talented flinger who can fire the shutout in the big game. You need more than one.

ARLINGTON HAS Lundgren and that's a plus any way you look at it. Tom was brilliant at the state where he won two games, saved a third, and certainly didn't diminish his value on the Major League market.

Carter Music Captures Paddock Golf Title

Low Net of 66 Is Shared By Three

by KEN KNOX

Last year it was the wind.

This year it was the heat.

Again the elements strived to sabotage the performances of the entrants in the Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament.

But this year—in the 16th links' attraction sponsored by the newspaper chain—the weather was not so much the master.

Though a lot of tongues were dragging and a lot of energy flagging, there were still several brilliant performances on the baking greenery of White Pines Golf Club in Bensenville, and a new team champion in Carter Music Shop of Mount Prospect.

Many scores ballooned as the 90 degree heat worked on the 80 golfers assembled for the event, but the statistical results were still far more impressive than those of last year.

Most impressive was the team net score of the Carter's foursome. The four team members—Pat Danna, Ken Shipley, Hal Jauch and Vic Bowen—combined for 294 strokes when their handicaps were subtracted. That was the best winning margin since 1960, when Morton Pontiac of the Mount Prospect Tuesday Twilight League zipped around the same White Pines course in 281. Last year's winning margin—306—was the highest ever.

The music quartet—like the Morton team of 1960—was the representative from the Mount Prospect Tuesday league. The twilight league actually made it one-two, as Busse Motor Sales finished just a stroke off the pace at 295. Busse represented the Monday division of the Mount Prospect loop.

In third place among the 20 teams gathered for the Sunday outing was Eidamiller Realtors of the Northwest Suburban YMCA league, 11 strokes back with a 305. Those three teams divided up the medals given to the members of the three highest finishers, but Carter's will keep the traveling trophy. Until next year, that is, when a permanent plaque will be given to the music shop.

Just missing placing was the always-potent entry from the Old Orchard Scratch League, in this case 444 Press. The 444 men ended up at 306, but they had by far the lowest gross score. 444's 319 gross was 22 strokes better than the 341 of the Flite Champs of the St. Alphonsus league.

The champions of last year, Hoffman Standard Service of the Hoffman Men's League, ended in a tie for 10th position. The squad had a net 317. Ray Larson, the tourney's defending net champion and the only member back from last year's winning team, ended with an 82 gross, 78 net. He went out in 37, but faltered to end far off the individual pace.

That pace was led by three men: Pat Danna of Carter's, Dick Koci of Busse's, and Art Garcia of the Bensenville VFW league entry. They all totaled net 66s, Danna on a gross 82, Koci on an 83 and Garcia on a 73.

Garcia, with time out from duties as a lieutenant on the Bensenville police force, stood out with the outstanding round of the day. His 73 was good for low gross, two better than the rounds of Roger Alm of L-Nor Cleaners and Jack Peters of the Ed Coyle Team. He closed with an eagle three on the 18th hole, finishing the tough back nine in 37. Only Alm did that well on the par 36 back circuit.

Garcia also shared honors for the low nine of the day, getting a 36 on the front nine, as did George Silianoff of Eidamiller Realtors. That nine played at 34 par.

444 Press was the first team in, since its golfers carried the lowest handicaps. But it didn't seem that 444's 306 would stand up, especially not when Shipley of Carter's finished with a 78 gross, 68 net performance. Bowen was next in for Carter's, going out in 49 but coming back in five less to end with a 93 gross, 81 net.

Hal Jauch matched rounds of 46 and 46 for a 92 gross, 79 net, and that left it up to

KNOX NOTES

by Ken Knox

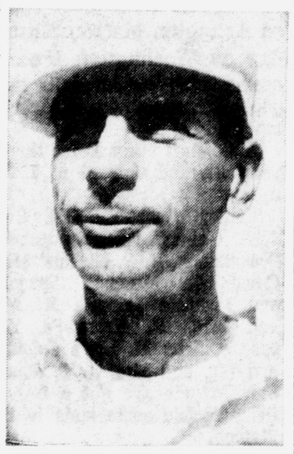
A BROKEN FINGER AND A GOLF CART produced 12 golf balls and a sizeable chunk of honor for Pat Danna Sunday afternoon.

The golf balls were his for stroking a net 66 in the Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament at White Pines. Danna, whose gross score was 82, tied two other linksmen for net honors in the annual tourney.

But his 66 had to be the most important, because it gave Danna's Carter Music Shop team the single-shot edge that gained the traveling trophy awarded to the foursome with the lowest net.

Danna, a 16-handicapper, was obviously playing a little over his head in totaling his 66. And he admits it.

The big reason, he will tell you candidly, was the broken finger. It was the index finger of his left hand. He fractured it while trying to catch a baseball earlier this summer. Danna—who loves golf infinitely more than baseball—was sidelined for several weeks.



PAT DANNA

When he resumed roaming the fairways less than a month ago, he found he couldn't grip the club the same way. He was forced into a peculiar overlapping grip, with the finger jutting out between the ring and little fingers of his right hand. The mischance of a baseball game proved to be a boon, for Danna's game spurted for the better.

A hacker whose five best previous rounds this year were nine-hole scores of 41, 44, 44, 47 and 48, Danna dazzled in the Paddock outing. He went out in 39 at White Pines, and came back in 43 on the rigorous back nine. It was an event of delight to him and his teammates.

But it wasn't just the abused finger that did it. The slender Danna was also one of the few golfers who toured White Pines in a golf cart during the tournament, and presumably it helped him conquer the heat.

The sun was simmering the contestants in a 90 degree environment Sunday, but Danna kept his hiking to a minimum and opined that it saved him from a collapse.

It passed unnoticed at the time, but the victory by Carter Music Shop—and the second place finish of Busse Motor Sales—were significant icing on an anniversary cake. The Mount Prospect Twilight golf leagues, the oldest in the Northwest Suburban area, are marking their 25th anniversary this summer. The 1-2 finish at White Pines by Carter's of the Tuesday division and Busse's of the Monday was a fitting way to mark the silver occasion.

But it wasn't unusual. The Carter triumph marked the eighth time since the inception of the Paddock tourney in 1950 that a Mount Prospect twilight entry bested the elite of the twilight leagues in this area for the trophy.

For those of us who dwelled in the shade off the 18th green awaiting the finish of the foursomes, the big moment came early. Art Garcia, the Bensenville police lieutenant, closed with a flourish to claim the best round of the day, a 73.

Playing in the third foursome, Garcia launched his attack on the par five 479 yard No. 18 with a solid drive. His second shot plopped squarely on the green.

From 25 feet away, the seven-handicapper rammed home a swift putt for an eagle three. The net 66 won him a dozen golf balls, too.

A third dozen went to Dick Koci of Busse's, who birdied the 275 yard fifth and 556 yard 14th holes.

There weren't many complaints offered by the players during the tourney, and of those that were, most were directed against the heat. One contestant suggested medals for all who were able to finish, but there's nothing in the budget for that. They all finished, anyway.

Some dissatisfaction was announced over the thick fringe of grass around the greens, with the complaint being that it held up balls rolling toward the green. But just as many golfers found it a blessing, for it put the brakes on balls rolling off the greens.

The greens themselves—after several days of simmering—were lightning-swift, and bedeviled more than a few putters.

The most unusual complaint came from the golfer who protested that he was menaced by an angry German Shepherd near the 17th hole, with the dog's owner doing nothing to restrain his massive canine.

In case anyone is curious, let me report that I computed all the handicaps for the tournament, and followed a standard procedure.

The five best nine-hole scores were taken for each player and compared with the pars for the courses he played. Eighty per cent of that difference was taken and doubled for the 18-hole handicap. All handicaps were rounded off to the nearest full number.

It is presumed that everyone was satisfied, because there have been no protests yet.

Pat Danna. The 16 handicap golfer, playing in the 13th foursome, had gone out in 39. He was only four strokes worse on the way in for an 82 total before the handcap was knocked off.

Carter's then began the long and nervous wait, knowing at least two teams—Busse's and the Pure Oil Monday unit—had a chance based on front nine performances.

Busse's made it close, as Ed Leubcke arrived in the 16th foursome with a net 75 and Paul Barnes in the 17th with a net 81. But it was just not enough.

The Carter's gang couldn't clutch the champion's trophy until the last man was in. He was Albert Kalivoda of Pure Oil Monday, a 37-handicapper, who had gone out in 55. He needed a 52 coming in to pop the Carter bubble, but he wilted with a 67 and that ended it.

Though many golfers did a fade in the sun on the incoming nine, the individual and team scores made last year's pale in comparison. Larson won with a 71 net a year ago, but eight men were at or under that this time.

Low gross a year ago was Bob Louthain's 78, but this year eight men were at or under that mark. Especially impressive were the rounds of Garcia, Alm and Peters.

Though Garcia started with two bogies and had seven in all, he also came in with two birdies and the dazzling eagle on No. 18. Alm also bogied the first two, and even had two double bogies, but had nine pars and three birdies to offset them. He had single bogies on No. 8 and No. 17. Peters began like Mr. Consistency, stringing six straight pars before getting bogies at 7, 8 and 9. He birdied No. 10, and had three more bogies in the last nine.

DICK KOCI

Bill Schwerin and Bob Reiland of 444 Press also showed consistency, Schwerin putting together a pair of 38s and Reiland — a zero handicap golfer — a pair of 39s.

The team scores last year, when 19 squads participated, showed 10 teams at 330 or higher. This year, there were only two.

The tourney, as usual, was directed by Bob Paddock, vice president of Paddock Publications, and G. A. McElroy, superintendent of Palatine School Dist. 211.

State Champion Wins Three More

Arlington Heights, state American Legion baseball champion, warmed up for the Fifth Regional tournament in East Chicago, Ind. with three victories over Dundee.

Arlington scored two 9-1 victories over Dundee Sunday in a doubleheader and emerged with a 2-0 decision Monday evening.

Coach Lloyd Meyer utilized the five pitchers on his mound staff in the three victories.

Paul Splittorff went seven innings, John Friedl four, Mark Newman three, and John Loughman two in the doubleheader sweep.

Jerry Fink ripped a three-run homer and Rich Hoppe had a two-run triple for the big blows.

Tom Lundgren worked five innings Monday and was relieved by Newman. Arlington scored a single run in the first on a walk to Thad Woodard and singles by Newman and Tom LeStarge.

In the seventh Arlington pushed over an insurance marker. Hoppe tripled leading off and Mike Frase doubled him home.

With the victories Arlington Heights pushed its season record to 36-4. The state champs play Grove City, Ohio today (Thursday) at 5:30 p.m. in the East Chicago, Ind. Regional.

Park

tan, is now in her second year of racing in the United States, and comes off a pair of very convincing wins in California.

Making a big stretch run in both, the six-year-old captured the Wilshire and Vanity Handicaps, leaving little doubt as to her powerful form in either race. Her 1:21 clocking for seven furlongs in the Wilshire was only a full second off the world's record, and the 1:48 2/5 at 1 1/8 miles in the Vanity also raised many eyebrows.

A stakes winner in her native country, she was purchased in Sept., 1963 by Hank Moreno. Jockey John Longden, the leading all-time rider, was up on the mare during the pair of stakes wins, and may fly in to handle the assignment in the Matron.

REGARDED AS the second best sophomore filly in the country last year behind Tosmah, Miss Cavandish has also done well for herself this summer, already winning the Molly Pitcher Handicap and finishing third in the Delaware.

Having made only one appearance this year, Star Maggie, who won the Beverly at Arlington last season, is in serious training. but may not quite be up to the 1 1/8 miles.

She won here last Monday with ridiculous ease over six furlongs last Monday, touring the distance in 1:10 2/5 on a sloppy track. Should she go postward, Ray York will be in the irons.

and Walinski also ripped a double in the three-run second. Singles by Dan Collins, Donahue, and Tom Epperly combined with two errors to bring in the final markers.

Score by innings:

Lions	030 000 2—5-7
Fox Lake	000 000 0—0-2

THE LIONS and Badgers battled to a 4-4 deadlock last Thursday in a Winnemac league game.

Tom Collins went six innings for the Lions and Donahue finished up.

The Lions scored their first run in the first inning with two outs. Donahue doubled and Epperly singled.

Two more came across in the third on an error, single by Donahue, and double by Epperly. Tom Collins followed with a single, but Epperly was thrown out at the plate.

The Arlington Heights nine scored the tieing run in the sixth on a single by Tom Collins and single by Loner.

Score by innings:

Badgers	004 000 0—4-6
Lions	102 001 0—4-6

DUNDEE NUMBER Two nipped the Lions Friday 3-2, scoring two runs in the first and what proved to be the winning counter in the third.

Tom McDonald was the starter and loser for the Lions. Errors led to both Lion runs.

Score by innings:

Dundee	021 000 —3-9
Lions	000 000 00—0-4

IN THE FIRST game of a Saturday doubleheader the Trojans nipped the Lions and Donahue in an eight-inning thriller 1-0. Three errors brought in the only run.

Donahue allowed only three hits over eight frames.

The Lions had their chances but couldn't cash in. They loaded the bases in the third and had two men on in the sixth.

Score by innings:

Trojans	000 000 01—1-3
Lions	000 000 00—0-4

THE RAMS HIT Tom Collins early and often en route to a 9-3 triumph in Saturday's nightcap. Walinski finished up for the losers.

The Lions scored a single run in the first on doubles by Dan Collins and Donahue and added two more in the fourth ona double by Epperly, single by Tom Collins and single by McDonald.

THE LOCAL nine took on one of Illinois' finest American Legion baseball teams Sunday in a doubleheader and lost both ends.

Rockford, working with an identical lineup that participated in the state tourney, copped the opener 4-3. Bill Miller was the starter and loser for the Lions.

Rockford counted the deciding run in the fifth inning on a drag bunt after the Lions had collected three in the top half of the frame.

Score by innings:

ROCKFORD unleashed the offensive power in the second game and used two big innings for a 16-4 win. They scored seven runs in the third and eight in the sixth.

The Lions had a 4-0 lead when Rockford went to work in the third.

Tom Collins started on the hill for the locals and absorbed the setback. Ray Ryan and Dick Noffke toiled for Rockford with Noffke getting the win.

A walk to Tom Collins and triple by Epperly brought in the first Lion run, and Donahue came across on a wild pitch in the second. Dan Collins' triple accounted for the two runs in the hird.

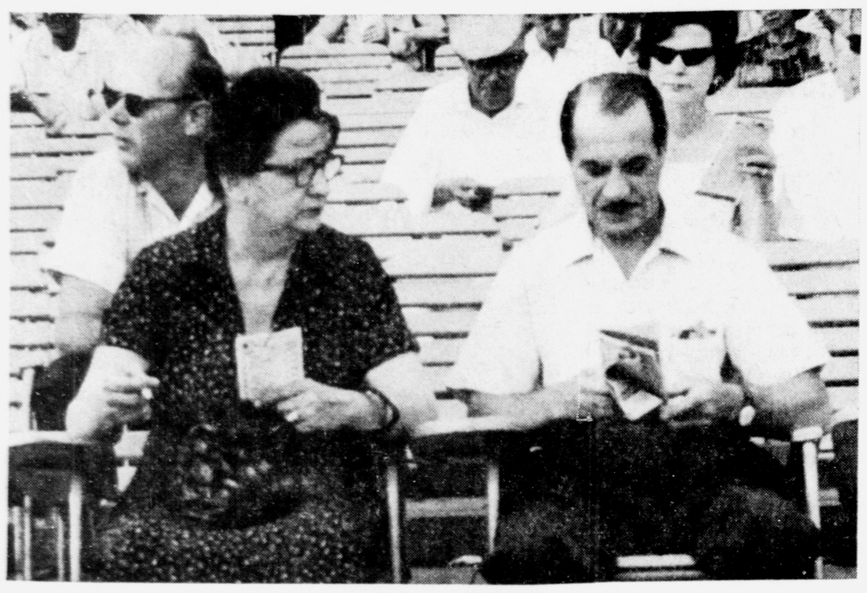
Mournful Tale of a First Day at the Track



"WHATTA YA MEAN, ya gotta winner? Lemme see!" That question is one all track bugs would like an answer to. Another query which could use an answer is whether the pleasure for racing fans is in winners or betting. If wagering provides the fun, then many track buffs must be ecstatic. If collecting alone causes happiness, then millions upon millions must be miserable.

Seven Time Loser Bewails His Fate

by MICHAEL HESS

Did you see that idiot?

Crouched outside Arlington Park race track, casting torn mutuel tickets to the breezes, some imbecile was bawling pitifully, "My money . . . my money . . ."

That moron was this reporter, hereafter referred to as The Boob.

He had written of the $ won by horses, had learned of the $$ won by jockeys, had heard of the $$$ won by owners, had dreamed of the $$$$ won by bettors. "Some of that lettuce should line my pockets," wisely reasoned The Boob.

And so our hero embarked on his first day at the races.

HAVING SHELLED out $2.25 for parking, program and admission, The Boob learned the opening scamper of the blazingly hot afternoon was a six furlong affair for three-year-olds. A swift perusal of the line-up convinced him his initial choice should be number seven, Knight's Note.

He strode to a $2 show window. "Number seven," proclaimed The Boob. A bored teller took his cash and pressed a button. "Whizzuure," said a machine and out popped a ticket.

The Boob exuded confidence along with perspiration as he plunged into the heat near the track.

Prancing, dancing, walking, mincing, the horses paraded on their way to the post. Knight's Note looked trim; he looked fit; he looked grand; he looked as if could finish first and certainly no lower than third.

"LOOKS LIKE A sure thing," noted The Boob.

He found a seat, leaned back, and luxuriated in the supreme knowledge of what an eight to one show ticket would return. He'd certainly get back the $4.25 put out so far. How would he spend the money? How much would he collect on the other races? Wouldn't want to be too greedy, but a person could get rich. . .

"They're off," screamed the track announcer.

A broad smile spread across The Boob's face. "Here comes my money," he thought. "Good old KN."

Growing excitement whipped the crowd around him to a frenzy as the horses rounded the far turn. The Boob stood up. Knight's Note wasn't in front when the horses pounded into the stretch. A small tickle of panic disturbed The Boob's stomach.

WAIT, THERE was Knight's Note, fifth but coming on fast. "Come on Knight's Note. . . come on old KN. . .come on buddy, bring me money," roared The Boob. Faster than a speeding bullet the horses flashed past his position and under the wire.

"Third, third, third," whooped The Boob. "I did it, I did it. Where's my money? How much. . . ."

". . .and Knight's Note fourth," intoned the announcer.

Horror! Disaster! Thunder and lightning! "A mistake, there must be some mistake," thought The Boob. "How could I lose?" Wild fright gripped him as he snatched at his program and, white-eyed, scanned the second race line-up.

"I've got to get even, got to, got to, got to," he muttered. "Which one will get me even?" The Boob's answer jumped at him from the page: Beetsie's Pal, number two, carrying gold and blue colors and Martin Freed in the saddle was his pick.

"MARTIN FREED," shouted The Boob at a $2 show window. "No, I mean Beetsie's Pal, number two." "Haizzurha," chuckled a machine and our hero stumbled back into the heat of the track.

Beetsie's Pal was a dun-colored 50 to one shot that now carried all The Boob's sweating hopes for recouping his losses. "That ugly brute better come through," threatened the backer as that friend of Beetsie's waltzed toward the starting gate.

"They're off," screamed the announcer.

The Boob's pal was in second, a solid second, and he stayed there. Down the back stretch, around the turn, past the stands the field of ten thundered with positions unchanged. But the fates laughed and our hero's choice faded.

". . . .and Beetsie's Pal fourth," intoned the track announcer.

ERUPTIONS OF sorrow and frustration, fire and brimstone: "Ooooooooh, how could he. I've lost $6.25. Think! Think what I could have done with $6.25. Oh good-by $6.25." The Boob walked in numbness and sat frozen in a blue funk through the third race.

Fourth race trumpets roused The Boob. "Got to get even," he muttered. A series of $2 show wagers were then placed hopefully on hopeless nags.

Mad Ben was seventh in the fourth race. Jolly Cork, a 99 to one shot, was dead last, 18 lengths behind the fifth race leaders. Smart Actor was sixth in the sixth. Boxscore was fourth in the seventh.

Then came the eighth race. "My last try," whispered The Boob. "I'm down $14.25. Yi, no, it can't be, not $14.25?" "Yes, $14.25," replied his wallet. "Even, even, got to get even," screeched The Boob through clenched teeth.

HE CONSULTED the program.

"Liz, yes, that's the one. Liz will do it." He trotted toward the nearest show window. "No, wait," babbled The Boob. "Liz is nine to one, can't get even with show bet." He fled to a win window.

"Number six," pleaded The Boob. "Stupizzuurid," commented a machine. And back to the track rolled our hero.

"They're off. . . .Liz grabs the lead."

"I'LL DO IT, I'll get even," whimpered The Boob. The field of seven rounded the far turn. "Liz, half a length in front. . .", soothed the track announcer. "I've doodit, I've doodit," reasoned The Boob.

The horses were into the home stretch. "At nine to one I'll just get even." The horses whipped closer. "Liz holds her lead." "Come on," yowled The Boob, "come on."

"And here come Regal Nell," warned the announcer.

"What? What?" yammered The Boob.

"Regal Nell gets the lead," told the announcer.

"Who's Regal Nell?" squeaked The Boob.

"REGAL NELL is the winna answered the announcer. "It's a photo for second. . . ."

"My money," sobbed The Boob. "My money. . .my money . . ."

It was a broke and broken Boob that wandered from the race track. His lamentations lasted until he was outside. That crouching, crying scene ensued.

POOR BOOB. . .

SHADOWS, ISLANDS of light, whirring machines; blurred faces, clipped words, nervous fingers; cracked wallets, worn bills, loose change; spent pay-checks, empty pockets, lost dreams; and a one-in-a-million fortune . . . All are part of the pain and pleasure surrounding any race track betting window.

"DAG NABIT! Con sarn filly better pay off!" And so it goes: Thousands check weights, jockeys and past performance. Most study overall blood lines, general ancestry and specific parentage. Some reflect on owner's history and trainer's methods. A few just use a blindfold and pin. The results? Nag Dabit! (Staff photo by Don Vickery)

PHEASANT HUNTERS may expect a little famine in the fields this fall, and for duck hunters, the prospects look to be even more uninspiring.

The Illinois Department of Conservation's game technicians have concluded that hunters will find fewer ringnecks this year than last. It appears to be the case in the other big pheasant states, too.

For those hunters who exulted at the lengthening of the season and the increasing of the limit a few years ago, the result is an unhappy—though justifiable—one. The limits have been lowered again, and the season shortened.

Two cock—and only cock—pheasants will be allowed daily, with the possession limit four after opening day. The season will begin at noon on Saturday, November 13 and run through Sunday, December 12.

The word on the duck season should be out shortly, and it's likely to be a somber one. The federal Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife has reported that the duck breeding population this year was at the lowest level since accurate surveys were begun in 1947.

THE PROBLEM IS reported especially acute among the immensely-popular mallards. The bureau is concluding that regulations last year were probably too liberal, at least for the mallard.

Predictions on the fall flights of ducks foresee them as no better—perhaps worse—than last year; so it looks like shorter seasons and lower limits can be expected.

The general pessimism does not extend to one game bird, the mourning dove. That is, providing there is no sharp frost late this month or early next.

Dove season is to begin at 1 p.m. on Wednesday, September 1, and run until sunset Tuesday, November 9, with hunting hours to begin after noon each day of the season. The daily bag will be 12 birds, and possession 24. The dove is abundant, and is one of the few game birds increasing in population in the United States.

FOR THOSE ANXIOUS to unlimber shotguns, take note of these other seasons and limits:

—Quail, November 13 through December 26, eight birds daily, 16 in possession.

—Hungarian partridge, November 13 through December 12, two birds daily, four in possession.

—Squirrel (Northern Zone), September 1 through October 31, five daily, the limit 10. (The Southern Zone season is already underway).

—Rabbits, November 22 through January 31, five daily, 10 possession.

You may take note of a new look in the "Notebook" format. It's not without reason.

Cognizant of the rivalry—sometimes downright antagonism—between lovers of the field and devotees of the water sports, we're trying to strike a little more balance in the new format. The old one could have been criticized as too water-oriented.

The new one may not do much for campers, hikers and boat enthusiasts, but we are thinking of them.

Grid Sign-Up In Arlington

The final registration for the Arlington Heights Boys Football program will be held this Saturday, Aug. 21, between 9 and 12 a.m. at Recreation Park.

Boys are urged to sign up at this time as they have to exercise for at least two weeks prior to the first scrimmage.

A birth certificate and $6.00 are required for each boy at the registration.

Any questions may be directed to Football Chairman Bob Lestarge (392-9961).

Arlington High Sets Grid Issue

Football candidates at Arlington High School will begin drawing equipment next Monday morning, Aug. 23, Head Coach Al Allen announced this week.

Allen has set the following times for the issue of equipment:

Seniors — Starting at 9 a.m., Monday, Aug. 23.

Juniors — 10 a.m., Monday.

Sophomores — 1:30 p.m., Monday.

Frosh —9-12 noon, Tuesday.

Practice will get under way on Wednesday, Aug. 25, at 8:30 a.m. with the Cardinal Mile.

Freshmen and sophomores must register in school before they can draw equipment. Juniors and seniors may register after drawing equipment.

Registration will be held Monday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the library. Every boy must have his physical, parent permit card, and insurance taken care of before practice.

Falcon Grid Candidates to Draw Equipment

Forest View High School football candidates will draw equipment next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, Falcon Coach Bob Scott announced this week.

Practice will get under way on Wednesday, Aug. 25, at 8 a.m.

Scott listed the following times for grid equipment issue at Forest View:

Monday, Aug. 23 — Juniors and Seniors, 7-9 p.m.

Tuesday, Aug. 24 — Sophomores, 7-9 p.m.

Wednesday, Aug. 25 — Freshmen, 9-11 a.m.

Players must have engaged in a minimum of ninety minutes of actual field practice on each of 14 days preceding the first interschool game or scrimmage, and no school may play its opening game earlier than Friday, Sept. 17.

Prospect Grid Issue Begins Next Monday

Prospect Football Coach Don Williams emphasized again this week that Knight grid candidates will register for school Monday, Aug. 23, and draw their equipment over three days.

Equipment will be issued as follows:

Seniors — 6-7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 23.

Juniors — 7-8 p.m. Monday, Aug. 23.

Sophomores — 6-7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 24.

Freshmen — 8 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 25.

Football practice will get under way on Wednesday. Players must have engaged in a minimum of ninety minutes of actual field practice on each of 14 days preceding the first interschool game or scrimmage.

Cross Country Registration At FV High School

The Forest View High School cross country team will hold registration for all runners on Monday, August 30, at 9 a.m.

That's the word from varsity coach Bob Rees, who has asked all candidates to report to the Forest View gym with their physical exams, insurance receipts and running equipment.

Regional Play Opens

He's 14-1 for the season.

Behind Lundgren is Splittorff and Paul can come up with that big effort. He looked tough in the championship game against Rockford after a so-so start and carries a neat 8-2 record into the Regional meet. Splittorff has had some problems in the early innings this season but has been rough at the finish.

Newman turned in a strong stint against Galesburg in a crucial game at the state and probably will get the third call in East Chicago — if that call comes. Friedl, a southpaw who earned all-league honors on the hill at Arlington High last spring, also got a win in Carmi, and Meyer remembers well how John choked off Maine South in relief in the playoff game that sent Heights to the Cook County playoffs. He can help out.

LOUGHMAN, A stickout centerfielder and leadoff man, is a fifth possibility on the hill. John worked two innings in the state.

In a double elimination tournament where the pitchers are limited to only 12 innings in three days, mound depth is vital. Arlington had that depth in Carmi.

Meyer has been encouraged by the Arlington offensive attack in recent outings. They've been coming up with the clutch blows, and the hero roles haven't been reserved for one or two boys. The big hits have been passed around.

NEWMAN HIT .520 at the state finals and Hoppe came in at .417. Loughman was the third regular over .300 with a .304 mark. Everyone helped out in the five victories.

Picking a favorite in the Regional meet is difficult, but tourney officials admittedly feel Detroit is the "team to beat" because it won the crown in 1964 and advanced to the National.

Upland, Calif. won the National Legion championship last summer.

Route to Meet

Fans driving to East Chicago, Ind., for the Regional Legion tournament should allow about two hours for the trip, meet officials advise.

Here is the route as suggested by the host officials:

Elk Grove Footballers Are Alerted

A special call is out to the boys who will make up the nucleus of the football teams for the new Elk Grove High School.

Though the school won't open until September of 1966, the candidates for its grid teams will be kept together at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights during the upcoming athletic season.

SO ALL FRESHMAN and sophomore football candidates who have a mailing address of Elk Grove, Des Plaines, Bensenville and Roselle — but live in High School District 214 — are being advised that they can secure their football gear at Forest View this year.

Sophomores will draw their equipment between 7 and 8:30 p.m. on Monday, August 23, and freshmen will be issued theirs during the same hours on Tuesday, August 24. All equipment will be issued at the FVHS gym.

The first practice for the boys will start Wednesday morning, August 25.

Candidates are reminded to have — at the time they're issued equipment — evidence of a doctor's examination and insurance coverage.

Tough Decision

Seven teams among the top ten received first place votes in the Associated Press listing of the top small-college football teams in 1964. Wittenberg got the nod for first with Prairie View second. Los Angeles State topped the UPI poll.

Outline Boosters' Objectives

by THE CARDINAL
BOOSTER CLUB

What is a Booster?

According to Webster, a Booster is a person who boosts; an ENTHUSIASTIC SUPPORTER.

What does it mean to boost?

Webster says to boost is to urge the merits of; to speak in favor of, a push or help to PROPEL SOMETHING UPWARD AND FORWARD.

What about the word Cardinal?

We all know the Cardinal bird is the chosen bird of Illinois. It is also, of course, the representative name of Arlington High School. Webster defines Cardinal as "on which something hinges or depends; fundamental; principal; chief.

A club is in part defined as a group of people associated for a common purpose.

PUTTING THOSE definitions together you have a group of people associated for a common purpose, to urge the merits of, to speak in favor of, to push or help propel something upward and forward . . . a principal and fundamental body on which something hinges or depends; enthusiastic supporters working together for a cause.

The Booster Club at Arlington High School, now accepting memberships for the 1965-66 school year, subsidizes bus service for away athletic events. This permits students to travel at a reduced cost.

The Boosters also assist in purchasing needed equipment to help make participation in athletics safer and more complete, and they work closely with the administration and athletic department to give assistance—moral, physical, and financial.

BANQUETS HONORING the athletes are held by the Booster Club with scholar-athlete awards recognizing the combination of high grades and athletic ability.

Lucky Somers is president of the Cardinal Booster Club with Charles Ewart and John Kehe serving as vice presidents.

Anyone interested in joining the Booster Coub should mail a $3.00 check to the Cardinal Booster Club, c/o Arlington High School.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting one of the Booster officers.

Travelers Fall in Football Exhibition

In what the Elmhurst coaching staff termed a "beneficial game even in defeat" the Travelers suffered a 21-19 setback Saturday evening in Madison in a Central States Football League exhibition.

"We learned a lot from this game," Elmhurst head man George Kulton reported. "We beat ourselves but there were some encouraging signs even in defeat. We'll be ready for our first league game."

Elmhurst will travel Sunday to play the Manitowoc Chiefs in Kaukana, Wis. at 2 p.m. in the first league outing. Fans may reach the field by taking Route 41 through Milwaukee to the Route 55 intersection. Turn right at the intersection and go to the Kaukana High School field.

MADISON TOOK a 14-0 lead in the first period last Saturday and never trailed the rest of the way.

The first Madison score was set up when a Tom Beck pass was intercepted and returned to the Elmhurst 13 yard line. In four smashes at the line Madison tallied the first touchdown.

Elmhurst was forced to punt, and the Madison safetyman returned the boot 53 yards to the 22 yard line. They scored again to push the advantage to 14-0.

The Travelers finally cracked the scoring column on a march of 67 yards. Curtis Griswold, who showed some fancy running during the game, scored from the two. Beck hit Jim Vertovec with a pass that covered 24 yards in the drive.

BECK AND Griswold teamed up on a scoring aerial for the second Traveler socre, Griswold taking a flat pass on the Madison 34.

Early in the fourth quarter Madison was forced to punt and the ball dropped near the Elmhurst goal line. The ball hit an Elmhurst player and was recovered by Madison on the six. They scored in two plays to increase their lead to 21-12.

Elmhurst's Jimmy Hanrahan thrilled the crowd on a scamper from his own five to the Madison 26 and Beck then hit Griswold to the 16 and John Scheldrup in the end zone. Scheldrup kicked the extra point.

Elmhurst, now trailing 21-19, had a chance to pull the game out when Jim Bejna recovered a fumble and carried to the Madison 17, but on the next play Beck was thrown for a 17 yard loss. He completed two passes that picked up 16 yards, but Madison took over.

Event Set for Sunday

Annual Obedience Trial at Prospect

Hot dogs — both the kind you pet and the kind you eat —will be plentiful Sunday, Aug. 22, in the Field House of Prospect High School. This is the date of the huge dog show, the eighth annual obedience trial sponsored by the area's Northwest Obedience Club.

An all-day show, beginning at 9 a.m., refreshments, including hot dogs and other sandwiches and snacks will be available throughout the day. "The show will provide a perfect opportunity for family outings," commented Leo Smolinski of Bartlett, president of the sponsoring club. Tickets will be available at the door.

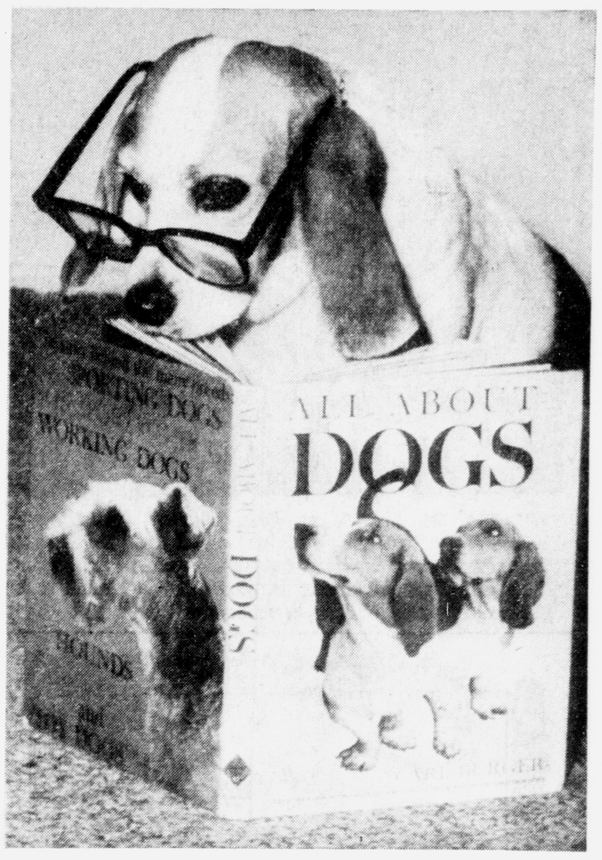
AN AKC licensed all breed trial, more than 200 pure-bred dogs from all over the midwest will be performing in five rings simultaneously. Included in the huge show will be novice, open and utility rings. Many will be working toward "legs" to earn AKC "diplomas." All will compete for the more than 100 trophies that will be awarded in the afternoon when all dogs have completed their turn in the ring.

Novice dogs will be expected to heel on and off lead, stand for examination, execute a recall and do long sits and downs. Open dogs will add jumping and retrieving, while the utility dogs will be executing scent discrimination exercises, directed jumps, finding "lost" articles and obeying hand signals.

Each dog will be starting off with a perfect score of 200, from which AKC judges deduct points for each mistake.

NORTHWEST OBEDIENCE Club, which trains in Palatine, presents this show each year, not only to offer an opportunity for the area dogs to earn "degrees," but also to demonstrate to the public the results of obedience training.

Bob Moriarty of Hoffman Estates, director of training of the club, claims that "an obedience-trained dog makes for a better pet and better 'citizen' of the community." "Dogs also like to please their masters and welcome a change from household routine. Obedience training offers them this opportunity," Moriarty added.



CRAMMING FOR THE obedience trials to be held Sunday, Aug. 22, at Prospect High School, is this area Beagle Hound. An all-day show, more than 200 dogs of all breeds will be performing simultaneously in five rings before AKC judges. The public is invited to view this demonstration of obedience training, sponsored by Northwest Obedience Club.

Paddock Tourney Sites Announced

The men at Hoffman Lanes in Hoffman Estates; the women at Striking Lanes; plus mixed league representatives at Striking Lanes.

That's the lineup for the 1966 Paddock bowling tournaments scheduled for the fourth and fifth weekends in January. Complete details will be announced in about a month.

THE PADDOCK bowling tournaments have become legend with more than 200 leagues represented last season. This time more than 125 men's loops are expected to send league leaders into action at Hoffman Lanes Jan. 22-23, 1966.

A week later over 125 women's leagues will be represented in the big meet at Striking Lanes Jan. 29-30. That same weekend, a brand new tourney for mixed leagues of the area will be held at Striking in Mt. Prospect.

League secretaries are urged to set aside $20 in league fund planning for entry fee in the Paddock event.

RON SANTO, Chicago Cubs' third baseman, is one of two Cub stars who will appear at Arlington Park Dodge Thursday, Aug. 19, from 7-9 p.m. Fans are urged to stop in to meet and talk with Santo.

Mount Prospect Pony All-Stars Fall In Tourney

Mount Prospect's Pony League all-star team took it on the chin in recent tournament play, but fought for 10 innings before going down.

The Mount Prospect nine tangled with the Pony all-stars from Waukegan and were beaten 3-2 in the extra-inning fray.

The team was managed by Al Glover of 224 S. Louis in Mount Prospect.

Arlington All-Stars Win, 1-0

The Arlington Heights All-Stars will play the Racine White Sox Saturday at 12 noon at Thillens Stadium in the Thillens Invitational baseball tournament.

Arlington advanced in the tourney with a 1-0 victory over Meadow Lake last Saturday evening.

Gene Elsberg worked six innings and Ken Koster toiled for two in the impressive victory. Koster scored the winning run on a bunt by Bill Heffernan.

If Arlington Heights wins Saturday in the single elimination tourney, it will play again Sunday afternoon.

Fans may reach Thillens Stadium by taking Golf Road to McCormick, turning right on McCormick to Devon. The field is located on Devon.

Cat Show Aug. 21-22

The Windy City Short Hair Cat Fanciers will present their 2nd All American Short Hair Cat Show at the O'Hare Congress Motel, 3010 N. Mannheim Rd., on August 21 and 22. Show hours are from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The 1965 All American Cat of the Year will be present. He is a Silver Tabby Domestic known as Shawnee Trademark, owned by Mrs. Wm. Shuttleworth of Jeffersontown, Ky.

The show will be assisted by the Girl Scouts of the North West Cook Council and they will receive a portion of the show income for their camping fund.

The following local people will be exhibitors at the show: Mr. & Mrs. Donald Iverson, 2107 Hawk Ln., Rolling Meadows; Mr. & Mrs. Robert Hampson, 3603 Oriole Ln., Rolling Meadows; and Mr. & Mrs. Bruce Trimble, 77 E. Fairfax, Palatine.

Arlington Tennis Team Triumphs

The Arlington Heights Park District tennis team, sparked by Harley Gates and Jim Coleman, achieved an easy 7-0 win over Barrington.

Gates, playing number two, did away with Gordon Monsen 8-5 and Coleman won his singles match over Dick Paulson 8-1. Gates and Coleman also teamed up for an impressive 8-4 win at first doubles.

Other scores were: John Schinka over Rob Morrison 8-6; Bob Galagher over Jeff Lehman 8-0; Jane Ulrich over Barbie Wastcoat 8-4; and Schlinka Norm Zeller teamed up for an 8-2 win over Lehman and Paulson at second doubles.

Harrier Drills To Begin Monday

Arlington High School cross country practice will begin next Monday, Aug. 23, at 6:45 p.m., Head Coach Bruce Samoore announced this week.

Samoore, who will serve as head cross country coach at Arlington after spending eight seasons at Grant High School, has issued the call for all harrier candidates, including incoming freshmen.

Boys should report to the Arlington High track and bring gym shoes or track warmup shoes and gym shorts.

Candidates must have completed their physicals and have taken care of their parent's permit card and fees.

Several boys have been running during the summer, but Samoore is still looking for more candidates.

"Boys coming out for the first time don't have to be concerned with speed," he said. "You have to be willing to spend time developing your endurance. The speed will come."

Bob Yeazel, one of five returning lettermen, will captain the Cardinal squad. Other monogram winners back are Dave Schimpf, Greg Busch, and Tom Thornton. Pete Barker, a senior who lettered last fall, looms as a question-mark and may not report.

Arlington Fourth In Swim Finals;

The Arlington Heights Park District Swim team finished fourth out of twelve teams in the Northern Illinois Swim Conference.

Arlington won all its dual meet competitions as well as the division meet.

Arlington had four swimmers who set conference meet records. They were Marcia Kaipus, Ed Laue, Cathy Rowe, and Barb Raasch.

Marcia Kaipus set the conference record in the 100 yard freestyle with a time of 1:02.1, the 100 yard individual medley with a time of 1:12.5, and the 50 Yard backstroke with a time of 0:34.2. Marcia's 100 Yard freestyle time is one of the best in the nation for 11 and 12 year old girls.

Ed Laue set three conference meet records in the Boy's nine and ten year old age bracket. Ed did :13.8 for 25 yard freestyle, :16.6 in the 25 yard backstroke and :15.5 in the butterfly.

Barb Raasch set two conference marks in the girl's fifteen and over category. Barb turned in a time of 1:17.3 in the 100 yard breaststroke. Barb broke her own 100 yard individual medley record as well as the conference record with a time of 1:10.9.

Cathy Rowe, besides qualifying in all events she had entered, set the conference record in the girl's thirteen and fourteen year old butterfly with a time of :31.0.

Swim Meet At YMCA

A novice swim meet will be held at the Northwest Suburban YMCA Saturday, Aug. 28 at 2 p.m.

This meet, sponsored by the pool staff, will give boys and girls who are members of the Y a chance to use some of the skills they have learned in the summer swim program. All boys and girls who are members of the Y and were not on the 1964 swim team are invited to participate in the meet.

MEMBERS will be divided into age groups of 8 years and under, 9 and 10 years old, 11 and 12 years old, and 13 and over. Boys will swim boys and girls, girls.

Ormsbee Outlines Eligibility Facts For Wheeling High

All prospective football candidates at Wheeling High School will open practice starting Wednesday, Aug. 25, and must take care of certain duties before that date, Athletic Director E. E. (Bus) Ormsbee announced this week.

Ormsbee outlined the items which must be followed:

1. All candidates must have completed their registration at the high school which will take place Monday, Aug. 23, between 8:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. At this time all fees must be paid, student insurance ($3.50) and football insurance ($10.00) taken out and athletic physical exams turned in.

2. Be aware of Illinois High School Association eligibility rules whereby no boy may compete on an athletic squad if (1) he received a failing mark in more than one course in his last semester in school regardless of makeup work taken during summer school; (2) he is a transfer student this year from a parochial school affiliated with the IHSA but who was living within the boundaries of District 214 while attending that parochial school; (3) he has reached his 19th birth date on or before Sept. 18, 1965; (4) he is entering his ninth semester of high school education; (5) he has already participated in four years of football at the high school level regardless of the number of semesters in high school; (6) he has not successfully completed the IHSA required physical examination.

All boys going out for cross country must also register on the same date and student insurance ($3.50) must be obtained at that time. Physical exam cards must be submitted then.

Parent permit cards will be issued to athletes upon the completion of registration. These cards must be returned at the time equipment is issued.

No candidate in either football or cross country will be issued equipment without a traveling athletic card which will be issued on the satisfactory completion of the aforementioned items.

LARRY JACKSON, 24 game winner for the Chicago Cubs in 1964, is one of two Cub stars who will appear at Arlington Park Dodge Thursday, Aug. 19, from 7-9 p.m.

Busse Motor Sales Nears Golf Crown

Busse Motor Sales looks like a sure bet to win the Monday night Mount Prospect Golf League title this year.

With only two nights of play remaining, the Busse Motormen have a five point lead over the Winkelmann's Shell team.

Busse Motors defeated the Mount Prospect Savings & Loan team 6 to 4 while Winkelmann's Shell Service was besting Mount Prospect State Bank 7 to 3.

Picket Paint lost to Carl's Coin-Op 5½ to 4½ and slipped to third place in the process. J & B Village Market downed Annne & Busse 7 to 3.

Karlsen's Pharmacy won out over Van Driel's 7 to 3. Illinois Range got by George L. Busse 6 to 4.

Gus Knack and George Koehler tied for Low Gross with a 42. Gus also came in with the Low Net with his 42-10-32.

The top point men are Paul Barnes, Warren Starkey and John Tate with 16½ points each.

Birdies were recorded by S. Goodling on 9, Rolly Gerrard on 13, Ken Willert on 15.

Standings are as follows:

Busse Motor Sales	79
Winkelmann's Shell	74
Picket Paint	72
Illinois Range	71
George L. Busse Co.	68½
Mt. Pros. Sav. & Ln.	67½
Karlsen's Pyarmacy	63 3/4
J & B Village Mkt	63
Carl's Coin-Op Dry Cl.	59
Annen & Busse	58 3/4
Mt. Pros State Bank	54
Van Driel's Drug Str.	49½

Area Golfers Among Leaders

Four Paddock area golfers finished in the top 12 of the 38th annual Midwest Amateur Golf Tournament on the Waveland course in Lincoln Park.

Art Melinkoff, playing out of Arlington Country Club, fired a 295 over 72 holes to finish two strokes behind the leader Al McLean of Wilmette.

Right behind Melinkoff at 299 was Mike Spinello of Rob Roy, former standout at Arlington High School and one of the leading amateurs in the Paddock area.

Warren Luebcke of Rob Roy, a Prospect High grad, posted a 300, and Norm Milner, another Prospect graduate who was playing unattached, came in at 309.

Cheerleading Spots Available

There are still some openings for cheerleaders in the Mount Prospect Midget Football League.

Registration will be closed after Monday, Aug. 23.

Any girls between the ages of 8 and 13 who are interested in cheerleading should contact Sally Leo at CLearbrook 9-3943.

444 Press Holds Lead In Scratch

The race for the Old Orchard Scratch League championship seems to have developed into a battle among three teams, with the front running 444 Press giving no indication of weakening in the stretch.

With three of the team members among the top nine golfers in the individual standings, they represent a lineup that is a tremendous challenge to any other team in the league.

Last Friday they just about killed all hope of Lohr's Pharmacy for the title by handing them a sound 6-2 trouncing with Bill Schwerin and John Keeley shooting very fine rounds of 35 and 36 respectively. Best score for the Pharmacists was a 36 by Dick Bokelmann in handing Bob Reiland his second loss of the year, due mainly to putting troubles after hitting eight of the nine greens.

KEEPING PACE with the leaders was Busse's Flowers who moved into second place by picking up six points from Haire Funeral Home. Two reserves came through handsomely for the Florists as Lee Hansen, filling in for the No. 1 man, recorded a one over par 36 in winning his match and Oscar Chenoweth turned in a 38 while shooting in the five spot. Joe Rouse celebrated his return to action with a fine 37. Busse's possess a very well balanced team, and they should give 444 Press a good run right down to the wire.

Miles & Miles Inc. lost a little ground to the leaders in dropping a 4½-3½ decision to Bob Burrow Chevrolet. Joe Conley jumped off to a three hole lead on Len Arnold and held on for the victory while posting a 37 for the Chevymen, and George Salamon, the No. 5 man for the Miles team, turned in his best round of the season, a 37 that included three birdies.

Robert L. Nelson Realtors returned to their winning ways after several dismal weeks by blasting Pitzen Cartage by a 7½-½ count. Marv Kamps led the attack with a 2 up decision over Avery Harris, and had only one bogey to go along with eight pars in recording a 36.

L-NOR CLEANERS displayed a little more of the type of golf that had been expected of them all year in taking a 5½-2½ decision from Peters & Co. Realtors. Bob Kronn and Cully Berlin got back in form, while Bob Sabin of the Realtors continued his excellent play with his second consecutive round of 37.

Arlington Realty maintained its winning ways by overcoming Baird & Warner, and remain in contention for one of the top three spots. Earl Frebe, John Neubauer, and Don Hamburg posted wins for Arlington.

BY ONE STROKE this foursome missed the top prize in Sunday's Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament at White Pines. Busse Motor Sales of the Monday division in the Mount Prospect Twilight league finished at 295 for second place. The team members, with their second place medals, are Herb Scott, Paul Barnes, Ed Luebcke and Dick Koci. With a net 66, Koci tied for low honors in that department.

Race Gets Tighter

Bainbridge Golfers Top Friday Leaders

by ELMER BLASCO

The name for it is drama, and the recipe consists of one team striving to hold on to first place; three teams filled with determination to catch the leader; only two weeks left in a season; and one sun in the western sky which drops a bit more quickly each evening.

That's the story in the Friday Night Twilight Golf League at the Mount Prospect Country Club as Captain Dick Piehl and his Mount Prospect State Bankers dropped on 8 to 4 decision to Captain Dudley Hartman and his Bainbridge Apartment five last Friday night to finish the evening's play only six tenths of a point ahead of Hartman and his Apartment-men, two points ahead of Captain Ed Berset's Meeske's quintet, and a mere 2.6 points out in front of the fourth place William's-Gray five of Captain Ray Felitto.

Piehl's Bankers — who were probably looking forward to their appearance in the Paddock Inter-League tournament Sunday — got off to what looked like a good start when the long-hitting Dick Piehl downed Bainbridge Captain Dudley Hartman five and three, using a bird on the par four 268 yard thirteenth to score the almost perfect win.

HARTMAN SCORED a too-late bird of his own on the tough 341 yard par four eighteenth and it looked like the second place Bainbridgers would not be able to close the gap on the leaders. Banker John Burck made it look even better with his three and two win over Dick Bindon.

But then the lower end of the Bainbridge lineup put a stop to the mortgage foreclosure. Jim Insolia turned back Banker George Miscevich three and two, Ed Deringer then rewrote the loan with his 44-12-net 32 — low net of the evening good for a two and one win over Banker Bob Rinehart. Don Quigley added the final two points with his no-contest card and the 8 to 4 win was on the board and the first ingredient for the drama to follow had been put into the pot.

The next two ingredients — the Williams-Gray Co. five of Ray Felitto and the Meeske Super Marketeers of Captain Berset — holding down the fourth and third spots in the standings had at it over Mount Prospect's front nine in a match that saw the Meeske-men eke out a narrow 7 to 5 win.

MEESKE'S BERSET opened the firing with his two and one win over Chuck Vojta, substituting for the absent Felitto, good for two points, and teammate Jim Scott added three more points with a three and two win over Dr. Ed Luzwick.

Ed Herkert finally put the Williams-Gray group on the scoreboard with his no-contest card and Jack Buyers one-clubbed his way to two more W-G points with a narrow one up win over Marnel Veleta. Meeske's Bill Mottweiler then halved his match with Walt Rutkowski, and the third and fourth teams by almost halving their team match had both gained on the leader.

And the long-shot ingredient in the recipe last Friday became the Wille Fuel and Lumber five led by Captain Al Gilso who picked up twelve points in the standings when Fred Clark's Pete Anderson's Standard Service team failed to field at least three men. The no-show win put the Wille-men just eleven points back in the standings in fifth place with an outside chance of their own for the title.

ALTHOUGH the recipe does not yet call for spice, Captain Joe Wylie of the F.B.K. Realtors added some of his own Friday night by turning in the outstanding birdie performance of the year in his match with Captain Bob Glader of the George S. May Company team.

Wylie's one over par card of 37 over Mount Prospect's tough back nine included consecutive birds on the 268 yard par four thirteenth, the long 369 yard par four fourteenth, and the 485 yard par five fifteenth.

Wylie had a virtual monopoly on birds for the evening as only five more were carded for the evening, including a four on the par five first by Captain Bill Harner of the Arlington Camera Shop five in his halved match with Captain Tony Ramicone of the Pro Sport Shop quintet, and Jordan Italia of Kruse's who helped his two up win over Keefer's Val Reising with a three on the par four 285 yard ninth.

The final ingredient to the recipe for this pending drama . . . the sun. With the sun setting earlier and earlier each evening, it could be that the 1965 championship for Mount Prospect's Friday Twi-nighters could well be decided with a final putt, in the early evening darkness of August 27, as several matches were this past Friday night.

And the kettle boils on at Mount Prospect.

Carter Holds Lead

Paddock Champion in 6-4 League Victory

Carter Music Shop, the new Paddock golf champion, continued to dominate the Tuesday division of the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League as teams resumed play last week after the washout of a week earlier.

The 6-4 win, however, didn't do much to improve their position as a pair of clean-sweeps by the runnerup teams reduced the leader's margin to less than five points, the narrowest it has been since June 29.

The most significant of the clean-sweep victories was that won by Mount Prospect Electric Construction Co. who apparently had little difficulty blanking Licht's Paint Store 10-0. This was the seventh straight victory for the hot Electricians and it enabled them to move to within 4 2/3 points of first-place Carters.

THE EVENING'S second clean sweep was not quite as glamorous. Morton Pontiac did hold Wille Lumber and Fuel to no score but the shut-out garnered them only eight points as one of the individual matches was recorded "no contest" when alternates called for both teams failed to show.

With only two nights of play remaining in the 1965 season and the top three teams only 8½ points apart, interest is increasing as to the odds Carter's faces in attempting to protect their first place position.

Fortunately for Carter, Mount Prospect Electric and Mortons are to play each other in the final night of scheduled play. While these two attempt to neutralize each other, Carter is scheduled to meet Busse-Biermann Hardware which may or may not be a break. Busse-Biermann, while somewhat erratic, has shown possibilities of producing an upset as evidenced by their 10-point clean sweep of a month ago over Licht's Paint Store.

ONE outside possibility could develop. Keefer's Pharmacy, presently in fourth place and showing good potential as they downed Busse-Biermann 7½-2½ last week, might be able to sneak into position to knock off one of the leaders and move into one of the three top slots.

Other contestants, too far off the pace to do much good, are Kirchhoff Insurance who last week downed Thunderbird Bowl 6½-3½, and Kersting Garden Center who suffered their third consecutive 8-2 defeat, this time to Moler's Barber Shop.

With the "A" players idle there was only one round posted under 40. This was the 38 scored by Capt. Ken Shipley of Carters.

Birdies were reported by Bob Kline on 3, Dick Elliott 13, and Ken Shipley 13 and 15.

Team standings, August 10:

Leaders Fall At Rob Roy

Stone Perforating upset leading Webber Paint 5½ to 1½ in the Rob Roy Tuesday league and is only 5½ points back of the pace setters with two evenings of play left in the 1965 season.

Mike Spinello, No. 1, and Marsh Balling, No. 2, were the big factors in the surprise triumph over the Paint crew, scoring 37-0-37 and 41-4-37 respectively on the back nine.

Prospect Heights Barber remained in second place five points back as they had to settle for a 3½ to 3½ tie with Borchardt's Restaurant. Jack Weber, in the No. 4 spot, was the big gun for the Restaurant squad with a fine round of 41-8-33 for team low net. Bob Johnson also contributed a 41-6-35 to the cause and Jim Pankonin of the opposing Barber Crew had an identical score.

Gunnell's Restaurant and Prospect Heights Pharmacy remained in a fourth place tie with 58 points each, just eight points off the pace. The Restaurant gang swept past C. P. Floor and Tile 5½ to 1½ and were again led to victory by their sharpshooting No. 1 man, Chuck Van Boxtaele, 37-3-34, good for two team points. The Pill Rollers scored a 6½ to ½ win over Golf Rand Golf Center as both No. 1 and No. 2 men, Ken Miller and Vince Hoffman, had net 36's to divide team low net honors.

BILL ASHER of C. P. Floor and Tile scored an eagle two on the par four first hole with a long drive and beautiful iron shot right into the cup.

Stan Pieterzak led the alternates with a 38-5-33 as he substituted for Irv Rybicki on the Rodewald Dairy team.

Bob Johnson was closest to the pin on No. 12 with an accurate iron shot to within 10 feet of the pin and Nick Zanini grabbed the same honor on No. 4.

The 12th of September has been chosen as the League Tournament day and the following Saturday, September 18, the banquet night.

The birdie group included: Ackerman 10; Kelly 10, 14; Miller 13, 14; Zanini 2; Spinello 13, 14; Van Boxtaele 12, 18; F. Pruyn 14; Strack 11; Pankonin 2; B. Johnson 12; Funk 18; Casteel 17.

Furniture Squad Nears Golf Title

With only two weeks remaining Arlington Furniture needs four points to clinch first place in the Friday night golf league at Arlington Country Club.

Wheeling Lumber, Webber Paint, and L-Nor Cleaners are battling for second.

Sneads Regain VFW Lead

After being rained out last week, the Arlington V.F.W. Golf League was back in action Monday night at Old Orchard Golf Club.

The Sneads overwhelmed the last place Sarazens with a 22-2 vistory and moved back into first place with a narrow three point lead over the second place Demarets.

A good night was enjoyed by the Burkes and the Armours as they each picked up 20 points from their opponents and moved into fifth and sixth place respectively.

Low gross honors went to Stew Sage as he fired a 2 over par 37. Max Mayrer took low net with one of his better efforts as he carded a 43-9-34.

Hole-in-One

Jerry Mertens, 425 S. Gibbons, Arlington Heights, scored a hole-in-one Sunday at Chevy Chase. He used a seven iron on the par 3, 135 yard sixth hole. Mertens is plant manager of Barco Division of Aeroquip in Barrington.

THURS., AUG. 19, 1965

Leonard Wegryn just missed getting a hole-in-one on the 167 yard sixth as his five iron shot hit the pin and fell ten inches from the hole. He dropped the putt for his birdie.

Wegryn, a number five man who practices every chance he gets on Friday before play, turned in a superb round of 142-13-29. He had two sevens on his card.

Other birdies for the evening were posted by Wegryn on 6 and Ruggio and Lucksinger on 8. Lucksinger, a number two man, turned in the best round with a 39.

Barnett, O'Connell, and Helfers fired 41s for the evening.

Two Teams Seek YMCA Golf Title

With only two nights remaining in the final half of the Northwest Suburban YMCA golf league Eidamiller Realty and Novak Parker appear to be the only teams capable of gaining the championship.

One-half point separates the two leaders with the two third place outfits four and one-half markers shy of the lead.

In last week's play Novak and Parker picked up five points, and Eidamiller had to settle for a split.

In indivdiual play a few bright lights appeared on the scene with a match between Ed Then of Ladendorf Olds and Max Pemoller of Allen's Store for Men showing four birdies on the back nine.

Then, who had three birdies, suffered a triple bogey on the 18th and still finished with a 37 gross.

Posting 39s were Pemoller, Dick Hoyt, George Silianoff, and Ed Nixon.

Low net honors went to Hoyt with a 31.

Classic Leagues To Open Aug. 28

Paddock Classic and Paddock Women's Classic bowling leagues will open the new season Striking Lanes in Mount Prospect with majoy Dan Congreve rolling the first ball.

Striking is one of two new franchise lanes in the high flying men's loop, and is also brand new to the Paddock Women's Classic. Both leagues were formed to offer good competition for top notch bowlers in the northwest suburbs.

PCTL attracts bowlers with averages of 185 and up, while the PWCTL draws women bowlers carrying averages of 160 or more.

Men's loop is about to embark on a concentrated program of upgrading, a program that will be announced to bowlers next week. Keglers are expected to accept the program at the rules committee meeting after competition Aug. 28, including approval of a $6,000-plus prize fund.

Standard Has 7-Point Lead In Golf Action

Hoffman Estates Standard Service fashioned the low team net for the week with a 185 and increased its season point production to 173 in the Hoffman Men's Golf League.

Hoffman Standard now holds a seven-point advantage in the links division over second place Roselle Color Center.

Newell Mann and Joe Fabbrini shared low individual net with 34s. Bob Allen and Bob Powell carded low individual gross with identical 38s.

Family Guidance Benefit Will Have Parisian Theme

A Parisian flavored dinner-dance is in the making for Sept. 24, when the Long Grove Area Committee for Family Guidance will hold its annual fund raiser at the Long Grove Country Club. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Henry Herrick and Mrs. Charles Parson, with Mrs. Stewart Richmond heading ticket sales.

Funds raised thru the dinner-dance will go toward continuing the Kildeer Countryside School District's share of counseling services as contracted thru Family Service of South Lake County.

Meeting Aug. 6 at Mrs. Herrick's home, members on the dinner-dance committee named Mrs. Jon Henricks and Mrs. Hartley Bell in charge of decorations. Mrs. Robert Anderson will handle publicity. Tickets may be secured from area leaders Mrs. Charles Buck, Mrs. Robert Anderson, Mrs. Williard Fournier and Mrs. William Salzman.

TRUSTEES AT Thursday night's village board meeting voted a $500 appropriation to gravel the three-quarter mile portion of Indian Creek Road that runs within the village. Other road work included taking down trees. Though considerable progress on roads has been made, there are still unfinished areas.

Following unanimous approval, the regular village board meeting night has been changed from the second Thursday to to the second Tuesday of the month. Next meeting will be Sept. 14. Though Burt Schell and Stewart Richmond were absent from Thursday's session, their approval had been expressed previously.

It was announced that Arcadia Farm is making acequate sanitary provisions in preparation for the Aug. 27, 28 and 29 rodeo in compliance with Lake County's health regulations. The Buffalo Grove Police Department will provide protection and Long Grove firemen have been asked to inspect the bleachers.

Chairman of Public Safety Grover Jungbluth reported discussion is going on with Kildeer's board of education regarding the installation of flashing lights within the building's immediate area.

AS AGREED AT a former meeting, efforts to supply each trustee with his own copy of each village ordinance have been started. Upon Trustee Mibs Hill's suggestion, minutes of board meetings hereafter will be taped, insuring easier and more accurate compilation by the secretary. A $10 appropriation for tape was set aside for the purpose.

Because of the change in many phone numbers and the geographical division of students attending Stevenson High School and Lake Zurich Community High, two of the most welcomed booklets soon to come into our homes are the directories that have gone to press and will be out Sept. 1. The first, a compilation of all families within the school district, was the work of Mrs. Stewart Richmond, Mrs. Tom Hoyne and Mrs. Glenn Miller, the latter soliciting the ads; also helping were Mrs. Robert Anderson, Mrs. Marshall Green, Mrs. Richard Trevison and Mrs. Everett Lewis.

The other pamphlet, an AFS service to the community, lists all students of both high schools. Appreciation goes to Sandy Schaum for the typing. Mrs. Tom Hoyne is responsible for listing the 420 some students of the Stevenson school. Working on the listing for what was formerly Ela-Vernon were Mrs. Rae Branch, Mrs. Stephen Kline and Mrs. Robert Mundstock.

LONG GROVE Church's vacation school this summer, run as a lab workshop for observers during the sessions from Aug. 2-13, was enthusiastically evaluated by the adult teachers who took advantage of the opportunity. Church school superintendent Mrs. Orville Held had engaged the services of five our-of-town leaders in Christian education plus Rev. Williams to lead the sessions.

"I received several new ideas and witnessed new techniques which I plan to put into practice," was a typical comment by one observer, who said she had hoped more teachers would avail themselves of the sessions.

"The World and Man's Response" was the theme of the older children's sessions the second week, their schedule including a field trip with Mrs. Fred French to Mrs. Emily Shupe's pond to study water organisms through a microscopic lens, also a look into man's method of harnessing the world's ingredients; for a brief look into the latter the group was taken to Kleinschmidt's near Wheeling.

Song periods during the two weeks were in charge of Mrs. Ed Wachs and Mrs. Arthur Edmunds. Mrs. Bessie Geest headed the refreshment hour, with Mrs. Bertha Ritzenthaler as assistant.

"Time and Two Women" and "Self Examination" are the titles of two cancer films available from the Lake County Cancer Society, according to our service and education chairman, Mrs. Emil Geest. Club leaders are asked to call her if interested. Bessie attended a showing of the films at an Aug. 10 meeting at the home of Mrs. Elmer Kolb in Libertyville, head of the county's cancer service department. Main part of the luncheon - business meeting was devoted to discussion of a re-distributing of the areas, also notice was given of a change in some of the bandage specifications.

KIRSTIE ARMSTRONG, the Don Armstrongs' 6 - year - old granddaughter, was temporarily reunited with her St. Bernard pal Klyde last week while spending a week with her grandparents. Klyde is being kept here because his family's New York apartment is too small.

The Roy Andersons' guest, Christianne Chene from France, is making her days fly by giving individual French lessons, also by holding a class on Mondays and Thursdays for Linda Hill, Mrs. Tek Osborne, Mrs. Ed Wachs and Mrs. William Mell. Carla is showing her husband, Emilio Menendez, some Loop attractions. Their departure date for Madrid will be around Sept. 10.

Using Lea Osborne's kiln while meeting at her home recently, the art group members worked with enamel on copper.

The George Massons' daughter, Sue, with Bethie, 2½, were visitors here from Lexington, Ky.; Tex Wixom arrived Aug. 6, all of them driving to visit his parents in Vermont, Ill. While here Sue Wixom and Carla Menendez made it a luncheon twosome at Long Grove Country Club.

Old Forge Lake near Ossining, N. Y., provided a trout casting spot for the Richard Fargoes who spent 10 days at the home of Florence's brother, the Louis Parkers.

Lake Havasu near Las Vegas was the destination of Kildeer Supt. M. L. Murphy who made a flight there on business.

Carolyn Hoyne and Dora Dombrow are making it another summer's treat at Camp Echo, "Y" camp in Fremont, Mich.

THE FORMER Cathy Hoebel and her husband, the Phil Baines, packed their belongings and moved into a Mundelein apartment last week.

Also moved and settled in their new Mundelein home are the John Hallbergs, who moved their last load Aug. 7. Their new address is 427 W. Crystal. At the former Hallberg home here there are bound to be ruffled pinafores on the line from now on. New residents are the Robert Engels and six daughters from Mount Prospect.

Long Grove's most exciting arrival this week was Nural Aydiner of Istanbul, Turkey, ou AFS student, who on Tuesday alighted from a Loop bus and was met by her new "foster" parents, the Fred Frenches.

Tuesday was also arrival day for the former Kildeer principal, Mabel Schoenke, and her husband, who are staying at the George Reimers' home near Mundelein.

When the Robert Pruitts' son Bob Jr., stepped off the O'Hare plane Aug. 8, it was for him the beginning of a 30-day leave from a year's Air Force commitment in Bitterfeld, Germany. His dad is also on vacation from administrative duties at New Trier. Adding to the excitement is their house guest, Miss Jacqueline Duvall from Memphis.

Their grandparents' farm, the home of the Harry Werhames of Walworth, Wis., is the summer hide-out of Hank and Jim Bauer for 10 days.

"MY MOTHER studied the plant life, Leslie rode horses and I helped bale hay," replied Tom Turner in describing their summer at Shadow Lake. Harold, too, and Mrs. Florence Reed shared the goings on. Speaking of hay, they ended up with 10,000 bales of it on Uncle Bob Reed's farm, according to Tom.

His mother-in-law, Mrs. Anne Sewell, here from Atlanta, baked the birthday cake which centered the refreshment table in honor of Art Edmunds' birthday Aug. 12. We are sorry to hear that Eddie Edmunds broke his arm during a fall from his "Princess" last week.

Since Mrs. Jay Neubauer's mother, Mrs. Fay Fiscus, is crippled by arthritis to the extent that she cannot leave her bed, we know we ought to keep the cards going to Cedar Falls, Iowa. Her address now is 703 Washington St., c/o Amond Fiscus, her son.

Mrs. Roswell Ryan is regaining her health by leaps and bounds at their family cottage at Rte. 3, Brainerd, Minn., where cards would also be appreciated, we're sure.

Delaying a vacation take-off at the William Hahnfeldts' is what most closely resembles a case of mumps apiece for Billy and Anne.

Evening "special" for the William Ernstings and Mrs. Leonora Stoerp was to see "Gypsy" at Highland Park's summer theatre last week.

BRIDGE PLAYERS, have you made arrangements to join the benefit play this season? Proceeds are to help the AFS, Family Service, Community Club and Stevenson High School library. There's still time to call Chairman Bernice Taylor, NE. 4-3919. All goes well at the Taylor's, with Bernice's smile after recent bereavement and surgery a ray of sunshine for friends who ring her doorbell.

Renting a cottage in Hayward, Wis., the Robert Taylor family spent three weeks loafing, admitting the fishing "wasn't much." Back at home, "Birdie" has been scurrying to dip up material on Long Grove's former days in preparation for an article timed with the Ela Township Centennial.

From Mrs. Bea Whitney comes a card from Guadalajara. She's on her way to Mexico City. To those of us who swelter while remembering we haven't had our vacation yet, her words, "having a wonderful trip," penned in green ink, stir up a feeling somewhat of the same color.

MEANWHILE, excitement over the approaching Arcadia Farm rodeo mounts as our high schoolers get into the ticket campaign.

Happy birthday wishes go to Elmer Haseman and Margaret Evans, Aug. 20; Kate Eissler and Helen Salmen, 21st; Stephen Berg, 22nd; to John Allen, 25th.

Long Grovers have been sharing the excitement and color of the Ela Township Centenday with a beard judging at 11 nial. Activities will end Satura.m., a grand parade at 2 p.m. and a hootenanny at 6:30 p.m. on the high school parking lot. At 8 p.m. there will be a barber-shop songfest at the football field. Fireworks on the field later in the evening will wind up the nine-day celebration. It will all be over — except for the big rush to the barber shops!

Board Will Consider Revised Corps Plan

A revised Neighborhood Youth Corps proposal totaling $158,771 will be before the school board of High School District 214 for action Monday, Aug. 23.

The Youth Corps proposal has been revised twice to meet corrections sought by the Cleveland regional office of the U. S. Department of Labor, which administers the program.

The latest proposal requests $121,965 in federal funds, with District 214 providing $36,806.

ACCORDING TO Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer, the school's share of the total cost represents many expenses which would be incurred whether or not the Youth Corps project is approved by the school board and the government. These include building heating, lighting and maintenance, he noted. He estimated actual cost to the district at "approximately $5,000."

The proposal covers part-school, part-work programs for return dropouts, potential dropout students and pupils from famlies with $3,000 or less income per year.

All of the students would perform some supervised work in the high schools as teacher aides, office assistants, auto mechanic helpers, library aides, dietitian assistants, laboratory assistants, playground attendants and landscape assistants. Many would do a limited amount of supervised work at the school with their main work experience in private industry.

BOARD MEMBERS approved submitting the Youth Corps proposal in a 5-2 vote June 28. Final board approval of the project was withheld pending a decision of the federal government on the eligibility of the District 214 program.

About 40 to 50 people attended the last District 214 meeting, with the majority objecting to federal aid for the Youth Corps program.

The Aug. 23 meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. in the District 214 administration center, 799 W. Kensington Road, Mount Prospect. *ACM-E

District 214 Expands Program for Returnees

Students who have left school before graduation may participate in a revamped and enlarged "returnee" program in High School District 214.

The special morning-only classes will be held at Wheeling High School.

The program is a refinement of an improvised returnee program set up last year at the request of youths who wanted to return to high school to get their diplomas.

ENROLLMENT will be limited to 15 students. Prospective students must have already dropped out of school and must be under 22 years.

Further information and an appointment for a pre-enrollment interview are available from Val Erickson, counselor, at LE 7-6500. Erickson is available from Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 4 p.m.

The program is being sponsored and paid for by District 214 funds, except for regular student fees of $14 for textbooks and supplies. Special course fees, as charged other high school students, may be required.

THE PROGRAM could be transferred into the proposed District 214 Neighborhood Youth Corps program if approved by the federal government and the school board. This would provide extra funds for special services and teaching where needed, according to Thomas Shirley, Wheeling principal.

Special teachers and counselors who are interested in the program have been assigned to work with the 15 returnees. The classes are designed to meet the needs of older students.

All applicants will be tested and given educational and occupational counseling. This will provide benefits and services to all applicants, Shirley noted, even if they are not selected among the final 15 returnees.

THE STUDENTS will be chosen on the basis of the tests and interviews. Factors to be considered will be how well they will do work in the special program and with staff and other students.

The program is set up to offer four periods of instruction during the early part of the school day. Students will have work assignments in the afternoon. Jobs in private industry at prevailing pay rates will be an integral part of the program. Appropriate graduation credit will be given for the work experience part of the program. (ACM-E

Nursery Cleans Up Migrants' Housing

Charles Klehm & Son Nursery has essentially complied with a 30-day order from the Cook County Health Commission for compliance with health and sanitation requirements for migrant worker housing, according to Robert DeJaun of the commission.

"De will be checking back with them this next week, but mostly what they need now is minimal maintenance," DeJaun said.

The 30-day order expired last week. It was issued after an inspection of the housing was made in June upon the receipt of a complaint from a private citizen.

The restroom facilities need a little more work, but the shack has been torn down and the road fixed, DeJaun said.

THE MIGRANT housing is located on property south of the tollway, near the Klehm Nursery, which is located at the intersection of Algonquin and Arlington Heights Roads.

Klehm said he had corrected the conditions before July 1. He said he plans to move the workers to housing which is in better condition as soon as he has it ready. He refused to say where it would be located, only he has been working on it for quite a while and that it would be in a less populated area.

GroundBroken At Five Sites

Ground has been broken at five sites in the current phase of Arlington Heights elementary school building program, consulting architects told the District 25 board Monday.

Contracts totaling $1.2 million for the work were awarded a month ago. Involved are a new Ivy Hill School and additions to Olive, Patton and Dunton schools and Thomas Junior High.

ARCHITECT STEVE J. Tucka told board members foundation work already had started at one school, Thomas. Barring a steel strike, he said, structural steel will be at all sites and erection will begin between Oct. 1 and 15.

Tucka said he felt optimistic about contractors' planned completion dates in February — again barring a steel dispute.

STILL PENDING before the board is the subject of roofing the new buildings. Roofing bids were thrown out a month ago after architectural consultant William A. Ganster said he wanted to change roof specifications.

Monday he recommended a roofing method different from one recently adopted by the board for maintenance of its leak-prone roofs. Ganster recommended roofing composed of four layers of roof felt, asphalt and gravel.

He said the recommendation was based on the experience of a refiable roofer. But he also noted the Chicago Roofing Contractors Association recommended tar and four-ply felt.

SEVERAL BOARD members were critical of his report, and Board Pres. Harold Sorter told him, "I don't feel you're convinced."

Ganster complained that roofing specialists "give you a lot of doubletalk."

He noted previous roofs in the district were put in under specifications provided by roofing manufacturers, in order to secure a manufacturer's bond. But when leaks develop, he reported, "the bond isn't worth the paper it's written on."

Installation by a good roofer, under supervision by the architect, is likely to yield better results, Ganster indicated.

The board did not act on the report. (A

It's a small wonder

A model airplane kit, a razor blade and a tube of glue are the necessary raw materials. Combine these with the dexterity, determination and desire of a young boy and you have the makings of a model airplane. To view the finished product you would agree, he is a small wonder. Another small wonder is a Paddock Publications Want Ad. Small in size, it is capable of performing big tasks when it comes to selling no longer needed items around the home. Call today and a friendly ad-taker will be happy to assist you in wording your ad. Then you'll agree, a Paddock Publications Want Ad is truly a small wonder.

Chin's Gets Lead As Jakes' Falls In Softball Action

Northwest Covenant, combining good hitting with heads-up fielding, beat Jake's Pizza 18-13 in Red Division play of the Mount Prospect Men's 16" Softball League.

The defeat, only the second for Jake's in three years, knocked the pizza unit out of the first place tie with Chin's Restaurant. Chin's, meantime, continued on top with a 17-9 win over L & S Standard.

JAKE'S AND CHIN'S will play next Monday for the championship of the division, with the winner to represent Mount Prospect in the annual "Slow Pitch Tournament of Champions" at Northbrook on August 30.

In other Red Division play, Alpha Engineering beat Schimming Oil 14-12 in a battle of the tail-enders.

Friedrich Funeral Home continued its lead in the White Division, taking a 13-11 victory over the Kings. But the Has-Beens' 24-9 win over Striking Lanes kept their championship hopes alive. The Unknowns fell to Goodyear Tire 7-6 in the other game in the White Division.

THE BLUE DIVISION remained close as D & S Sport Shop continued to lead with an easy 26-0 victory over United Air Lines. Harris Pharmacy remained one game back with a 14-6 victory over Stan's Shell, and J & B Market beat Webber Marking 20-17 in the other contest.

Forest View News

The Chris Hilgeman family, S. Busse Road, went camping last weekend at White Water Lake, Wis.

The Don Larsons, W. Algonquin Road, had a pool party Saturday evening for eight couples, for swimming, dancing and a buffet supper.

Mrs. Bernard Olson and Janet, Elk Grove Road, and Pat Joling of Chicago drove to Wisconsin Rapids on Friday to attend the wedding of a niece and cousin, Miss Beverly Joling to Alden Altena of Iowa. They stayed with Pat's parents, the Evert Jolings, returning home Saturday.

Weekend guests of the Olsons were Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Loomans, Mrs. Evert Joling, Priscilla and Peter, all of Wisconsin Rapids.

MR. AND MRS. John Nitz, Linda and Jackie, Elk Grove Road, have returned from a 10-day trip to Sioux Narrows, Ontario, Canada, where they stared at Red Indian Lodge. Jackie and Mr. Nitz caught wall-eyed pike and bass on a fishing trip with an Ojibwa Indian as their guide.

One day was spent at Red Lake beyond Sioux Narrows, camping at Pakwash Provincial Park. They came back thru Minnesota and stopped for a day at Rice Lake, Wis.

On Wednesday, Loraine Gorgius, S. Busse Road, and Mrs. Stewart Avildsen of Chicago went to Union Station to greet Mrs. Julia Gorgius of Chicago who arrived home after a three-month visit in Denmark and Austria. Sunday Mrs. Gorgius and grandson, Scott, were dinner guests of the Otto Gorgiuses. She showed them pictures and told them about her trip and the relatives she had visited in Austria.

Birthday greetings this week go to Rosalie Esposito, Joanne Nason, Trudy Treder, Carol Wehunt, Carol Wilkens, Robert Giesel, Judy Wuchterl, Vi Piske, Mary Ellen Howerton, Seri Swensen, Mary Lou Howerton and John Turner.

Anniversary greetings go to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wilson.

COLONIAL HEIGHTS

Vacation time for the Wade Gale family, Estates Drive, started July 31, when they went to the Villa Venice for the Bob Doctor Foundation dinner-dance.

On Wednesday, Mr. Gale participated in a golf tournament at Old Orchard Country Club.

On Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Gale, Greg and Terry left via Northwest Orient Airlines for Miami Beach, Fla. That evening Mr. and Mrs. Gale went to the Eden Roc to see the Eden Roc A-go-go, where they saw the Bikini Girls. Friday was spent swimming and sunbathing, Saturday they drove through Coral Gables and Miami and in the evening had dinner at the Sherry Frontenac. Mr. and Mrs. Gale also went to Dore's to see Belle Barth and to the Wreck Bar at the Castaways to celebrate their 19th wedding anniversary.

Sunday they took an all day boat trip to Parrot Island, Seminole Indian Village, thru the Everglades to Hollywood and to Fort Lauderdale, the city of canals, where they had lunch at Patricia Murphy's.

Monday they went deep sea fishing and Mr. Gale caught a two-foot dolphin.

The Gales flew to the West Coast of Florida on Tuesday and visited Fort Myers and Cape Coral. Wednesday, the busiest day of all, they shopped on Collins Avenue where they also had lunch, and the hotel had a cocktail party for the adults and a children's counselor had a party for the children. Later they had dinner at the Deanville Hotel, where they saw the original Broadway cast in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

They flew home on Thursday.

The George Menards of Rusty Drive have two new relatives this week. On Saturday, Skip Menard was married to Judy Adasiewicz, and also on Saturday a new nephew was born to the Raymond Menards of Chicago.

The Marion Rosiak family, Rusty Drive, recently vacationed in North Lake, Wis., swimming and relaxing.

LAKE BRIARWOOD

Derrick Lord is visiting his boy friend, Randy Langer in Glenview, this week.

Mrs. Lucy Buxton from Iowa visited her daughter and family, the Gordon Lords, Briarwood Drive, East, for two days before being picked up by another daughter, Mrs. Charles Campbell and granddaughter, Mrs. Robert Campbell, for a visit in their home in Milwaukee.

ELK RIDGE VILLA

The Bill Mallian family, Robert Drive, enjoyed spending Thursday at Lake Geneva, swimming followed by dinner at the Danish Tea Room.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hostler and their four grandchildren from St. Ann. Mo., were guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Garrett, 1115 Birch Drive. On Sunday, Mr. Garrett's brother, Don and family of Franklin Park joined them for an outdoor barbecue and taking of family movies. of family movies.

On Monday, Mrs. Garret and Chris took them on a sightseeing tour of Chicago. Included was the Loop, lakefront, Buckingham Fountain and a tour of Marina City.

The Hostlers left for home Tuesday morning. (AME

66 Merit Badges Earned by Campers

A total of 66 merit badges were won by members of Boy Scout Troop 135, sponsored by First Methodist Church of Arlington Heights, during their recent camping trip at Norway Lake in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Mike Maybee was named outstanding first year camper at the troop's Lone Troop summer camp in the heart of the Ottawa National Forest.

Dick Boyles was cited as outstanding Boy Scout, and Howard Payne and Bill Weissmueller shared honors as top scouts from the senior patrol.

WHILE AT the camp, troop members enjoyed an overnight canoe trip, an overnight 10-mile hike, a fishing derby and frog and turtle races in addition to working on pioneering and conservation projects.

Advancing in rank as a result were Frank LaPin, Steve Link and Mike Maybee to second class; Alan Conrad, Jeff Eggleston, Tim Tichter, Roger Gumz, Duke Hamilton, Mike Maybee and Cory Tibbits to first class; Randy Bauer and Dick Boyles to Star Scout and Don Brooks, Don Cerva, Kevin Ellertson and Chuck Weissmueller to Life Scout.

Drew Smith, Kim Zajicek, Ray Peale and Dave Kogut were presented their Eagle Scout badges at a recent Troop 135 court of honor. This makes a total of five Eagle Scouts for the troop since the beginning of 1965. (A

Plans Approved

Regrading and sewer work to eliminate drainage problems at Westgate School were approved Monday by the Arlington Heights Elementary School Board.

The board approved a $3,850 contract with Claude Markstrom Co. to install underground tiles and regrade the site to eliminate water collections. Ganster said the site had been graded according to existing village street elevations but that subsequent development of the Westgate area was at a higher elevation. (A

Registration Next Week

214 Expects 9,400 Students

More than 9,400 students are expected to register for the 1965-66 school year in the four high schools of District 214 next week. This is an enrollment increase of about 1,200.

The students are expected to pay fees and receive class schedules during the week of summer registration.

Schools will be open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday, Aug. 23 to 28. Students are asked to register at the school they will attend, according to the following schedule:

Monday—Students with last initials U through Z, plus all fall sports athletes.

Tuesday—Students with last initials P through T.

Wednesday—Students with last initials K through O.

Thursday—Students with last initials E through J.

Friday—Students with last initials A through D.

Saturday—All students unable to register on the day scheduled.

STUDENT FEES are $14 for the general fee covering textbooks, school newspaper and towels. Optional fees include $3.50 for student insurance, $10 for football insurance, $4.50 for the yearbook and $4 for athletic passes.

Special course fees are $4 for art; $2 for home economics, mechanical drawing, and science (except biology); $3 for industrial education; and $1.50 for American and world history. The course fees pay for special materials used in connection with the various subjects.

Greatest increase in students is expected at Wheeling High School, which will have an additional 700 students. This increase is due to the change from a three- to a four-year school with the addition of the first senior class.

Highest enrollment will be at Forest View High School with 2,900 students, 400 more than the 2,500 capacity. The overcrowded condition is expected to be relieved in September 1966 with the opening of the new Elk Grove High School, which will take about half the Forest View enrollment.

CLASS SIZE will remain the same, according to Principal L. S. Jenness. Use of the cafeteria for a study hall except for lunch periods and the conversion of a food laboratory to two regular classrooms will provide space for the extra 20 teachers hired to meet the enrollment increase at Forest View.

Enrollment at Arlington and Prospect High Schools will be about the same as last year.

Main schedule change will be at Prospect High School, which will operate with 55-minute periods plus a 20-minute study hall period at lunch time. At Wheeling the daily homeroom period has been eliminated, with homeroom to be held once a week.

The language laboratories at Arlington High School have been renovated. The school now has four labs which utilize tape recordings, records and individual instruction materials in foreign language study.

DISTRICT-WIDE curriculum changes include extensive revision of the mathematics program, particularly at the junior and senior level. There has been a change in the Industrial Arts I course from four quarters devoted to woods, metals, electronics and drawing to two area semester courses.

A power mechanics course will be offered for the first time at Wheeling and Forest view High Schools. The semester class will concentrate on two and four cycle engines and outboard motors.

Changes in the science classes will center on more use of the national university-secondary school studies to upgrade science teaching. These are the new CHEM study, the Bilogical Sciences Curriculum Study and the Physical Sciences Study Committee. (ACM-E

Women Voters Will Publish Local Government Directory

A free four-village directory of local government officials will be published in September by the League of Women Voters.

Announcement of the project was made this week by Mrs. Frank Moore, president of the local LWV.

She said the League of Women Voters has been collecting information for the free booklet this summer.

THE BOOKLET will list local officials in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village and Wheeling, the four villages in which most of the 100 LWV members live. It will give names and phone numbers of village presidents trustees, members of plan commissions, park and library boards.

The booklet will also list names of township officials and board members of Junior College District 301, High School District 214, and the elementary districts that feed into it. It will give voter registration information and list names of Republican and Democratic committeemen for both Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships.

"THIS IS A league voter service," Mrs. Moore said. "We hope the booklet will help area residents reach their local officials more quickly when they have questions, complaints or compliments to pass on."

The need for a handy guide to local government has long been recognized in the area. The local League of Women Voters published a similar booklet several years ago but village and school board elections since have made it out of date.

ALMOST 10,000 copies of the free booklet will be printed by the league, Mrs. Moore said. It will be made available to clubs, businesses and government offices and will be financed—as is all league voter service work—by contributions from the public.

Mrs. Donald Krezek, voter service chairman of the LWV, is in charge of the project. Requests for the booklet may be made by dropping her a postcard at 514 E. Hawthorne, Arlington Heights. Community pickup points will be announced later. (ACM-E

BY LINDA NORRIS

Throughout his recording career, Ernie Ford's inspirational albums have consistently been among his biggest-selling LPs . . . In his latest album, with arrangements by conductor Jack Fascinato, Ernie keeps the religious theme but offers a slight variation in the material, all 11 hymns are songs that were written in this country from about the middle to the close of the 19th century . . . Included are My Father's World, For the Beauty of The Earth, Saviour, Again to Thy Dear Name and the title song of the fine album, Let Me Walk With Thee.

In The Last Dance—For Lovers Only, Jackie Gleason puts his romantic touch to 11 songs including some recent hits such as People, Hello, Dolly, Everybody Loves Somebody, and Who Can I Turn To? The LP — which joins more than two dozen other Gleason albums — features Pee Wee Erwin on trumpet and Charlie Ventura on tenor sax . . . Arrangements are by George Williams.

With apologies to the Barbara Streisand fans who probably have good intentions, WHAT has this vocalist got that has all the music experts ga-ga? Her rendition of Happy Days Are Here Again sounds like a funeral dirge and we can't help but wonder through all her records, what she is trying to prove?

Native Itascan Retires From Illinois Bell

A native Itascan has retired from the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. after 36 years of service.

Mrs. Florence L. Born of Homewood was a supervisor in the comptroller's office at 165 N. Canal St., Chicago.

A tea in her honor was attended by over 200 people.

Mrs. Born attended Itasca Grade School and Bensenville High School. Her father, Henry Luehring, and sisters, Marian and Ruth Luehring and Mrs. Esther Kleven, and her brother, Wesley Luehring, all currently reside in Itasca.

Mrs. Born began her telephone service in the Plant Department in September, 1927, and remained there until 1932, when she took a leave of absence. She returned in 1934. After holding varied clerical positions, she was promoted to accounting staff assistant in 1955.

She is a member of the Telephone Pioneers, a fellowship and community service organization of veteran telephone people. (5BB

New Civil Service Exams Established

Two new civil service examinations have been established, the U. S. Civil Service Commission announced last week.

The new exams are for social workers and engineering and sceintific technicians.

The technician examination covers a wide range of positions principally in the Washington D. C., area. These technicians are non-professional assistants to engineers, mathematicians, physicists, and other scientists. Salaries range from $4,480 to $10,250.

Varying amounts of non-professional technician experience are required, but study in college or technical institutes can be substituted for some experience.

The social worker examination covers professional social worker positions and related positions known as Social Work Associate and Social Service Representative. Jobs will be available in Washington, D. C. as well throughout the country.

Salaries range from $6,050 to $16,460 for social workers and $6,630 to $10,250 for the other positions.

Professional social workers are required to have completed graduate study in social work. Other positions require experience in welfare activities, although appropriate education may be substituted for some of the required experience.

Neither exam requires a written test. More information and application forms can be obtained from the Main Post Office, Des Plaines, Ill. or the U. S. Civil Service Commission. Washington, D. C. 20415. (15BB

Two Qualify as Club Members

Phil Adolphus, 2203 Theda Lane, Palatine, and Ronald Waldschmidt, 158 S. Judson, Bensenville, have qualified as members of New York Life Insurance Company's 1965 Star Club.

The Star Club, according to Gus Gianakos, general manager of the company's Oak Park office, is composed of New York Life's most successful agents based on the 1964-65 sales records.

As members of the Star Club, both Adolphus and Waldschmidt are eligible to attend an educational conference in Bedford, Penn., Oct. 10-13. (BB

Big Celebration Planned For Karnes' 19th Birthday

Karnes Music Co., 9800 Milwaukee Ave., Des Plaines, celebrates its 19th anniversary with 12 consecutive star-filled days and nights of musical entertainment, daily door prizes and gifts for everyone.

The celebration starts tomorrow (Friday) and ends Aug. 31.

There will be a series of educational programs, piano clinics, guitar and organ club meetings.

DICK SMITH OF Disneyland fame will give a series of pop organ concerts, and Pearl White of the grand old theatre organ [illegible] will perform next Friday, Aug. 27.

Also featured will be Bill Usselton of Les Brown fame, who will perform Wednesday. He will join members of the Karnes music staff for a jazz jamboree at 7:30 p.m.

Other attractions for the 12-day event include: Musical Fun Day, designed especially for children and teens. Talented students and professionals will play, and free aptitude tests for beginners will be given. The perform Sunday at 2 p.m.

A CREATIVE PIANO teaching program demonstrating latest teaching techniques will be held Tuesday, along with a piano concert featuring easy listening show tunes and standards performed by three top Chicago professionals.

Drum enthusiasts can see a special combo drummers session Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Back-to-School Day will highlight professional entertainers, free lessons and tryouts for beginners, Saturday, Aug. 28, at 1 p.m. Then Sunday will be musical open house — an anything can happen day, featuring surprise entertainment.

FINALLY DIANE Schwartz and Bob Elsner will end the anniversary celebration with broadway show tunes, played on the organ, Tuesday, Aug. 31.

The entire program celebrates Karnes' sucecssful life as the Midwest's largest suburban music store.

The Des Plaines branch has 13,000 square feet of floor space, including recital halls, showrooms, sheet music department and instrument repair facilities.

Recently the store was expanded with the addition of seven new sound proof air conditioned studios.

KARNES HAS MORE than 1,000 students taking instruction in all types of instruments from 40 trained music teachers.

The entire celebration, and tours of the music store are free and open to the public.

New Exterior Styles Are Offered for Popular Home

In Fairview Gardens, located on the west side of Wolf Road, two blocks north of Central, in the Mt. Prospect area, and exclusively developed by Bluett Home Builders for the past six years—the "Challenger," a recently - introduced tri - level home, now offers additional choices of exterior design.

In the model's new range of elevation designs, the home buyer may select any one of several combinations of impressed rock or regular face brick, and contrasting siding, including rough-sawn cedar. Window style and placement varies, with shutters and novelty designs, including octagonal, available.

Purchasers of the "Challenger" also have a choice of molded panel design in selected exterior areas, and of ornamental iron-work supporting the roof of the modified front porch.

BUILDER BOB Bluett said, "With the new and wider choice of exterior design and materials, we believe this model will prove even more popular with home buyers."

Priced at $28,400, with three bedrooms and one-and-a-half baths, the home provides 2504 sq. ft. of floor area. A large basement is included, and there is a separate storage area in the garage.

An attractive balance to the entire home is imparted by low-peak gabled roofs and wide, overhanging eaves. The front entrance is set back at the juncture of the two main wings, and is protected on two sides and by the roof extension.

Through the entire home, room arrangement is semi-open. Closets are numerous and well-placed. Traffic patterns are practical and free-flowing, with privacy of the upper-level sleeping area assured by a T-shaped distributing corridor.

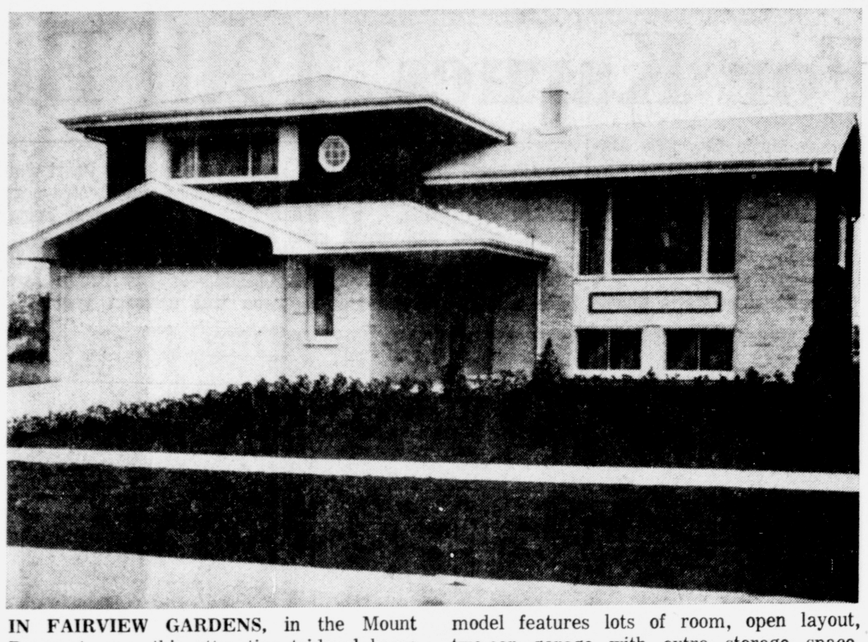
THE FRONT entry of the "Challenger" features a large guest closet and flooring of eye-catching tile. A short flight of steps—with decorative wrought-iron railing—leads up to the main living level.

The living room is over 22' long and 13' wide, with a large picture window at the front. The dining room beyond beckons the visitor with inviting proportions and plenty of natural light.

Each of the three bedrooms features a large sliding - door closet. The main bathroom has vanity and mirrored cabinet, special linen alcove, and a second entrance from the Master Bedroom. The latter also has a private dressing room, and second closet.

OVER 21 x 13' in size, the family room is a few short steps down from the kitchen. Here, the creative home buyer will find more than forty - five linear feet of wall space for decorative ideas. At one corner is the home's rear entrance. At another corner of the family room are entrances to the garage, the basement and the powder room. An informal corner eating space is a feature of the big kitchen. Appliances and matching wood cabinets are placed in a convenient L-layout.

Fairview Gardens models are open to the public from 10 a.m. till dusk daily, except Thursdays and Saturdays till five.



IN FAIRVIEW GARDENS, in the Mount Prospect area, this attractive tri-level home —"The Challenger"—is receiving much attention from visitors. The three bedroom model features lots of room, open layout, two-car garage with extra storage space. The model is located on the west side of Wolf Road, two blocks north of Central.

Need Extra Alertness For Driving at Night

As night falls and fewer cars use the highway, some motorists are lulled into a false sense of security.

Since the chances of a fatal auto accident or a serious injury are greatest at low visibility periods after dark, Carl F. Krieg, regional manager of the Allstate Safety Crusade, warns drivers to be extra alert after dark.

"Night-time accidents account for three out of five traffic deaths and almost half of all pedestrians killed in traffic are struck down between 6 p.m. and midnight," Krieg pointed out.

To help motorists drive safely after dark, the Allstate Safety Crusade offers the following tips:

1. ALLOW MORE distance for stopping your car. With reduced visibility, recognition of traffic signs and the driver's response to them, is delayed.

2. Slow down at night. After dark, every driver needs the extra reaction time that slower speeds allow.

3. Base your speed on your headlight range. Headlights can light up about 350 feet of roadway. At 50mph you need about 243 feet to stop, but at 60mph, you need about 366 feet to stop. Overdrive your headlights, and you're in trouble.

4. KEEP YOUR windshield and headlights clean. This is especially important in winter. A spattered windshield magnifies the glare of oncoming headlights, and dirty headlights on your car cut your visibility.

5. Protect your eyes. Do not wear sunglasses at night or during low visibility. Look slightly to the right of oncoming headlights.

6. Be extra careful passing. Observe the headlight range of the cars you're following. Pass only if the road looks clear.

7. Look to the sides of objects rather than straight at them. Focus on the edges or outlines of objects. Eyes are designed to pick up images more sharply that way than by staring head on.

8. AVOID STEADY driving around your usual bedtime. A driver's alertness level drops sharply about the time he is accustomed to going to bed.

9. Use your lights carefully. Don't drive after dark unless all headlights and signal lights are working. Never drive with parking lights on, dim your lights when approaching another car, and flick your lights quickly when attempting to pass another car.

10. Make it easy for others to see you. Signal each time you intend to do something, and do it in plenty of time. Pump the brakes when you slow down to alert drivers in back of you, turn your headlights on at dusk and dawn, and if you have a breakdown, switch on all the lights to warn other drivers.

The pamphlet "Change Your Driving at Night" is available from the Allstate Safety Crusade, 7447 Skokie Blvd., Skokie, or from the local Allstate office at 7770 Frontage Rd., Skokie.

Bonsai Show Is a National Attraction

Sometimes a single event can make a town famous.

Dundee, settled by Germans and Scots who appreciated its pleasant location in the Fox River Valley, has become known for its contribution to the arts through D. Hill Nursery's program of Oriental tree culture and gardening.

This is apparent each year when the number of visitors to the annual Midwest Bonsai Show conducted by the D. Hill Nursery in West Dundee is more than four times the entire population of the town.

Last year the three-day Bonsai show, the biggest event of its kind in the country, was enjoyed by more than 12,000 people from 26 states. Registrations for exhibitors in this year's competition will more than triple previous showings of Bonsai displays.

This year's show opens tomorrow (Friday) and runs through Sunday. A new attraction will be the construction of a complete Japanese Garden constructed each day by Kaneji Domoto, nationally famous landscape architect.

The permanent gardens at the Garden Center, Highways 31 and 72 in Dundee, are open throughout the year. (15BB

Retiring Peterson Holds 45 Patents

EDWARD PETERSON

Edward S. Peterson, 831 Dennis Dr., Bensenville, has retired from Automatic Electric Laboratories, Northlake, with more than 45 years of service.

Peterson was a supervisor of electronic applications in the product design laboratory of the telephone and communications equipment manufacturer — a subsidiary of General Telephone & Electronics Corporation (GT&E).

Holder of 59 U. S. patents — second highest total among GT&E scientists and engineers — Peterson joined AE in 1920, starting in the training school. After completing the training course, he was assigned to switchboard inspection, then transferred to the Laboratories.

Peterson's designs cover virtually every phase of telephony — Strowger Automatic systems, magnetic recording devices and electro-mechanical devices. One type of magnetic recording machine, (VML Recorder/Announcer) is used by many telephone operating companies for weather announcing.

He is a member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers and the Independent Telephone Pioneer Association, and serves as president of the Anxious Anglers Chapter (River Grove) of the Izaak Walton League.

He and his wife, Esther, have two daughters, Lois and Mrs. Jean Borneman of Lombard.

Peterson plans to keep on the move during retirement — spending summers at his Bensenville home and winters in Florida. (5BB

VISITORS TO THE recently opened new wooded section of Plum Grove Countryside —on Route 53 at Euclid, Lake Avenue, about a mile west of Arlington Heights—have special acclaim for the "Country House." Its rustic design features, ' ' inside and out, are particularly appr to the attractive wooded area.

'Country House' Popular New Model in Plum Grove

The attractive "Country House"—a three-bedroom, two-bath Colonial ranch home—is currently proving a top favorite of visitors to Plum Grove Countryside's recently - opened Homestead Section.

The new section offers thirty-one sites, many of them wooded and boasting several fine examples of mature trees. The community is completely residential—is located on Illinois Route 53, at Euclid Lake Avenue, about a mile west of Arlington Heights.

BUILDER ALBERT Riley said, "From what buyers and visitors tell us, out 'Country House' is particularly attractive to people interested in the semi-wooded setting of our new Homestead Section. The exterior lines of this model are classically simple, in an Early American concept, and the rustic touch fits right in with this setting, or any similar setting."

The "Country House" is priced at $29,400. There are three bedrooms, two full baths, living and dining rooms, family room, and a 7-foot basement. Fireplace is optional. The attached two-car garage has an extra-large storage area.

The Colonial-style front entrance is paneled, and opens into a large foyer. Here, traffic is dispersed immediately to family room, living oom, sleeping area, or to the garage.

The family room is entered directly from the front entry. It has an optional corner fireplace of unusual design; modified beamed ceiling; a rear entrance and a big view window.

THE KITCHEN is semi-open to the family room, two steps up to a slightly higher level. An attractive railing of curving wrought iron separates family room and kitchen. Matching builtin cabinets and range, oven, hood and fan are an L-arrangement.

The living room is over 20 ft. x 12 ft. in size. With the adjoining dining room, it shares an exceptionally wide window wall. Interior wall area of the house is quite extensive, and provides numerous opportunities for decoration.

The three bedrooms and two baths are well-removed from the living area. The owner's suite includes the master bedroom, two separate double-size closets, private dressing room with built-in vanity and a private bath. The family bathroom also has an attractive built-in vanity.

The "Country House" and other Riley - built models are open daily to visitors in Plum Grove Countryside, from 10 a.m. to dusk. The all-residential community is on Illinois Route 53, at Euclid Avenue, approximately a mile west of Arlington Heights. (BB

A Tradition in Real Estate

He Got the Bar, But Not the Beer

By WILLIAM G. CLARK
Attorney General

Recent complaints to our Bureau of Consumer Fraud disclose that the old "discount buying" racket used to sell food freezers and cookeryware at inflated prices is now being given a hot weather twist — to peddle portable home bars and draft beer equipment.

Mr. X, whose complaint was quickly followed by several others as the salesmen pressed their operations, was induced to purchase a portable bar for $799 on a time payment plan. He was guaranteed by the salesman that the company which manufactured and sold the bar would furnish him with a name-brand beer of his choice, not only for the summer but for all time, at wholesale prices, the same price paid by the taverns handling beer in huge lots.

Mr. X was told that he could easily pay for the bar out of the money he would save by purchasing his beer at wholesale; and once the bar was paid for, he would still continue to buy his favorite brew at wholesale.

AFTER MR. X had signed the contract and the promissory, note, he ordered a keg of his favorite name brand beer. He got, instead, a supply of a different and greatly inferior bew, along with an explanation that the name brand was unavailable but would be in ample supply a short time later.

Mr. X consented to get along with the cheaper brew until it was used up, by which time his name brand would be available.

Within a few days, Mr. X was notified the contract and his note had been sold to a financing company, and he should make payments direct to this company. Soon thereafter, Mr. X complained to us that he had been unable to locate the salesman or the company that sold him the bar and who was obligated to furnish his choice of beer at a reduced price.

They had simply vanished. But Mr. X was stuck for monthly payments to the finance company which had bought his note. The agreement to furnish beer at wholesale was a "side agreement" never put in writing and, in fact, was not a binding commitment.

THIS PATTERN of selling with oral side agreements to furnish foods or beverages at greatly reduced prices, of charging vastly inflated prices for cookeryware or freezers and now home bars, is an old one. The "come on" is always the agreement, never in writing, to furnish supplies at huge bargains.

The only binding commitment in such operations is the buyer's signed contract and note promising to pay for the freezer or other equipment.

It cannot be too strongly or too often emphasized the buyer should never sign a blank contract, he should never sign until he has read every line of the contract and understands precisely the obligations he is assuming; he should never accept oral side agreements or guarantees, but should insist that they be put in writing.

MORE THAN THIS, I wish to emphasize that the buyer should investigate prices at reputable stores before he grabs the bargain bait. He should never allow himself to be rushed into buying anything by hints or threats that "golden opportunities" will be lost if he delays making a purchase. He also should require in writing that off-brands of products not be substituted. (15BB

Let's look at the RECORD(S)

BY LINDA NORRIS

Although the entire album of Germany Sings was recorded in Cologne and is sung in German, the LP on Capitol of the World contains a definite American touch with three well-known U.S. standards — Dream, Stardust and Sentimental Journey . . . The Botho Lucas choir, a polished group of eight singers who worked together for four years before they cut their first record, round out the 11 songs on the LP with Schlaf mein Liebling, better known in the U.S. as Goodnight Sweetheart.

Eight favorite Scottish medleys comprise the album Scottish Ramble, recorded for Capitol by Jimmy Shand and his band . . . Recorded at the Watford Town Hall in Scotland, the eight medleys are The Dundee Reel, La Russe, Strathspey Scottish Ramble, The Isle of Skye-Reel, The Montgomerie's Rant, Petronella, Madge Wildfire's Strathspey and The Flowers of Edinburgh Reel.

In a unique offering, Frank Sinatra sings the Select Cole Porter, the still popular beanpole singer does a collection of a dozen Cole Porter tunes all recorded by Sinatra between 1953-1960 . . . All the songs are from Porter musicals . . . Included are Night and Day, I Get a Kick Out of You, Just One of Those Things, From This Moment On, and I've Got You Under My Skin . . . .

And speaking of Sinatra, he combines with Dean Martin in another Capitol album, but this time as a conductor . . . Dean Martin Sings, Sinatra Conducts . . . The pair display their talents on a selection of dream-theme tunes arranged by Pete King . . .

Federal Tax Q's and A's

Automatic Equipment Benefit to Taxpayers

(Paddock Publications, in cooperation with Internal Revenue Service, Chicago District, publishes in this column tax information that will enable you to become more familiar with the federal income tax laws, and help you to prepare more accurate returns.)

The Internal Revenue Service is in process of converting to full scale use of Automatic Data Processing — called ADP. The purpose of the changeover is to make it possible for Internal Revenue to provide better, more efficient service to taxpayers in the years ahead. Benefits for taxpayers promise to be impressive — including a guarantee that your numbered account will receive proper credit for your payments.

Use of modern, high-speed electronic equipment also should benefit the government. It provides a uniform check on failure to file a return, increases ability to detect improper or incorrect refund claims, and permits verification of data from many sources in a very short time.

Establishment of a consolidated tax account for each taxpayer in a centrally located file will mean greater government economy, and may even add up to tax savings for all of us. Despite conversion to ADP, the Internal Revenue Service will continue to offer personalized help, on request, just as in the past.

The Internal Revenue Service is confident of the beneficial results to taxpayers and government alike of its Automatic Data Processing methods.

QUESTION: My wife is expecting and the doctor says the baby will arrive either in late November or early December. Since the baby will be born this year we will be entitled to the $600 exemption this year. Can we start taking this exemption now for income tax withholding purposes?

ANSWER: No, you cannot. It is true that the baby can be claimed for the full $600 exemption regardless of the birth date but the exemption cannot be claimed for withholding purposes until the birth occurs.

The law on income tax withholding specifies the minimum amount that must be withheld based on income, exemptions and frequency of pay period. A taxpayer cannot add an exemption to which he is not entitled for withholding purposes.

QUESTION: I have been told that income tax refunds will be automatically forwarded by the Post Office. Is this so, or should I let you know my new address?

ANSWER: If you have filed a change of address form with the postmaster at your old address, then your mail should be forwarded to your new address. However, you also should notify your District Director of Internal Revenue of your new address. In Chicago, the office to write to is at 17 N. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill. 60602. (BB

Bar Appoints Two Area Men

Two area attorneys have been appointed to serve on councils and committees of the Illinois State Bar Association.

Howard C. Sorensen, 1717 W. Oakton, Arlington Heights has been named a member of the Committee on Bar Economics. Roger F. Maritote, 515 E. Turner, Roselle, will serve on the Workmen's Compensation Law Section Council.

The state association has 26 sections and 23 standing committees responsible for carrying out diversified programs of the organization. Members of the committees assist in the administration of the association's activities and internal affairs.

Members of the section councils study the various fields of law in order to recommend amendments to or the repeal of existing laws. In addition, the sections conduct seminars and sponsor the writing of legal treatises to keep lawyers up to date on local, state, federal and international laws. (BB15

'Mind, Heart Important In Man, Not Hue of Skin'

Two isolated news items in today's newspapers once again brought to mind — and forcefully so — a fact that is self-evident to any discerning or thinking individual.

Each news item bore a marked contrast.

The first told of a young 19-year-old girl brutally assaulted and left with a jaw broken in three places, a fractured nose, and three teeth knocked out. Being of a plucky and indomitable nature the odds are good that she will be able to overcome the potentially destructive psychological after effects of such an experience.

But note the contrast whereas the attack was perpetrated by a Negro the very people who are her fellow patients, and her nurses, are also Negroes, and from such ones has come tender and loving care, understanding, compassion, yes, to stretch a point, the love that an associate, a neighbor is capable of manifesting towards another without the slightest thought given to that heinous, ugly, and wholly unjust idea that one is strange or different or inferior because of the color of one's skin.

Remember, dear reader, that the pigmentation that governs the shade of a man's skin is of such a tiny — nay, infinitesimal — fraction that if the bigot and the prejudiced were to sit down and mull over it for any length of time they would be hard put to come up with a good reason — in fact any reason — for their feelings.

The white man! Balderdash. His color borders on the pinkish side. The black man! Black? Hardly. Within the Negroid race exists a great variable range of shades and hues. And is the yellow race really yellow? It is not. Is the Indian really a red man? Is not the big question relative to all of this, where did all of this anthropological hogwash get started?

But as to the second news item. The racial violence in Los Angeles. Again the contrast. Some Negros going berserk, forsaking law and order, while by far the greater majority of Negroes both in L A and nationwide deplore the senselessness of the bloody affair.

Now consider. The so-called white man rapes and riots too.

What it all boils down to is this. A man fits into a certain category, on the one hand, inferior, ignorant, dirty, foulmouthed, adulterous, sadistic, murderous, drunken, and ad infinitum, not because of the unimportant hue of his skin but because of what is in his mind and in his heart.

Truly now, have we not, all of us, either known, or read about, both whites and Negroes, who, by their actions, closely or to a degree, fit one or more of the aforementioned categories?

On the other hand, a man fits into the category of high morals, soberness, intelligent, cleanly, ad infinitum, again not thru any questionable advantage of highly superior and God-given coloring of the epidermis, but because of what emanates from the interior of the man.

In my position as a warehouse supervisor I have had occasion to hire, or see hired, a proportionate number of whites and Negroes. In the hiring, the first things considered were ability, attitude, personality, background, and so on. The color of a man's skin was of no matter. This is the way it should be everywhere, most people agree.

It is the vociferous minority with the deep-seated, blatant predjudice, as well as their borderline compatriots who harbor invisible, hidden animosity with a beaming benificence and says "I agree they should have everything we have, equal rights, and so on, as long as they stay where they are and don't try to buy the house next door to me. After all, would you want your daughter to marry one?"

Now I'm one of the millions on the earth classified as white or Caucasian. I live in a suburb completely white. Frankly speaking, if a Negro family lived next to us, that is to say, a family as considerate and neighborly and decent as millions of Negro families are, I would be quite contented with such an arrangement. The question is my mind would be, can they put up with us, living next door.

I do not agree with the smug, aristocratic, super-isolationist whites who build sterile communities and say, in effect, to the Negro, tough luck, but we'd rather you stay in that area to which you are intangibly but irrefutably restricted.

I do not agree because I believe that racial predjudice is repugnant to the Creator (many Scriptures will verify this) and that it is a byproduct of ignorance, or, more specifically, the inability of any individual to clearly discern the right or wrong of the subject.

One last thought. The Negro's cause is just. All should live in a society as equals. But whether the demonstrations will help is debatable. Am I wrong, or is it not true that all men should look beyond the ineffectual laws and governments of erring man to the time when one government will justly and peacefully abide on the earth?

Not communism. Not democracy. But the only type of government which could possibly succeed on this earth, and which has been promised by the Creator himself, a theocratic government.

True, this does not, on the surface, solve the immediate problem of the Negro child with an empty belly and a rat-infested alley as a playground, but here again the individual viewpoint comes into play.

Are the 50 to 70 short, ephemeral, woebegone, strifetorn years, we spend struggling for survival of as great importance as devoting the greater portion of our energies to ascertaining what the will of God is, and then doing that will, in order to gain the far greater reward of everlasting life?

Tells Plans, Activities of Liberty Church

I would like to comment on an article written by Joan Lorensen, staff writer for Paddock Publications, which appeared last week in the Mt. Prospect Herald on the Church of Christian Liberty of which I am pastor. Everything she stated was correct, except for minor mistakes of miscounting the number of religious tracts on our literature table—there are 5, not 2; the statement that I took the church as a full-time occupation: I am only serving in a part-time capacity being also involved in a foreign missionary project; the name of our church—Church of Christian Liberty not Christian Church of Liberty; and the statement that we unhappily view the need for a great social conscience.

It would seem fitting for a staff writer who has been given the assignment of writing about a church's program to identify oneself as a reporter when she visited the church. Having done so a more complete picture of our program could have been presented to the readers of the feature story.

I wish Miss Lorenson would have visited the section of our Educational Hour that is devoted to the children. While our adults have a study group session which is primarily based on some patriotic theme (films, special speakers, discussions, etc.) the children, after being dismissed from the opening 15 minutes of the Educational Hour in which there are Christian songs, a birthday recognition time, and a patriotic story, have a 45 minute program of their own consisting of a Bible story, memory verse time, and etc.

Had Miss Lorenson visited this department, or at least asked questions about it, she would have seen that this is the form of a traditional Sunday School. It should also be noted that the educationa, program is such that we have excellent adult attendance, over 75 per cent attending both Sunday School and the Morning Worship Service.

There was no mention made in the feature story about three foreign mission projects we are helping to support—a family in India, a radio station in Korea, and a lay missionary program. Also nothing was said about our monthly mission meeting held at a Negro church on the south side of Chicago, a mid-week Bible study class meeting at a home in Chicago and the weekly Bible class that will be starting in Mt. Prospect this September.

We have been very encouraged by the attendance at our services. We are a church that is only 5 months old, and have been meeting in a new location at a new time for only 3 weeks. Looking optimistically to the future we are planning to buy property in the area and erect a church sanctuary and educational building that will be, even in its design, a true witness for God and country.

We do not believe that there is anything wrong with being patriotic and defending the priceless liberties that God has given to us as a nation which has enabled the Christian Church to grow at home and helped in the fulfillment of our Lord's great commission abroad. We are very thankful to God for the freedoms that we have. Outside of soul-winning, nothing is more important than awakening our fellow men to the dangers of Communism and liberalism within and without.

Our religion, as stated by Miss Lorenson, is "strongly fundamentalist," and we are proud of our conservative theological position whose heritage includes such men as the Apostle Paul, Peter, James, Matthew, Luke and John in whose train we hope to follow. Today there are millions of persons who call themselves Christians who attend churches regularly who have never heard the Bible message of personal and individual salvation.

'Turn to the Problems Of the Present, Future'

I recommend to Paddock readers the article by George F. Kennan entitled "The Right Way to Counter Comunism" appearing in the July 15 issue of Presbyterian Life, and which originally appeared in Princeton University's Quarterly. Kennan urges that we emancipate ourselves "from the power of vague semantic symbols, and turn our faces resolutely, with all the realism and honesty we can muster, to the problems of the present and the future."

He should have added that the failure of Americans to grapple with real and significant problems is especially acute in suburbia. Not only do the more "advantaged" suburbanites seem to ignore the current challenges, they have a remarkable susceptibility to the power of "vague semantic symbols."

1984 is less than 20 years away! And as Orwell's fateful date approaches Paddock's readers seem closer only to the non-controversial, to non-involvement, the refuge of the TV set or country club. The "in" way is the wisecrack response to the occasional serious query of the sarcasms directed to the travails involved in the Administration's attempts to forget the "Great Society."

The danger, I feel, is not so much from the right (or from the left), or from withoutl It is from the shrunken spirit of the descendants of those who risked all in voluntary exile from Europe and in revolution to establish as inalienable, life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. Too many have sold this birthright for comfort, status and escape from conscience.

The founding fathers risked the noose. We who inherited their promise avoid the honest dissent. We even avoid the mere affirmation of principles for which our forebears died!

Hiroshima was just 20 years ago! 1945-1984. Are we, indeed, "between two worlds: One dead, the other powerless to be born"?

Federal Aid For Schools Is Questioned

Paddock Publication's editorial titled "Federal Aid for Schools," and Helene Bristol's news coverage of the High School District 214 Board Meeting, Monday, Aug. 9, must have required considerable restraint to refrain from unequivocal support on behalf of the $3 million handout!

The editor touched all of his bases by listing the shortcomings of involvement in federal aid programs and finally concluding that the proposals should be judged upon the merits of the projects and not upon the method of financing.—That's somewhat like telling a teen-ager to supply his own spending money without regard to whether he earns it be legitimate work or by blackmail.

The proposal to participate in these federal programs authorized by the conomic Opportunity Act of 1964 and recommended by the Superintendent of District 214, are totally new in concept and should not be compared with the federally sponsored milk programs, science programs and others which have been conducted by the State of Illinois. The current proposals mark the first time that an attempt has been made to by-pass the State of Illinois, the leagal authority over our school affairs.

The implications of a local school district dealing directly with federal agencies should be carefully considered and debated before a conclusion is reached. The suggestion made by the School District 214 Taxpayers's Association that a Citizens Advisory Committee be established to study these implications and report to the Board, should be given serious consideration — the Board has appointed similar committees for other studies; Why not this one?

In their studies a committee might be inclined to evaluate the following questions:

1. Is poverty assistance within the province of a school board?
2. What other federal, state and local programs are available to assist the needy?
3. What additional aid has the State provided to schools in this past session of the Legislature?
4. What other government agencies have authority to apply for similar federal grants?

These questions are, of course, in addition to the many pointed questions listed in the report made by the Taxpayers Association.

A final thought might be given to the role of township government and its responsibility in these matters. Township Assistance Directors have a legal and moral obligation to direct themselves to the needs of the poor. I wonder if our local township supervisors and boards have considered their role in the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 or the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965?

Church Not Told Caravan Was Coming

In last week's paper, Aug. 12, considerable emphasis was placed upon the fact that so few showed up to welcome the Rights Caravan to the community on Sunday, Aug. 8, and the implication was that the churches in the community had no interest in civil rights.

While it would have been impossible for me to be present, due to previous commitments, I would have tried to have a representative from our church present. However, neither I nor any one in our church, to my knowledge, received any notice whatsoever of the coming of the Freedom of Residence Party to our community.

Doctor Criticizes Reporting Style, Printing Errors

Your editorials have been rather consistent in their socialistic point of view. This is your prerogative. However, I do object to your carrying this same point of view in your news reporting.

Your spelling is atrocious. Typography is poor, i.e., frequent lines are printed upside down, sentences and even paragraphs are misplaced, and photographs are frequently miscaptioned, and names of people are misspelled and frequently misidentified. You have a long way to go in these areas.

Criticizes Actions of Bloomingdale Town Board

On the front page of the Aug. 5 issue of the Roselle Register, you published a very misleading news story concerning the car expense of George A. Sim, Bloomingdale Township Assessor. It is obvious that you did not understand the circumstances.

The Bloomingdale Township Board, consisting of the Township Clerk, Supervisor and three Auditors, took it upon themselves in the June meeting of the Auditor's Board to put Mr. Sim on a 10-cent-a-mile, $75-a-month-limit basis for his car expenses as Township Assessor; also, they ordered him to keep a record of his stops.

They did this despite the fact that in the annual budget approved by the public in April, Mr. Sim's car expense was approved at $900. The township bills are paid monthly so that the $75 is the monthly portion of the budgeted amount. Mr. Savaiano has no authority to withhold this mount, as he threatened, according to your story.

In Mr. Sim's letter in reply to the resolution prepared by the Township Board, he submitted actual costs (business insurance, maintenance, depreciation, license, and fuel) to substantiate his claim. This is the figure that you quoted in your article, $1,530 a year. This is not what Mr. Sim expects. Mr. Sim is cognizant of the fact that he is bound by the annual budget ($900).

Also, in his letter, Mr. Sim quoted figures for car rental. This would be a very costly proposition for the taxpayer. However, this would be the only alternative for the Board, because Mr. Sim has refused to operate his car at the rate of 10-rents-a-mile or submit to the tedious chore of recording stops and mileage while in the field measuring and appraising property. It is ludicrous for the Board to require a man of Mr. Sim's integrity to keep such records. By what authority does the Township Board overrule a publically approved budget?

This whole maneuver is one of harassment. Mr. Savaiano, Bloomingdale Township Supervisor, cannot forget the embarrassment he sustained last April when Mr. Sim won overwhelming public support as Independent Candidate for Township Assessor, despite Mr. Savaiano's elaborate schemes to keep Mr. Sim off the Republican ticket. This is the first time in DuPage County history that an independent candidate has won any office. To add insult to injury, Mr. Savaiano was second lowest vote-getter on the Republican ticket; the only candidate lower was Floyd Sanford, Mr. Sin's opponent.

In another maneuver to harass Mr. Sim, Mr. Savaiano, without consultation or Board approval had the Town Hall telephone system completely changed at the taxpayers' expense. However, it proved so inefficient, that it had to be changed back, again at the taxpayers' expense.

My husband has been attending the Town Auditor's Board meetings since the new Board took office. Great pains have been taken to explain the bills. It is obviously subterfuge.

One case in point was the awarding of the contract for air conditioning the Town Hall. There was a lengthy, if not convincing discussion to justify awarding the job of Mr. Al Schwarz, although his bid of $1,495 was not the low bid. Who is Mr. Schwarz? Mr. Schwarz is a Precinct Committeeman, appointed by Mr. Savaiano, and also President of the Bloomingdale Township Regular Republican Club. He has achieved this eminence although he has resided in Bloomingdale Township for less than a year.

Then there was the discussion raised over purchasing a flag pole for the Town Hall. This was disgraceful. The discussion ran the gamut from who would be responsible for raising and lowering the flag and what would happen in the event of rain, to the estimated expenditure of $300 for a flag pole. They were concerned that because they had already spent $1,495 for the air conditioning that there would not be sufficient funds to purchase a humidifier for the Town Hall this fall. (Does Mr. Schwarz sell humidifiers, too?) The budget for maintenance for the Town Hall for the year is $3,00. At the next meeting, my husband gave them a clipping from the Roselle Register that announced the purchase of a flag pole by the Medinah South School for $150, half the estimate of the Board. To date, nothing has been done. In any event, do we put a price tag on Old Glory, and what American would allow his flag to fly in the rain or after sundown?

At the last meeting, there were two irregularities. The first was payment of a bill submitted by Ed Bade & Sons of Elmhurst for a floor cleaning machine for the Town Hall. The purchase had been made in spite of the fact that no other bid had been submitted.

The other infraction was much more serious. Mr. Savaiano opened the only bid and revealed the figure submitted on the blacktopping of the Town Hall driveway. By so doing, he gave any other concern interested in bidding the advantage of underbidding. If Mr. Savaiano was so scrupulous about having a "full board" (Mr. Norberg, the Town Clerk, was the only member absent) to discuss Mr. Sim's letter, how could he, in good conscience, conduct these items of business and the payment of the rest of the bills?

These monthly meetings of the Board of Auditors are open to the public. Protocol for setting of Township Board meetings in other townships has provided for a definitely stated day and hour of the month, not to be altered without proper notice.

However, the Bloomingdale Board apparently is not concerned with public relations and conducts the meetings at their own convenience. We were informed that the Board meetings are conducted on the first Tuesday after the 3rd of the month at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Hall. However, the August meeting was conducted on Tuesday, Aug. 3rd, at 6:30 p.m. to accommodate the Board. Incidentally, These major changes were made without any public notice.

Locating the Town Hall often presents problems, too. Mr. Horn has chided the Board for not putting a sign up on Lake Street to indicate the location of the Town Hall, but to no avail. It was only after constant heckling by Mr. Horn that a sign was erected in front of the Town Hall this month. Another accommodation of other townships is memeographing copies of the minutes of the Town Board of Auditors meetings.

Although the law only requires that the Clerk allow the public to examine and copy the minutes at the Town Hall, the other townships feel that it is good public relations to offer copies of the minutes.

At any rate, come out to the meetings and see your tax money spent.

Next month - Mr. Sim's car expense.

Formation Of Taxpayer Group Hailed

Formation of the High School District 214 Taxpayers' Association in Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships deserves special notice. For too long, the only persons interested in school elections and activities have been teachers, school administrators and parents of students, in short those most inclined to spend money on any project proposed.

Sparked by the District's application for Federal aid to finance a Neighborhood Youth Corps in an affluent area and to construct a lavish professional theatre, ceramics and metal sculpture centers, a planetarium and other luxuries, disinterested citizens have for the first time asserted their rights as members of the community and taxpayers who must ultimately bear the burden of Federal, state and local education taxes.

But the Taxpayers' Association is by no means largely composed of those who do not have children. Rather, it consists of parents with the intelligence to realize that it is the quality of basic education which is vital and the essential honesty to refuse a "give-away."

'Adolescent Sub-Culture Is Not Rebellion'

"Chicago is a good kid who gets a haircut twice a week."

What Chicago have you been visiting, Mr. Setlik? Not the one I came from; that's for sure. Your choice of a symbol for squaresville is a poor one. Far from being a square twown, Chi has as many kooks, queers, thieves, thinkers, swingers, showgirls, poets, pimps, and patsys as any other city in the world.

What it doesn't have much of is the phoniness of L.A. and the mascara market next door, Hollywood, where everyone works 24 hours a day to attract attention and does it with every prop, costume, or piece of scenery he can lay hands on. Thigh boots in summer—a Chicagoan wouldn't be caught dead in them. That's not rebellion, Mr. Setlik, that's lunacy. It's an attempt to get into the movies.

No, your choice of symbols is a poor one. Call me up and I'll prove it to you; I'll take you around Chi-Town some evening. It'll be a pleasure.

As to rebellion, what you describe is not rebellion. The adolescent sub-culture is just that, a sub-culture. The kids you look upon as the "underground" are nothing of the kind. They are a developing segment of a society which is already on a slow downward spiral. Do you believe for one minute that if the establishment thought these "longhaired, effete, so-what-if-I-do" kids were any danger, they'd be allowed to swing in the local parks and run night clubs in the basements of churches?

Rebellion seeks to destroy and replace, Mr. Setlik, but these kids are not trying to destroy or improve the culture. They're trying desperately hard to be part of it and to be noticed. And that's not rebellion. You've missed the point of the whole bit, Sir.

Annexation Legislation Called 'Sneaky'

The article in your paper about the annexation of Branigar's to Elk Grove Village was a little premature as Gov. Kerner vetoed this particular bill.

It's a sad state of affairs when a few people can try to force their will on the majority in this section who will have no part of annexation to the village.

I was shocked at the sneaky way it was introduced and passed by the House and Senate without any adverse publicity. You can be certain that we in Branigar's will be alerted the next time. I'll also be watching Rep. John Cassidy (D., Peoria) for any more sneak legislation that he may want to introduce.

I'll also try to find out who the schemers were on this bill. It's certainly not the people of Elk Grove Village. Maybe Attorney Hofert can enlighten me.

'Education Hour Not Substitute For Bible Study'

On August 12, 1965, Paddock had an article, entitled, "Churchgoer Sees Red, White and Blue," which gave an unfair description of a Church service, and an education hour at the Church of Chrustian Liberty.

First, the educational hour was, as the author put it, "Dosed with patriotic mesagess," because it was intended that way, and decided to be that way by the church board. The educational hour is not a substitute for Bible study. Separate Bible study session plans have been mentioned and they will undoubtedly be starting soon.

Second, Fundamentalism, as defined in the dictionary, is a movement re-emphasizing as fundamental to Christianity belief in the inerrancy of the Scriptures, Biblical miracles, especially the virgin birth and the physical resurrection of Christ. I think the article should have placed more emphasis on this.

Radio Free Europe Director Says Thank You

While in New York recently I learned of your valuable assistance in the campaign for funds for Radio Free Europe. I am writing this letter to let you know how much your support is appreciated. Not only is the money itself vitally important but the contributions you have helped bring in give us the independence and the widespread popular base that makes Radio Free Europe so uniquely effective.

The past year has brought increased realization of the major objectives of Radio Free Eureop. The Communist regimes are in more and more ways breaking away from Soviet domination. They have begun to show a greater responsiveness to the will of their people, the millions who for the 15 years that we have been broadcasting have fought Communist oppression every step of the way.

Now demands of the people are beginning to be answered. Economic systems are being revised. Here and there first steps toward some policital freedom have been allowed. The Poles last month, for the first time since the Communists took over, were able to register at the polls their disapproval of regime candidates.

Radio Free Europe's role of providing helpful information and truthful reports of current events, especially events within the countries back of the Iron Curtain, is now more important then ever. Only an informed public can be fully effective. Radio Free Europe provides the essential and otherwise missing ingredient—complete and accurate information.

Over 100 names were suggested by readers of Paddock Publications.

Paddock Judges have selected what they consider 'The Ten Best' suggestions, and are now asking readers to "Vote" for their choice.

Board of Education is NOT obligated to eventually select the name chosen by Paddock readers. The board's choice will obviously be the ONLY official decision, and it could well be many months before such decision is made.

If the decision of the Board of Education coincides with one of the suggestions made to Paddock Publications in its recent search, the first person making such suggestion will receive $25.00 in Cash from Paddock Publications; plus suitable honors at dedication of the Junior College.

If the decision of the Board of Education does NOT coincide with one of the suggestions made to Paddock Publications in its recent search, then the person first suggesting the name judged "Best" in the "Voting" will receive the $25.00 in cash from Paddock Publications.

Paddock Publications records of receipt of suggestions will determine which person "first" suggested the name involved.

Official Paddock "Ballot" to Name the Junior College

ELKSPAW
This name incorporates the names of four townships to be served by the college — Elk Grove, Schaumburg, Palatine and Wheeling — and also recognizes this area as site of the largest elk herd in the U.S. outside of Yellowstone National Park.

EUCLID
By honoring the educational dignity and inspiration of the great Greek scholar as well as an important tree-lined roadway serving the heart of the junior college district, Euclid represents both the dignity of higher learning and a relationship to the northwest area.

LAFAYETTE
A distinguished French general and statesman who made a triumphant visit to Illinois in 1825, Lafayette was an avid supporter of the American Revolution. He served with distinction under Gen. George Washington and was instrumental in securing aid for America from neutral France.

PADDOCK
One of the most recognizable names in northwest suburbs, this name would honor H. C. Paddock, founder of the newspaper chain which since 1872 has served all townships in the district, and Arlington Park race track, best known landmark in the area whose beautiful paddock area is part of that image.

PIONEER
The spirit of those who first settled here — the pioneers — is kept alive as the area grows and plans for the future.

NATHANIEL POPE
Without the efforts of Pope, the area to be served by the new college would not be located in Illinois. As delegate from the Illinois area, he convinced Congress the proposed boundary be moved from its original point at the southern tip of Lake Michigan northward to include the area now occupied by northwest suburbs.

PRAIRIE
This name pays tribute to Illinois, "The Prairie State," and to the original topography of the area now encompassed by the junior college district.

SALT CREEK
One of the main waterways serving the northwest area, Salt Creek winds from Schaumburg Township through Palatine and Rolling Meadows, then near the proposed college site and down into Elk Grove Village.

SHABBONA
The Shabbona Indians, part of the Potawatomi Tribe which first inhabited this area, were of great service in keeping relations friendly with the early white settlers. Of mixed white and Indian blood, they knew both languages and were invaluable in promoting understanding.

ADLAI STEVENSON
One of Illinois' most distinguished sons and famous suburbanite, Mr. Stevenson as governor was a dedicated supporter of public education and a devoted statesman striving for world peace and understanding in his work as ambassador to the United Nations.

The Way We See It

DuPage Must Be Sold on College

Ironically enough, approval of the welcome legislation setting up a statewide junior college system has held up action on the proposed community college for DuPage County.

The required public hearing on the plans, which have already been okayed by the state, now must be held by the newly-created State Junior College Board, yet to be appointed by the governor. The hearing originally had been slated for June, with a referendum tentatively in October. Now, the citizens committee working on promotion for the college hopes to hold the referendum sometime in November.

Hopefully, this schedule will not be further delayed. While Gov. Kerner Kerner is understandably busy wading through the mass of legislation passed by this year's General Assembly, early appointment of the board is necessary to guide implementation of the state college outline.

Meanwhile, the citizens committee — organized by DuPage County's 10 high school districts — has a big job at hand. The college proposal has been in the works for more than two years, and the final plan is based on a $16,000 professional study. Arguments in favor are strong, based on the crush of college enrollments and the vital need for more classrooms to meet demands of local students.

The school would open doors to qualified students who could not get into other colleges because of swelling admissions or high costs; those who seek basic vocational or technical training and those who are married and wish to continue their education locally.

The curriculum would be designed to serve four separate needs, for those who wish to transfer to complete four years of college; two-year general education; technical and semi-professional training; and courses to fit specific community needs.

And the cost for all this would be only about half that originally anticipated. The maximum tax limit would be eight cents per $100 assessed valuation for educational purposes, and three cents for building and land acquisition; however, with the recent legislation providing for the state to suppply 75 per cent of the building costs and 50 per cent for operating expenses, the actual levy would amount to only about six cents.

DuPage County has a rising assessed valuation to support this added tax, and it's a compact area with a high population projection. Thus, the junior college proposition is both logical and feasible. However, it can't be left to speak for itself.

Residents of DuPage, feeling the pinch of taxes, do not always give a gracious reception to referenda asking for even more of their money. For example, a Fenton High School referendum was defeated this spring, and Lake Park High School is planning a referendum this fall which may detract from the junior college bid in the minds of voters.

To get their message across, proponents of the junior college will have to wage an active personal sales campaign to convince other residents that the plan will benefit the whole county.

Suffrage in Suburbia

Suburbs owe a debt of gratitude to U.S, Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois. If state government ever becomes truly responsive to the legitimate needs of its citizens, much of the credit will be due Sen. Douglas.

In the past year he has fought with determination and success to defeat a constitutional amendment designed to neutralize Supreme Court decisions which have forced state legislatures to go through the agony of reapportioning themselves.

The court interprets the constitutional guarantee of equal rights to require all districts in both houses of a state legislature to be arranged so all contain approximately the same number of people. This, in turn, will mean that the concentrations of people in metropolitan areas — such as Chicago — must be given more say in the statehouses.

U.S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois is opposed to the Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" principle and has led the campaign to amend the U.S. Constitution to preserve the status quo in Illinois — and other — state legislatures.

The Dirksen forces, chiefly from Southern and other rural states, contend the equal population requirement for both houses of a legislature erodes the rights of states. They rely on the analogy of the federal system, although the Supreme Court pointed out this had nothing to do with states, which are not federations of counties or cities.

It would be hard to conceive of an amendment more destitute of rational support; a factor which weighed heavily against the Dirksen forces earlier this month was that they had a pathetically weak case. Their proposal would single out rural Americans, among all the minorities in the land, for special electoral privilege.

Ironically, the major benefactors of Democrat Douglas' campaign will be largely Republican suburbs.

In Illinois as elsewhere, the influence of suburbs would be enhanced by true equality of legislative representation.

Between 1950 and 1960, Chicago's population dropped 2 per cent while suburbs increased 71.5 per cent. The city's share of total population dropped from 44.2 per cent in 1930 to 35.2 per cent in 1960. If Illinois senate lines were drawn strictly according to population this year, Chicago would gain only three seats; suburbs would gain six.

Suburbanites have a vital stake in Sen. Douglas' determined fight to stave off Dirksen's effort to upset the court ruling. A rural-dominated Illinois legislature has been adamant in its refusal to cope with the pressing problems of rapid metropolitan and suburban growth. Urban citizens — who now comprise the majority in Illinois — traditionally get a deaf ear from the state Senate, where representation is based on area rather than population.

This past session showed that, by and large, the best legislators come from the suburbs. These representatives are in touch with the real problems of the state, which find their strongest expression in the metropolitan areas. If reapportionment is carried out as Sen. Douglas hopes it will be, the suburban delegation will be enlarged and improved legislation will result.

"The real issue here," declared Douglas, "is whether the needs of the people are to be met by their state governments or whether the special interests continue to stop programs for the great majority of the people by exerting a minority control over one house of a legislature."

Postal 'Report Card'

by DON HEINE
Staff Writer

How's mail service at your house—good, bad, or in-between? Suburban residents who were asked the question for this week's "Speak Up" column disagree.

"We are well satisifed; we have had no difficulty," replied one Bensenville woman. She was Mrs. Timothy J. O'Brien, of 136 Daniel.

HEINE

In contrast, another housewife in the same village summarized postal delivery as "horrible." Mrs. Joseph Caliendo, 7 N. 742 Spruce, said her neighbors in Mohawk Terrace share this view. Added Mrs. Caliendo, "Sometimes we get mail at 4 and at other times at 11. Sometimes we get the right mail."

For this week's column, the mail service question was put to 25 persons, living in suburbs as far apart as Wheeling and Streamwood.

ONLY THREE of the 25 respondents were strongly critical of mail delivery.

Six others said they now are satisfied, but have had trouble with postal service at their homes in the past.

Four more were satisfied, but suggested improvements.

Twelve persons, almost half, had no specific complaint or suggestion for improved service.

So the regular postal carrier scores quite well with housewives. But many of them say that the service declines as soon as a substitute steps in.

One common annoyance, even with otherwise pleased patrons, is late afternoon delivery.

LESS FREQUENT is the gripe that mail gets dropped in the wrong box.

Mrs. Roger R. Meyer of Higgins road said they have a special problem because they live in Schaumburg, get their mail through the Palatine post office and attend church in Roselle. Sometimes a church letter takes a week to reach them, "just as long as from another state."

Mrs. Audrey Mesiacs, 3208 Oriole, Rolling Meadows, used to get mail of someone who lives at 3208 Wren. The only association she sees is that both streets are named for birds. She called her mail service good now but recalled that there was a confused period which started 2½ years ago and lasted for about a year and a half.

Here are some other comments:

Mrs. John R. Meinert, 605 S. William, Mount Prospect: "Good now, but it was hit-and-miss for a while. There were a number of different carriers."

Mrs. Richard W. Mair, S. Roselle Road, Roselle: "Since the new postmaster has taken over the post office is run beautiful... We had quite a few battles with the other one."

MRS. LOUIS F. Larson, 425 S. Highland, Arlington Heights; "It has a lot to do with the mailman. The mailman we have now is fine. We had one who was just awful."

Mrs. Kenneth Kuffer, 116 N. Waterman, Arlington Heights: "We would like to have our mail in the morning. Sometimes it does come at 3 or 4 o'clock. We constantly get mail of people who used to live here. Otherwise we are well satisifed."

Mrs. Wallace M. Jensen, 48 Somerset Ln., Schaumburg: "I don't see how it could be improved upon. I'm very happy with the mailman we have."

Mrs. Frank C. Johanek, 1309 W. Grove, Arlington Heights: "I'm not particularly happy with it. We used to get mail early in the day. Now it comes any time between 11:30 and 5."

MRS. LEONARD B. Paulsen, 240 S. Wheeling Ave., Wheeling: "I have no complaint except sometimes it does come a couple of days late." Sometimes letters from relatives in Florida arrive in four days, other times in 10 days.

Mrs. George A. Pease, 101 Walnut Dr., Streamwood: "We have had no trouble at all. We are last to receive mail, but we are last on the route."

In Elk Grove Village, three women agreed that mail service is good.

In Hoffman Estates, Mrs. Wayne Waspi, 182 Morton, called it "completely satisfactory," except she would like it earlier in the day.

In Palatine, a high school senior said the service is good and the mail man is good looking.

On the complaint side, a woman in Rolling Meadows said misdelivered mail benefited her in an unexpected way. She and another woman kept getting each other's mail. They got acquainted in delivering it and now they are good friends.

Espionage Is Big Business

By BOB CUMMINS
Staff Writer

Recently, a former junior executive of a huge business concern was accused of trying to sell the marketing plans for his company's toothpaste to a rival toothpaste firm.

The case revealed a new facet of the growth of big business. Huge companies are in a dog-eat-dog fight for a bigger share of the market. Their stockholders are goading them on. It is war to the death.

CUMMINS

Since they are bigger than many governments, it is not surprising they should choose the weapons of international political warfare.

So in addition to their production departments, their sales departments, their accounting departments, they must have their own central intelligence agencies or G-2's.

NATURALLY, these operations are top secret. Even trusted employes of long standing may not know of their existence. Company intelligence may operate behind a door innocuously labeled "Quality Control." I know for a fact that a 25-year veteran of the mailroom in a big shampoo concern thought his firm's intelligence operators were shampoo mixers, so cleverly did they disguise their operation by wearing overalls and carrying big wooden paddles around.

Some of the stories you don't read in Business Week are enough to chill your blood. Take what happened to an undercover agent for a big breakfast cereal firm. He was bringing back from Bulgaria a formula for exploding barley, then coating it with cotton candy. It was to be marketed under the name "Balkan Delight." The formula was microfilmed and hidden in a secret compartment in his belt buckle. He was riding the Blue Express from Sofia to Paris. When the train emerged from the Simplon Tunnel, the poor fellow was found lying in the aisle, his throat slit. His belt was gone.

One of the most notorious big business espionage agents poses as a humble Italian peasant. You may have seen him at some open air restaurant in Rome, or prodding his donkey down a bougainvillea-lined road at Capri, or making a lunch of sausage, cheese and good red wine in a third-class carriage of the Rome-Venice express. You wouldn't believe me if I told you this man is Harcourt Cavanaugh III, possessor of a master's degree from the Harvard School of Business Administration. But it is true. Yes, this humble peasant is none other than Cavanaugh, "King of the Underarm Deodorant Spies."

MANY PEOPLE with false teeth fail to realize how much they owe to the intrepidity of Grover Gilyak, counter-agent. It happened one foggy night on the East India Dock Road. Gilyak, a master sleuth, trailed Dr. Boris Stepanoff to a trawler with anchor lifted, ready to drift down the Thames with the tide. Although Dr. Stepanoff was the proud holder of a judo black belt, Gilyak fought him and beat him. Thus he kept the formula for stopping denture breath from going behind the Iron Curtain.

With so much excitement in business espionage, it's hard to find anyone to take care of the inventories and accounts receivable and debentures and things like that. Everyone wants to play James Bond.

Critic's Corner

Man Laments 'She-Power'

by MICHAEL HESS
Staff Writer

Just between you and me, women are idiots!

Of course, the fact that females lack something in the mentality or common sense department is no great revelation. Just ask any man.

But the weakmindedness of "she's" is creating considerably more than the usual havoc. Now their feeble thinking spreads devastation over our society.

Root of the confusion is that they can't make a simple decision. The chaos causing vacillation is this: Those in skirts can't determine whether they want to be feminine or masculine. They try to be both, and everyone suffers.

This wavering began some time ago.

HESS

It used to be that women maintained a position two respectful paces behind any male. They bore children, cared for goats, cried over Indian attacks, churned butter and that was that. Peace and contentment abounded.

Suddenly, some silly girl reopened Pandora's Box and let out the term "equality." Nothing has ever been the same.

AS THE YEARS went by, females gradually erased that pair of steps distance between themselves and men. That far was fine. Their progress was considerable and probably deserved.

It wasn't long before they bore the burden of voting, cared for weekly paychecks, worried over much-revealed stocking seams, and churned up their modernized version of appealing femininity.

If women had only stopped at that point, perhaps all confusion could have been avoided. Unfortunately, they didn't. They gained their justified paces and went on to take more and more and more.

Equality they wanted and equality they got. Suddenly however, females turned equality into a drive for dominance. That was the new goal and that brought the present sorrow.

WOMEN SOUGHT public office and were elected. Women fought for executive positions and were promoted. Women struggled for the right to disagree and no one argued. Women cried to speak their minds and everyone listened.

Women tried to usurp the masculine station in life and far too many succeeded. Somehow that should have made them happy. But did it? Definitely not!

Females want to be wives with the usual children and home life. At the same time they want careers, something more than "just being a mother."

IF THEY GET both, most she's perform inadequately in "both."

Many dismiss the diapers and dust mops in favor of the office. Then when limited to just one or the other, anguished screams of "we're not being fulfilled" are heard.

No matter which they have, women complain that males have let them down. That they're not coddled and romanced as women. At the same time though, they want to be competitive and challenging and act just like men.

When will women learn that males don't like to coddle masculinity, that men don't like to compete with a romance symbol? Most men don't like to; many men just can't.

And how has this reversal of position by "she's" affected our society? Just look around you. . .

Women are hard. They're hard boiled, hard hearted, hard headed and hardly feminine. They're voracious for possessions, ravenous for power, and rapacious for every former bastion of the opposite gender.

Females' inability to decide whether they want to be girls or boys also causes them to be completely and utterly miserable. Until they make up their minds, if that's possible, they will never achieve the happiness and true fulfillment which they deserve.

Our Mistake

Contrary to the impression created in last week's lead editorial, "Manager System Is Vital to Suburbs," Elk Grove Village operates on the manager system.

It was put into effect with passage of an ordinance June 8.

Horses Are Focal Point of Teenagers' Lives

Perform In Rodeo Aug. 27

By PAT ADAM
Staff Writer

This is a story about six girls and one of the most important things in their lives—their horses.

Besides sharing a love for animals, these girls have something else in common. Each earned the money to buy her own horse, and each is going to be in her first rodeo later this month.

One of the two high school students in the group is Carolyn Cameron, 17, of Prospect Heights, who's been riding horseback since she was seven.

"My mother told me if I could keep up my grades and earn the money myself, I could have my own horse," explained the petite, dark-haired Wheeling High School senior.

SO CAROLYN clipped poodles to earn the needed money, a job she enjoyed because she also loves dogs. In fact, she hopes to become a veterinarian. Now that she has her horse, "Flame," Carolyn still clips poodles to pay for boarding her pet at Arcadia Farm near Long Grove. It takes a lot of clipping to pay for 30 pounds of hay a day.

Nineteen-year-old blonde Sue Banner of Long Grove held two jobs so she could fulfill her ambition to own her own horse. Now that Sue has her American saddle breed mare, she has given up her part-time position at Dominick's Food Store in Palatine and will work only at her regular job in the Arlington Medical Laboratory.

Besides paying to board her horse at Arcadia Farm, Sue also is saving to attend the University of Tennessee this fall to train as a medical technologist.

The other high schooler in the group is Karen Marsala, 17, who'll be a senior at Palatine High this fall. Karen insists she earned her horse the hard way—by babysitting three boys, all under five. She also worked in a grocery store.

BOTH SUE and Karen would like to breed horses. Already Sue has paid the stud fee, which she earned herself, to have her mare mated with Arcadia Farm's Appaloosa stallion, Sammy, and the foal is due next year. Karen would like to sell her present horse, a buckskin mare named "Apache," and buy a stallion or a gelding.

"Mares are too temperamental," she said.

With Caryl Hardwood, who's also from Palatine, an interest in horses comes naturally. Her father is from Kentucky. Caryl will be going to the University of Kentucky next fall where she will continue the studies she started at Northern Illinois, English and art, but she expects to study horsemanship, too.

"After all, that's what Kentucky's famous for," she laughed.

Caryl also worked at Dominick's so she could buy her own horse, and she just got her mare, "Cherame," about the middle of July. The two are having some problems getting used to one another.

"I let her get away with too much in the beginning," she admitted.

AN ATTRACTIVE blonde young woman, Merrily Cominsky of Wheeling looks as if she just stepped out of the beauty shop, and she did for Merrily works as a beautician in Evanston. A working girl since she was graduated from high school except for the time to train as a beautician, Merrily has used part of her earnings to buy her western buckskin horse.

Like Carolyn Cameron, Merrily has ridden since she was seven. Most of the other girls learned when they were nine or ten.

Rounding out the group is Penny Sedlak of Arlington Heights, who painted the plaque that was dedicated along with Arcadia Farm's huge indoor arena to the memory of the Plains Indian during the pre-rodeo open house held at the farm recently.

Penny commutes every week day to her job in the art department of the First National Bank of Chicago. Now 19, she started riding when in the fifth grade but got her own horse only about a year ago.

PENNY EXPLAINED that while the farm feeds and waters the boarding horses and cleans their stalls, it's up to the girls to care for the animals. That means cleaning their feet, brushing and currying them, washing them down when it's hot and even using fly repellant in the warm weather.

"They stay in better condition and in a better mood, just like people," Penny said.

Several of the girls have ridden in shows, but all six will face a brand new experience when they participate in the Long Grove Rodeo at Arcadia Farm the end of August.

Since July the six, along with five other girls, have been training under the guidance of Mrs. Jean Eich of Libertyville in a precision drill that will add color to the farm's first annual rodeo Aug. 27, 28 and 29.

THEY'VE BEEN spending every evening putting their horses through their paces in the outdoor arena built especially for the rodeo.

"The routine is not so difficult to do," laughed Merrily. "The hard part is doing it together."

Only two of the 11 girls ever have done anything like this before, Nancy Jo Levitt of Lincolnwood and Marcie Colgrove of Lake Forest, so they're the leads. The rest of the team, besides the six local riders, are Jeanne Steinbach of Northbrook, Barbara Evers of Skokie and Rosemarie Brekha of Morton Grove.

It looks at this point as though Caryl Harwood will have to drop out of the drill team because she and her horse are so new to one another. But she will be competing with the others for the title of rodeo queen.

At the recent pre-rodeo open house, the girls were judged on their poise and ability to think quickly as they were called forward to be introduced and questioned on everything from dating to Viet Nam. On the Saturday morning of the rodeo they'll be judged on horsemanship. The queen will be announced on Sunday.

"I don't think any of us will be disappointed if we're not selected," commented Merrily. "It's just been a lot of fun."

"We've worked hard, but we've all enjoyed it. It's nice to feel you're participating in the rodeo," said Penny.

TO MRS. BLANCHE Kloman, co-owner and operater of Arcadia Farm, each of the 11 is a queen.

"The way they care for and handle their horses shows a large degree of responsibility in the modern girl" is her opinion.

"Owning a horse can be a status symbol, and for some it is. But not these girls. Every one of them is sincere," she declared.

PERFORMING A DRILL routine is a new experience for most of the girls who will be entertaining the crowds at Long Grove Rodeo next week. Their trainer, Mrs. Jean Eich, gives a few last minute instructions before they start the evening's practice in Arcadia Farm's outdoor arena, where they've been working out nearly every week night since the end of July. Sept. 10 News Clinic Aimed To Area Clubs

Paddock Publications Second Annual Newspaper Publicity Clinic will be sponsored next month for presidents and publicity chairmen of northwest suburban women's organizations.

Announcement of the clinic, attended by nearly 300 women last year, was made this week by Mrs. Marianne Scott, women's editor of Paddock Publications' 15 suburban newspapers.

It will be held Friday, Sept. 10, from 9:15 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at Arlington Park's Carousel Restaurant, corner of Euclid and Rohlwing Roads, Arlington Heights, and will again include a break for coffee and Danish rolls baked by the chef of the Post and Paddock Club.

INVITED TO participate are presidents and publicity chairmen of all social and service clubs, community and church groups, women's organizations and other clubs located in north DuPage and northwest Cook County suburbs served by Paddock newspapers.

Mrs. Scott said the clinic is designed as a special service to these organizations as an effort to help publicity chairmen know and use news style in material submitted for publication.

"Material properly prepared has a much better chance of getting into the newspaper," said Mrs. Scott. "We hope our clinic will again provide publicity chairmen with helps and suggestions that will enable them to write better copy and get better news coverage for their club activities."

The 2-hour clinic will include sessions on copy preparation, what is "news," valuable hints on writing style, deadlines, how to submit news copy, writing publicity stories to interest others, use of names, importance of accuracy and an explanation of Paddock Publications, Inc.; and publicity policies.

Of special value will be a discussion of news photos, including examples of good as well as poor publicity pictures and tips on how to get more and better photos of your club activities published.

IN ADDITION to Mrs. Scott, clinic speakers will include Robert Y. Paddock, vice president of Paddock Publications, Inc., Charles D. Hayes, executive editor; Mrs. Doris McClellan, assistant women's editor, and Thomas G. Grieger, assistant photo editor and staff photographer.

Scores of phone calls and letters commdneing the clinic were received following last year's presentation. Although attendance at last year's clinic was by reservation, more than 100 women who had not made reservations were squeezed into the meeting room. So that comfortable seating accommodations can be made for all, Mrs. Scott asks that interested club presidents and news chairmen make reservations by phoning Mrs. Shaughnessy between 9 a.m. and 4:p.m. at Paddock Publications, 3L 3-1520, Extension 261.

New Coiffure Styles for Fashion Conscious

Fall Forecast: Lively Curl Look

By MARIANNE SCOTT
Women's Editor

Girls will have curls this Fall.

After seasons of pouffed straight lines, comes the "Lively Curl Look," a complete swing away from the styles of the recent past. The new look is a fun style that is extremely practical and better yet, it is a style that wears well even in between beauty salon visits.

This is the word from the Official Hair Fashion Committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, the hair fashion authority of the beauty profession.

The soft and airy curly top, while lively, young and free, is also highly feminine. Curls seem to have a find of their own, some going up, others down or around, tossing, tumbling or just rolling along. "But don't let your curls have too much fun," cautions the Fashion Committee. "Their play must be confined gently within the season's small head silhouette.

FROM THE FRONT, the silhouette has its greatest width in the area between the top of the eyebrows and the natural top of the head. The amount of width is governed by good taste and elegance, keeping in mind that this is a small head look, one that is youthful and lively, but never bizarre.

In profile, there is a soft rise at the top crown area increasing as it moves forward. Contrast this with last year's styles, which had the rise at the back crown area.

FEATHERED

TUMBLED

TOSSED

Now the curls literally tumble forward from the top of the crown, spreading into the high temple area. The result is a highly contemporary and easy to wear version of the famous Gibson Girl of yesterday, but where the Gibson Girl used puffs for the width in her hair style, we now use airy curls.

Complete freedom is given to the type of curls used. They may be soft and feathery, or substantially full, providing there is a general effect of airy lightness. Also, the curls can rise upwards from the forehead for an off-the-face look.

HAIR AT THE nape is shortest in length, frequently down to zero. This length increases gradually at the back of the head to its greatest length at the top of the head, and then decreasing slightly towards the front hairline.

The actual length is dependent upon individual needs. There is a drastic change in hair shaping, and the hair is now being tapered, rather than blunt cut. It is vital that the hair be cut and tapered for the proper architectural foundation of the new style, to capture its elegant proportions and provide ease of wear.

Hair coloring for fall tends towards soft blends of tone. The entire spectrum of natural hair colors are indicated to blend with the soft colors of fall costumes. Soft shades of blonde will continue to enjoy high appeal, as will natural shades of soft browns, auburns and muted reds. An important note will be the blending of several tones of a single shade to givbe a soft halo effect with lighter tones frequently used near the face.

Make-up, like hair colors, will enhance the natural look. Lip colors will continue to be soft, moist and warm tones of several shades, but the make-up accent will be used to emphasize the eyes, softly, but knowingly. Important note for complexions, will be the careful use of shadings to give a soft and femininely natural look.

Attending the Fall Fashion Premiere, held in July in conjunction with the NHCA's annual convention in St. Louis, were several members of the Paddock area Affiliate: Armand Gentile, Ruth Montgomery, Ray Raines, Paul and Vera Tell, Adeline Pedersen, Dale and Betty Blau and Jan Bialek.

MISS BIALEK, a resident of Wood Dale, and Mr. Gentile, an Arlington Heights resident, along with Joseph A. Creed of Addison and Barbara E. Fahn of Rolling Meadows, also attended the recent 10-day 11th annual School of Advanced Cosmetology at Southern Illinois University's Carbondale campus. The school is conducted by the Illinois Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association in cooperation with the SIU Division of Technical and Adult Education. Students study psychology, physics of hair, chemistry of beauty products, business practices, public relations and beauty salon operation practices.

Attending a 2-day workshop of the Illinois Hair Fashion Committee held recently in Chicago was Miss Carole Breust of Arlington Heights. Miss Breust, author of an article in a current hair fashion magazine, will serve as one of the instructors in the Mid-America Fashion Festival to be held Sept. 11-13 in Chicago.

"Members of our group work hard at keeping up with the newest trends in hair fashions and styling," commented Adeline Pedersen, president of the local club, Affiliate 47, "and in entering competition, many of them have won numerous awards for their skill, artistry and proficiency."

Patio Bench Adds Glamor

If your patio is just an ordinary slab of concrete, it could probably stand a little cosmetic surgery. Additions rather than cover-ups can do the trick.

For instance, the patio will acquire a look of permanency if you add a simple, right-angle garden bench in one corner. Build the bench with Douglas fir 2x4s for the framing and seat, spacing the 2x4s slightly for the seat. Station a large pot of flowers or a dwarf evergreen at each end of the bench, and you'll be amazed at the change in your patio's appearance.

CLOSET REMODELING can take any form, but for the closets to be moth-repellent, they should be lined with aromatic red cedar. Built-in features in the closet on the left provide for convenient storage of wide range and size of household articles. Traditional closet arrangement on the right provides storage for big, bulky articles on top shelf.

Do-It-Yourself Cedar Closet Repels Moths

It's difficult to think about winter woolens in mid-August, but it won't be too long before the woolen articles will emerge from their wintertime storage.

If you took the necessary precaution to store these articles in a moth-free closet, you need have no worry.

If you didn't, you may have involuntarily contributed to the estimated $200 to $500 million damage which moths do to clothing and furniture annually.

THE NATIONAL Institute of Rug Cleaning has said that in a year's time, the offspring from only six moths can eat the weight of a baby grand piano.

Whether they can or not, they unquestionably have a tremendous appetite. And unless you have moth-free storage facilities in your home, you run the risk of helping to satisfy that appetite.

Building such storage facilities is one project that the amateur do-it-yourselfer really can do, because material for building a moth-repellent closet is readily available and simply applied.

THE MATERIAL for this project is aromatic red cedar closet lining, a unique Southern wood that has an aroma which is extremely pleasant and refreshing to humans but deadly to the moth larvae. It paralyzes the newly hatched insects and thereby induces death by starvation.

Cedar lining comes in prepackaged bundles or cartons, in random or uniform lengths. It's a tongue-and-grooved material which is nailed directly to the wall of a closet. No prior preparations are required.

DETERMINE first how much cedar lining you will need to cover the closet walls. For greater moth-repellency cedar also can be applied to the closet ceiling and to the back of the door. In any event, compute the area to be covered and order the material accordingly. Approximate wall coverage is indicated on each package.

The average closet can be lined with cedar for about $50, and the job can be completed in a weekend.

Remove all molding and accessories from the closet walls, and apply the cedar to the wall horizontally, working from the floor up. Only tools required are a hammer and saw. Nail one row at a time. Pieces cut off to fill out one row are used in the next, so there is a minimum of wasted material.

It is recommended you finish one wall before moving on to the next. Use 4-penny finishing nails to secure the lining. Because the material is tongue-and-grooved, pieces needn't join where there is a wall stud. The pieces hold together firmly when nailed to the wall.

No finishing is required for red cedar. When the last piece is nailed in place, the job is over. Application of a stain or varnish would seal in the cedar fumes and defeat the purpose of using the cedar lining. (S

GAILY COLORED COTTON SHEETS are creatively used to dress a bedroom with feminine flare. Hay Fever Season About to 'Bloom'

The annual hay fever exodus soon will be on, according to the Chicago Motor Club.

Starting about the middle of August, and continuing up to the first frost, many Americans will be seeking relief from the dreaded ragweed pollen that infests the country during this period.

Hay fever sufferers seeking relief will literally head for the hills—and wooded and seashore areas, too. These areas are relatively free of the annoying pollen "fall out."

HARDEST HIT among hay fever victims usually are Midwesterners and those tho live in the intensively tilled portion of the Mississippi Valley. Airborne ragweed pollen generally is heaviest in this region.

The region west of the Cascade Mountains of Oregon and Washington is considered to have one of the lightest incidents of ragweed pollen in the nation. Alaska also is almost completely free of the sneeze provoker.

A GOOD DEGREE of relief can also be obtained in the wooded areas of extreme northern Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire and Maine, as well as in the central Adirondacks and in the extreme southern tip of Florida.

In the Rocky Mountain states ragweeds always are present in farming areas but are largely absent in desert and forested regions. The motor club cautions hay fever sufferers to take it easy when driving during the pollen season, as the allergy might cause them to tire more easily and thereby impair their driving efficiency. Roof overhangs should be deep enough to protect windows and sidings, but not so deep that they restrict the view. A rule of thumb: plan overhangs so that a view from any standard size window reveals one-third sky.

'That Reckless Feeling . . .'

A Day at the Races

By BETTY AINSLIE

There is something I could become addicted to without half trying — not alcohol or dope, but betting on the horse races.

It's that reckless feeling of possibly winning that has me studying the jockey score sheet, the tipsters paper and tuning in on that hot tip the man behind me is so positive about.

We lived here nearly 10 years before we even saw a race and believe me, just watching the horses run without one holding your two dollar bet on his nose is no fun! But have that horse who holds your bet finish first is a special kind of thrill.

POP AND I aren't what you'd call racing fans. We generally manage to attend one day of racing a year, but with me it sure could become a habit as I sport a gambling streak a mile wide. Well, up to a two dollar bet a race, that is.

There is something especially fascinating just watching the crowd at a race track. Here you'll find the man with a diamond stick pin, or a flashing diamond ring with holes in his shoe soles desperately figuring the odds in a corner near the betting cages.

There is the woman heavy on the eye shadow and lipstick dressed in flashy clothes betting at the ten dollar window. And then there's just people like us.

All horses look alike to me—a head on one end and a tail on the other, so I'm a great one to trust my woman's intuition and bet on a name.

SOME PEOPLE will get hunches, and I try to get second sight by reading off the names slowly in each race to see if one strikes a bell in the hunch corner of my brain. For instance, a horse with one of the boys' names might get my bet and I thought I'd picked a sure winner when a horse called son no. 1 was running, but he came in fourth.

But with me, hunches don't really work and if I pick a horse because he's handsome or looks lively he'll probably end up last.

I have better luck by picking a jockey who seems to bring in a fair record of wins. If I stick to him he's bound to bring in a winner some time.

THERE'S SOMETHING exciting in the anticipation of waiting for the race to be run. Probably too quickly for all the intent people who, pencil in hand, figure all the odds from the various tip sheets in their laps. Some of these people never go out to actually watch their horse run. They bet and then busily start figuring the next race and spend the entire afternoon inside the grandstand.

With the words "They're off" I'm on my feet with the rest of the crowd urging my two dollar bet on.

My conservative nature asserts itself even with the money hot in my hand and I bet to "show" mostly because I figure I've three chances here and betting "to win" is rather a dangerous decision.

I'VE HEARD of gals who are really bitten by the betting bug and are out to the track everyday throwing away the house money. Compulsive gambling is the name of this disease and I'm told one addicted to this malady will beg, borrow or steal the money for a winner possibility.

This point I haven't reached, but I can understand and sympathize with this gambling urge. Where else do you find such color and excitement with every race bristling with the probabilities of this time you've picked a winner.

Pop can place his winnings in his pocket and walk away satisfied and richer by a few dollars. But not me — winning only sharpens my appetite for more, and I end up on the debit side at the day's end.

If you can chalk your loses up to a day of fun — not worry about the 18 dollars you so carelessly threw away — and never once think what you might have purchased with the money — you'll enjoy a day at the races.

Advice: Leave 'Doctoring' To Doctors

It's funny how people who wouldn't dream of acting as their own lawyers or plumbers often try to "doctor" themselves. By so doing, they're cheating themselves of a vast range of expert services a real physician can provide.

For example, your family doctor can give you an electrocardiogram to check the health of your heart, draw up a safe, sane diet that will keep the pounds off, prescribe drugs you can't get over the counter.

TINACTIN, for example, is a new fungicide that has produced excellent results against athlete's foot and other common ringworm infections, but it's available on prescription only.

The doctor's most important contribution may be peace of mind—the peace that comes with knowing that his services, backed by those of the local pharmacist, are based on expert, up-to-date knowledge, not amateur guesswork. (SF

Medicine Tip

If the label on your prescription medicine is on the outside of the bottle or vial, coat it with clear nail polish or transparent tape. The coating will keep the description and dosage from smudging. And remember, you should periodically clean out the medicine chest and dispose of old prescription drugs. They could be dangerous. (SF

Late Summer Auto Trip Can Be Fun for Family

With August a traditional vacation month, the time has come for the family to take its last trip of the summer before Labor Day. There are several ways to plan that trip to enjoy it to the utmost.

Whether it be to visit out-of-town relatives or a sightseeing trip to some intriguing attraction, here are some tips to help the children travel easily and happily, which makes mom's and dad's trip more pleasant, too.

A "WIGGLE platform" is good for small children. Stack suitcases on the floor up to the level of the back seat and cover both seat and suitcases with a quilt or small mattress.

Except for luggage that doubles as the "wiggle platform," the rest of the car should be kept clear. Sharp-cornered suitcases can cause injury if the car stops suddenly.

THERE ARE THREE steps in packing a suitcase to keep the contents neat and pressed.

Heavy items go on the bottom of the case, lighter-weight, more crushable ones, on top. Plastic bags around shoes keep them from sliding and smudging clothes.

When doubling garments over, do it along the lines of natural fold — at the hips, knees and waist. Cushion folds well with tissue paper.

Fill in with the flexibles. Items like swim suits and stockings can be rolled and shaped into holes and gullies to tighten up the case.

LAST BUT NOT least, the family should travel comfortably, and in the automobile that's easy.

Cottons — knits, stretches and specially-treated blends — are ideal for the whole family. Mother travels comfortably in a drip-dry shorts-blouse combination with a matching skirt she can slip on before she steps into a restaurant or motel. Her purse, plastic lined, doubles as a beach bag.

WINNERS OF THE Mixed Pairs Tournament sponsored by the Bensenville Duplicate Bridge Club July 27 were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hirsch of Arlington Heights. Fourteen tables competed. The group meets Tuesday evenings in St. Charles Borromeo Church with the second Tuesday being Master Point Night. (SSD

Indigestion, Name For Many Symptoms

Do you have to pay for a delicious meal with the distress of heartburn, stomach cramps or an uncomfortable bloated feeling?

If so, you belong to an undistinguished club of millions who suffer that complex problem known as "indegestion."

Just what is indigestion?

MEDICALLY SPEAKING, indigestion has no precise meaning. It's merely a catch-all phrase used to label the unfortunate consequences of eating too much or too fast, drinking to excess or allowing your emotions to get the best of you.

Some of the more unfortunate consequences we so quickly pass off as symptons are the following:

A bloated, puffed- up feeling may occur when your stomach's digestive activity slows down. You probably associate this feeling with gas, but usually it's caused by air swallowed with food, or by rich fatty foods (40 per cent of the American diet) that take longer to digest than proteins or carbohydrates.

Contrary to popular belief, alkalies such as sodium bicarbonate won't relieve this puffed-up feeling. In fact, alkalies really produce more gas, thus adding to your discomfort.

HEARTBURN— which actually has nothing to do with the heart—is a burning sensation that occurs when your stomach works too fast. The result? Excessive digestive juices or food back up, stretching and irritating the lining of the esophagus, a tube which leads from the mouth into the stomach.

Cramps or knots are also caused by an overactive stomach. When your stomach churns too hard, its muscles may contract resulting in cramps. Cramps may also occur from excess digestive juices which cause irritation.

A sour taste may be caused by a food or stomach juice that travels back into the throat or mouth. But usually bad taste is not a symptom of indigestion, but a condition caused by bad teeth or infection in the throat, nose or sinuses.

If these symptoms trouble you only on occasion and pass quickly, they can be legitimate signs of indigestion.

But if one of them brings you frequent of severe discomfort, you'd better have a physical checkup. It could indicate any one of a number of serious conditions such as heart ailment, food allergy, ulcers and gallstones—or a serious and fatal disease. (SF

Annual Checkup

Every woman over 20 should have an annual checkup that includes a Pap test. A recent study by a Canadian doctor covering a period of six years shows its value. The test uncovered 15 cases of cervical cancer in 723 patients undergoing examination. Thirteen of the cases were minor and easily treated. Two were pervasive, but even of these, one was satisfactorily treated. (SF

Fashion Is On Leg 'Kick'

Fashion — especially young fashion—is on a leg "kick." So are most gals who want it known that they are on their toes.

Stepping in to bridge the gap between high hemlines and low-heeled shoes are patterned stockings in bolder colors and designs than ever before.

FLORAL, paisley and houndstooth prints, argyles and even abstract geometric designs in sturdy stretch fabrics are all in good fashion standing. So are lacy printed sheers and open crochet-type knits. (SF

Households On Increase

The number of households expected by 1975 will be about 25 per cent greater than in 1964, projecting a 130 per cent potential increase in consumer dollars for home furnishings, as incomes rise. Discretionary income will grow to 66 per cent of all disposable dollars, after taxes.

We should add $220 billion to the sale of goods and services in the next decade—adding to our standard of living nearly one and a half times as much as the entire growth of consumption in the 320 years between the Pilgrims' landing and the best pre-war year, 1940. (SF

Furniture Rental Is New Trend

The American way of life is changing. Furniture rental trend, new now, will be a major influence for families on the move. People will lease their furniture, and take along lamps, books, art and "personal things" when they move.

There will be a sizable increase in second homes — "weekend retreats."

Sophisticated women will put use and present enjoyment ahead of ownership. They will buy on the basis of style, rather than durability.

Authentic Italian Dishes Her Specialty

A ROLLED ROUND STEAK prepared by an old family recipe is one of Mrs. Orazio Grasso's favorite dinners. She makes this tempting Italian meal by rolling up a round steak with several savory ingredients and baking it for an hour. It is excellent to serve with lasagne.

Excellent Italian dishes are the specialty of the house at 901 Beverly Drive, Wheeling. Here Mrs. Orazio Grasso prepares such tempting fare as spaghetti with Sauce a la Carbonera, Cannoli (an elegant dessert) and appealing Italian stuffed rolled round steak.

All of these recipes are authentically Italian and one of them, the Rolled Round Steak, has been in Mrs. Grasso's family for several generations.

"My grandmother often made this dish," said Mrs. Grasso, "and it has the convenient feature that it can be prepared the night before."

A large, thinly sliced round steak is used for this recipe. It is covered with such ingredients as sliced hard boiled eggs, finely chopped celery, diced Genoa salami, ham, bacon and slivers of cheese. Rosemary and basil are used as seasonings.

ROLLED UP and tied with string, it is browned in a hot oven and then baked slowly for one hour.

While roasting, the juices from the meat and stuffing make a delicious sauce. This is poured over the sliced roast when served.

Mrs. Grasso recommends serving this savory meat with baked lasagne.

Another favorite dish in the Grasso household is spaghetti with Sauce a la Carbonera which Mrs. Grasso serves as an accompaniment for broiled steak or lamb chops.

"IT IS A misconception that Italians smother their spaghetti with sauce," Mrs. Grasso said, "nor do they always use tomato sauces. It is an American custom to serve lots of sauce."

Her husband, who came to the United States in 1959, prefers spaghetti sauce without tomatoes, and thus Mrs. Grasso's souce a la carbonera is a favorite of his.

"A friend of my sister's who was visiting from Milan introduced her to this recipe," Mary Ellen Grasso commented. "Although our family is large and scattered about the country, we are nonetheless very close and often exchange recipes."

"This type of sauce, which omits tomatoes, is indigenous to northern Italy," she explained.

THE SAUCE a la Carbonera consists of crisply fried bacon and onion simmered in wine and water.

Eggs are added to hot cooked spaghetti, then the sauce and cheese are blended in.

"Any leftovers can easily be reheated," Mrs. Grasso said, "and will taste the same with no loss in flavor."

The Cannoli recipe, which Mrs. Grasso also acquired from her sister, is an elegant company dessert.

The batter for the cannoli shells consists of only four ingredients: flour, sugar, cinnamon and wine.

"THE WINE flavor is not distinguishable, but it does give the cannoli a different flavor," Mrs. Grasso said.

Kneaded together until smooth and stiff, the dough is refrigerated and then rolled out to paper thinness and cut into squares.

The squares in turn are rolled loosely around a cylinder of brown paper or wood (pieces of old broom handles work beautifully) and fried quickly in hot fat. Good cannoli shells should have a blistered surface.

"Any uncooked dough will keep in the refrigerator for three days," commented Mrs. Grasso, "and the fried shells will keep at least six weeks in a covered container."

FOR THE filling a mixture of ricotta cheese and sugar are beaten together until creamy and divided in two. Half of this mixture is flavored with chopped citron and cinnamon, the other with melted chocolate and chocolate bits.

Half of each cannoli shell is filled with the citron mixture, the other half with the chocolate, and the ends are dipped in chopped nuts. Confectioner's sugar is sprinkled lightly on top.

This is an exceptionally delicious and unusual dessert which makes a grand finale for a lasagne dinner.

IN ADDITION to preparing appealing Italian dishes, Mrs. Grasso often makes her own bread and rolls and also enjoys sewing. She finds time to continue these interests along with pursuing a career as an English teacher at Arlington High School, managing a home and caring for the Grasso's young son, Stephen, two years old.

ROLLED ROUND STEAK

2 hard boiled eggs, sliced
¼ cup celery, chopped very fine with green leaves
2 slices Genoa salami, diced
¼ cup diced ham (optional)
2 strips bacon, cut into very small squares
Slivers of Romano or Parmesan cheese
½ teaspoon rosemary
½ teaspoon basil
Salt and pepper

Lay the round steak on a board. Cover it with the remaining ingredients. Roll up like a jelly roll. Tie both the length and width firmly with string.

Place in a roasting pan and brown quickly on both sides in a 450 degree oven. Add ½ cup water, cover tightly and return to oven. Cook slowly at 300 degrees for one hour. Do not remove until done.

Untie roast and cut into slices 1½ inches thick. Pour juice from pan over the sliced roast. Serve with baked lasagne. Serves 4 to 5.

SAUCE A LA CARBONERA

1 pound bacon, cut into small squares
3 or 4 green onions, sliced
1 cup Italian red wine
½ cup water
1 pound spaghetti
1 or 2 eggs
½ cup grated Romano cheese

Fry bacon until almost crisp. Drain off most of the grease, leaving about ¼ inch in the pan. Add green onions and cook until bacon is crisp.

Add the wine and water. Cover and let simmer about 15 minutes until it becomes a thick, rich red sauce.

Cook spaghetti and drain. Return to kettle; add eggs and stir. The heat from the spaghetti will cook the eggs. it may be necessary to heat spaghetti slightly to cook the eggs.

Pour sauce over spaghetti; add cheese. Blend with a fork so as not to break spaghetti. Additional grated cheese may be sprinkled on top. Serves 4.

CANNOLI

Shells:

4 cups all-purpose flour, sifted
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¾ cup Italian red wine

In a large bowl, mix together the flour, sugar and cinnamon. Make a well and pour into it the wine. Knead ingredients together until dough is smooth and stiff, about 15 minutes. Adjust dough; if too sticky, add more flour. If too dry, add more wine. Cover and refrigerate for two hours.

Have ready unvarnished pieces of broom handle cut in six-inch pieces or heavy brown paper which has been cut into squares and rolled into cylinders 6 inches long and 1 inch in diameter.

Remove a small amount of dough from the refrigerator at a time nd roll to paper thinness on lightly-floured board. Cut into 4½-inch squares. Roll dough loosely on cylinders diagonally, starting with a corner. Seal corners with beaten egg yolk. (One egg is sufficient.)

Fry in hot fat 4 to 5 inches deep. When frying, put sealed end down in fat first. Fry on both sides until brown. Remove with tongs and drain on paper towel until a little cool. Slide out stick or rolled paper. Remove gently. Makes 24 shells. Unworked dough will stay in refrigerator for three days.

Filling:

3 pounds Ricotta cheese
1¾ cups sifted confectioner's sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons chopped citron or chopped candied fruit
½ bar semi-sweet chocolate, melted
½ cup miniature semi-sweet chocolate bits
Nuts, ground fine
Confectioner's sugar

Prepare the filling ahead and refrigerate it.

Beat the Ricotta and confectioner's sugar together about 5 minutes. Divide in half. To one half add the cinnamon and chopped citron or candied fruit. To the other half add the melted chocolate and chocolate bits.

Just before serving, fill half of the cannoli shells with citron filling, the other half with chocolate. On the open ends sprinkle the finely ground nuts. Sift confectioner's sugar over cannoli very lightly. Serve filled cannoli shells immediately; eat with hands. This filling is ample for 24 cannoli. (SH

Miss Strobridge's parents, the James Strobridges, have announced their engagement and approaching marriage, which takes place in Los Altos.

Miss Strobridge attended Colorado Woman's College in Denver and was graduated from San Jose State College in California where she was affiliated with Chi Omega Sorority. She is now a stewardess for United Air Lines, based in Chicago.

Her fiance was graduated from Arlington High School, attended the University of Wisconsin and is now taking evening classes at Northwestern University while working for Plaza Excavating Contractors, Arlington Heights.

Keep Plenty Of Ashtrays

If there are smokers in your house, you should have plenty of ashtrays, and large ones, too, in every room.

And, ashtrays should be emptied regularly before they become too full.

One out of every four fires in the United States is caused by matches and smoking, according to the Engineering-Safety Department of the American Insurance Association.

PLANNING BOUQUETS for the Arlington Heights AAUW branch's prospective member tea Thursday, Aug. 26, Mrs. Charles Aldag and Mrs. Clayton Sivertson admire large hibiscus blooms at the Aldag home. Mrs. Sivertson is chairman of the tea, which will take place at the Aldag residence at 409 S. Yale, Arlington Heights.

AAUW Gathering Spoons for Tea

Topping Mrs. Lewis Sivertson's reminder list these days is "125 silver spoons."

The spoons aren't for a wedding gift but rather are being borrowed from AAUW members for the prospective member tea which the Arlington Heights branch will give on Thursday, Aug. 26.

Some 90 invitations have already gone out to area residents whom the branch hopes will become members of the American Association of University Women. Any interested woman may make arrangements to attend by calling Mrs. Beaver Waring, 392-3599.

MRS. SIVERTSON is chairman of the tea, which will take place from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Charles Aldag, 409 S. Yale, Arlington Heights. Mrs. Aldag is vice president of the branch.

Assisting Mrs. Sivertson with refreshments are Mrs. William Dillon and Mrs. Fred Carl, both of Mount Prospect.

The invitations chairman, Mrs. J. L. Andrew of Arlington Heights, is being assisted by Mrs. Lewis Rossen and Mrs. Charles Fetterolf, also of Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Waring and Mrs. William Joy, both of Mount Prospect.

A second item on Mrs. Sivertson's list reads "call the weatherman." The AAUW members are hoping for clear weather the evening of the tea, for they'd like to use the Aldags' gas-lit patio as well as indoor rooms. This week the prospects of clear weather seemed quite good. (S

Groom's Father Officiates At Denzin-Jones Nuptials

In a ceremony performed jointly by his father, Dr. William T. Jones, pastor of Southminster United Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights, and Rev. David G. Sterzer of First Methodist Church in Sheboygan Falls, Wis., William Harvey Jones, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jones, took as his bride, Miss Nancy Grace Denzin, daughter of the Arthur W. Denzins of Sheboygan Falls. The service took place in a candlelit setting at 4 p.m.

"Aria in F Major" was sung by Miss Julie Schueffner and Mrs. James Radke, a college friend of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer." "The Trumpet Voluntary" was used for the processional, and "Psalm 19" by Marcello was played for the recessional.

Altar decorations were white bouquets of shasta daisies and gladioli and candelabra trimmed with white satin bows and filicifolia foliage. White satin bows also trimmed the pews for the parents.

THE BRIDE chose a chapel gown of silk organza over taffeta fashioned in an empire princess line. The bodice featured a shallow scooped neckline and continental sleeves, and a jeweled band enhanced the empire waist. The watteau train was topped with a self-fabric rose. Her headpiece was an organza disc of petals trimmed with clusters of tiny seed pearls attached to a 2-tier silk illusion veil. Natural ivy streamers attached to a cascade of stephanotis florets centered with gardenias made up her bridal bouquet.

Mr. Benzin gave his daughter in marriage.

Mrs. Irving H. Johnson of Waukesha, Wis. was her sister's matron of honor and bridesmaid was Mrs. Robert Vaupell, a college friend, also of Waukesha. The attendants' floor-length gowns were of white lace and ice blue crepe, fashioned sheath style. The empire bodices were made with elbow-length sleeves, shallow scoop necklines of the lace over the ice blue, with bow and streamers in back. A self-fabric flower headpiece with circular veil to match the dress color and cascades of shasta daisies and yellow roses with ivy streamers and white satin bows completed their ensembles.

CHARLES BARNES of Addison was best man to the groom and groomsmen were David Donaldson of Arlington Heights, Richard Schuette of Elmhurst and John Hoffman of Chicago.

After the reception, held in Gene's Sky Garden Restaurant in Sheboygan, Mr. Jones took his bride on a week's honeymoon trip in Northern Wisconsin. Since July 26 the couple has been residing at 230 W. Division St. in Villa Park, where the bride will be teaching third grade this September in the Iowa School.

The bride is a '65 graduate of Carroll College in Waukesha. The bridegroom was graduated from York High School in 1960 and Carroll College in 1964. He is now a trainee in psychiatric social work at Elgin State Hospital. (S

Back to School Show Thursday At Wieboldt's

Believe it or not, school starts in two and a half weeks. That means it's time to start building that '65-'66 school wardrobe. But what's "in," and what's "out"? The Junior Fashion Board of Wieboldt's Randhurst store will answer these questions Thursday, Aug. 19, at 7:30 in this year's "Back-to-School" fashion show.

The fashion show will be narrated by Miss Nancy Tucker, fashion counselor for the board. Styles range from the traditional sweater and skirt coordinates to the popular new English imports.

Nkne of the models for this year's board come from high school district 214. These girls are Cathy McNamara and Paula Schomburg of Arlington; Barbara McKewen and Celia O'Rourke of Forest View; Merri Heurlin of Prospect; and Debby Ciccione, Pat Gaudion, Judy Quinn and Gail Spike of Wheeling. (S

Ellen Davis Is Bethel's Honor Guest

Special guest in the East at the Aug. 11 meeting of Bethel 103, Job's Daughters, Arlington Heights, was Miss Ellen Davis, a past Junior Princess of Bethel 103. Miss Davis is a former resident of Arlington Heights and now resides in Glenwood Springs, Colo.

While visiting in the area, Miss Davis also attended the graduation of her sister, Barbara, from the School of Nursing at Illinois Masonic Hospital. Barbara is a past honored queen of Bethel 103.

Sunday, members of the Bethel and their families gathered at Cedar Lake for a picnic, and Tuesday evening, several members of the Bethel presented a song and dance number, "By the Sea," during the Jamboree at the Supreme Session of the International Order of Job's Daughters being held in Chicago this week. Organist for the skit was Olav Larsen of Arlington Heights, a past associate guardian of the Bethel.

MISS MARVA Jean Huizenga 442 S. Dryden, Arlington Heights, Honored Queen of Bethel 103, announced that Wednesday, Aug. 25, will be Friends' Night, with Miss Linda Hawkins, 721 S. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, as the guest Honored Queen.

There will be a camping trip at Timberlake Park for the members of Bethel 103, Aug. 27, 28 and 29. (S

Church Coffee

The Catholic Women's Club of St. Raymond's Church, Mount Prospect, will hold a Newcomers' Coffee Thursday, Aug. 19. To be held at 8:30 p.m., the coffee will be held in the Mount Prospect home of Mrs. P. E. Leone, 902 S. Waverly.

Those wishing further information about the club or the coffee may call 437-5489. (S

Bargain Mart

PEO Rummage Sale to Help Send Area Girl to College

Arlington Heights

A collection of outgrown clothing and an array of items no longer useful to the donors may make possible the beginning of a college education for some area girl. The hundreds of items gathered by Chapter ER of the PEO Sisterhood will all be for sale Friday, Sept. 3, and Saturday, Sept. 4, when the chapter sponsors its annual rummage sale.

Set for 6 to 9 p.m. Friday, and 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, the sale will be held in Arlington Market Shopping Center in the former Schneller Furniture Store at 22 S. Dryden.

Furniture, bric-a-brac, good used clothing, kitchen items, toys, a complete selection of "boutique" items, as well as new merchandise, hardware items, household goods and garden supplies will be available.

The group, which has held this affair for more then 10 years, has found that it has proven a profitable way in which it can contribute to the national projects of the PEO Sisterhood as well as to local projects. The support of Cottey Junior College, Illinois State Scholarships, loans for education and International Peace Scholarships are some of the major areas to which this local chapter contributes the profits from its rummage sale.

Arlington Heights

Household items, toys and wearing apparel are some of the items to be featured Friday, Aug. 20, in St. Peter Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, when the Dorcas Aid sponsors a rummage sale in the cafeteria of the St. Peter School. Hours of the sale are 5 p.m. to 9 p.m.

"Come early and take advantage of the many bargains" encourages the chairman, Mrs. Floyd Burns, who invites the public to the sale.

Addison

From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 28, Westview Women's Guild will hold its first rummage sale. The sale will be held in the Addison Municipal Building. (S

Alexian Ball Invitations Are in Mails

Invitations are in the mail this week for the Alexian Brothers Hospital Auxiliary's Third Annual Ball, to be held this year at Itasca Country Club on Saturday evening, Oct. 9. The dinner dance will start with a social hour at 6:30, followed by a seated dinner, featuring prime ribs of beef. Dancing to Chuck Cavallo's Orchestra will complete the evening. The presentation of the Hawaiian Holiday will take place during the evening.

"As there are a limited number of reservations available, it is important for all reservations to be returned as quickly as possible," commented the chairman, Mrs. Edward Lewis. Tables are for 10 but reservations will be accepted for 2, 4, 6, 8 or 10, No tickets will be sold at the door. Reservation information may be had by calling Mrs. Robert Fleming at 437-0134. (S

Use of Lighting

Light just to read and eat by is a thing of the past. Lighting today also decorates, sets a mood and brings out a room's best features.

Modern lighting, for example, can greatly enhance the beauty of traditional styling.

Garage, Good Spot For Canned Goods

No space for canned goods in the kitchen? If the garage is close by, why not build canned goods cupboards there?

An unfinished interior garage wall is especially ideal for the job because you can work with the exposed studs for your cabinet supports. Keep the cabinets shallow—no more than the depth of three No. 2 cans.

BE SURE to vary shelf spacing to allow for tall bottles and cans of shortening, as well as for standard size fruit and vegetable cans.

If the garage adjoins the house, try to locate the cupboards on the joining inside wall for the sake of insulation. If that's not possible, use one-inch thick ponderosa pine boards for cabinet backs as well as for shelving and doors.

You can use ordinary pine boards for the backs and shelves. For doors, use tongue-and-groove stock, held by a Z brace. (S

Need Stenos

Every year more women get jobs on either a full or part-time basis. The current demand for well-trained secretaries will continue with business growth. Those who can take shorthand as well as type have the best chance of quick employment.

Job-Hunting

Job-hunting is something of an art. Before you begin, it pays to evaluate your experience and skills realistically and plan your approach carefully.

Hairdressers Plan Fall Fashion Show

Their fall hair fashion show, "Yesterday's Memories," depicting hair fashions down through the decades, will be one of the topics on the agenda of area hairdressers when they meet Wednesday, Sept. 1. The group, Affiliate 47 of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, will be meeting at 8 p.m. in the Cow Palace in Palatine. The Affiliate will present "Yesterday's Memories" in October at the Sheraton-O'Hare, and tickets are now available in all affiliated salons.

The program for the meeting will be presented by the style body, members of which will demonstrate the new fall coiffures, "The Lively Curl Look."

Barbara Brown Sews Her Own Gown for July 10th Wedding

Wearing a gown of French silk broque made by herself, Miss Barbara Charlene Brown, daughter of the James Herman Browns, 1346 Kensington Road, Arlington Heights, became the bride of Charles Leroy Pine, son of Mrs. Emma Silotti of Terre Haute, Ind. Styled by Vogue, the floor-length dress featured a runner train and veil. The veil, also made by the bride, was held in place with a pearl and crystal latticed crown. Her bouquet was of carnations and stephanotis.

The double ring wedding ceremony took place at 3:30 p.m. July 10, in St. Peter Lutheran Church in Arlington Heights. Rev. Bartz officiated and Mr. Brown gave his daughter in marriage.

THE BRIDE'S attendants included her two sisters, Kathleen M. Brown as maid of honor, and Lynn K. Brown as one of the bridesmaids. Other bridesmaids were Judy Dugan and Carol Rago of Chicago and Dianne Biela of Mount Prospect. The maids' floor-length gowns were of soft pink linen fashioned with high straight necklines, sleeveless, and with fitted straight skirts with a bow and rose in the center back. Their flowers were of white daisies and ferns with pink highlights.

Also in the wedding party were 6-year-old Patsy McKean of Terre Haute as flower girl and 5-year-old Gary McKean of Terre Haute as ring bearer. Patsy wore a white satin formal with pink waistband and carried a hand bouquet of mums and carnations. A white straw hat completed her ensemble. Gary wore a specially made tux with white coat and black trousers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Brown chose a creamy tan lace gown with matching hat and a corsage of carnations and roses. A pink lace gown and corsage of carnations and roses was the choice of the groom's mother.

SERVING THE groom as best man was Ronald Setina of the Glenview Naval Air Base. Ushers were Donald Koran, also of the Naval Base, Larry James and John Knots of Terre Haute and George Herter of Skokie.

Carpenter's Hall in Des Plaines was the scene of the dinner reception where 150 guests greeted the newlyweds.

Mr. Pine, who is also stationed at the Glenview Naval Air Base, took his bride on a 4-day honeymoon to the Wisconsin Dells and in late August the couple will spend a week in the Ozarks. They are now at home at 3124 Anchorage, Glenview Naval Air Base.

The new Mrs. Pine, a design and home economics major, will be completing her final semester at Northern Illinois University. For the summer she is employed by Jewel Food in Des Plaines. Her bridegroom, a physical education major, attended Indiana University and is now attending classes at the Northwestern Night Division.

Arlington Couple Wed In St. James Church

St. James Church in Arlington Heights was the setting for a local couple's wedding on July 10. The former Judith Fahlbusch, daughter of the W. Fahlbusches, 501 N. Wilshire Lane, became the bride of Albert S. Worrell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Jarrett of 1314 Euclid.

Rev. R. Hinterberger united the couple in double ring rites at 10:30 a.m. before an altar decked with white glads and pink mums. Later a luncheon was served for 85 guests at Arlington Carousel.

A NOSEGAY of white cushion mums was carried by the bride for her wedding. She wore an organza dress, empire styled with a bell skirt which ended in a chapel train. Lace bow accents trimmed the front of the gown, and an organza rose detailed with seed pearls held her triple veil of silk illusion in place.

Her attendants also carried nosegays, theirs of pink cushion mums to match their pink dresses and headpieces. The girls' dresses were fashioned with an empire bodice of pink chiffon and a sheath floor-length skirt in a rose shade. Their pink headpieces were styled in a petal-type crown with pearl trim.

MAID OF HONOR was Donna Miller of Mount Prospect and two bridesmaids were Patty Wilson, also of Mount Prospect, and Kathie Mros, a cousin of the bride, who came from New Jersey for the wedding.

Their escorts were the bride's brother, Richard Fahlbusch, as best man, and Tom Lilleberg of Mount Prospect and Camille Van Durme of Wheeling who were ushers.

FOR HER daughter's wedding, Mrs. Fahlbusch wore a bone colored lace suit with matching accessories and had a corsage of orange roses. Mrs. Jarrett wore a blue lace suit and had a corsage of yellow tearoses.

The newlyweds are both Prospect High School graduates. The groom also attended Carroll College and then IIT in Chicago and is now employed by Martin Metals in Wheeling. (S

'Relaxing' Is Key To Home Vacation

There are two basic musts for home vacations: a complete change of routine and a temporary respite from responsibility.

There are all sorts of ways to change your routine. First, vary your eating habits. Have a late brunch and an early gourmet supper. Or, enjoy a meal a day at a restaurant and have fun discovering a different place each day.

TAKE UP something entirely new during your vacation. Learn how to play tennis or golf or begin studying French.

And, you'll have all the time in the world for that nearby summer theater, outdoor concerts and sporting events that you ordinarily just read about in the newspaper.

TO LIGHTEN your responsibilities, hire temporary help to cook, clean, baby-sit and cut the grass. Export the small-fry to kind grandparents or make reciprocal agreements with good friends.

If you're really brave, you won't even answer the telephone! (S

Divorce—Nation's Disgrace

The game is called "Let's Pretend."

The rules are different in each of the 50 states in the union. Only the prize is the same — if you win you get a divorce American style.

In a recent magazine article titled "Divorce American Style" the author points out the sham and hypocrisy of our varied divorce laws.

New York is considered "tough" — adultery has to be proven. In New Mexico it's "easy" — mere incompatibility is reason enough to dissolve a marriage.

GROUNDS FOR divorce are arbitrary. The author states that our divorce problem is a national disgrace, and quotes one despairing judge as saying, "It's a horrible mess." The author cites New York Supreme Court Justice Henry Clay Greenberg, who estimates that at least 75 per cent of all New York divorce actions involve collusion to obtain "proof."

"This courtroom of the absurd wants its characters right out of central casting. To create the impression of opposition, thousands of couples must resort to collusion, perjury and hypocisy — frequently, an uncontested divorce takes just a few minutes in court," the article stated.

"LEGEND HAS IT that when divorces are difficult to get, the rich go to Reno, the middle class to Mexico, and the poor, God bless 'em, to the welfare department."

An absolute divorce is probably the most serious step that one can take, yet as the author points out, "the ground rules should have gone out with the Graf Zeppelin."

Anti-Prowlers

Discourage the neighborhood prowler who loves dark mysterious nights. Mount a gaslight on either side of the front door and marching gaslights up the front walks and dark winding driveways.

Don't Make 'Wrong Move' When Occupying New Home

If you are soon to move into a new house—and particularly if it's your admission into the fraternity of home owners—don't spoil the happiness of the occation by being the victim of a "wrong move."

Problems connected with a move are not normal to daily living. Nonetheless they can and do arise. And frequently they are due to a lack of understanding.

TO HELP YOU avoid the pitfalls of mving, to avoid disappointment and misunderstanding, and to help keep the cost of moving down, here are precautions and suggestions:

Understand that an estimate is not a firm bid. Don't be misled by a "low bid." An estimate has no bearing on the computation of the final charges. Rates for local moves are based on time and mileage. Long-distance moves are computed on the basis of mileage and weight.

You can assist the moving company salesman arrive at an accurate estimated weight by calling attention to the contents of closets, attics, basements and garages. You fool only yourself when you try to hide something from the estimator. You pay for what you move, not for wnat you said you were going to move.

KNOW THE EXTENT of the mover's liability. The mover's liability is usually limited and varies by company. In any event, you may purchase comprehensive protection from the mover. This serves to extend the limit of the mover's liability to the full valuation of your goods.

Get rid of things you won't need in your new home. This is a good time to take inventory of what you have. Discard, give away or sell any items you won't be using in your new home. This will help to reduce the weight of your shipment, and the cost as well.

Don't pack things you aren't qualified to pack. Packing services are extra, but for dishes, china, glassware and other breakables, the cost is worth it. If you choose to pack these things yourself, the mover cannot be responsible for breakage. Grocery cartons are not as sturdy as the china boxes used by professional movers. The cushioning materials the movers use are superior to anything you may have on hand.

DISMANTLE, disconnect and remove articles attached to your roperty. This includes television antennas, hi-fi and stereo sets, window fans and air conditioners, curtain and drapery fixtures, wall clocks, etc.

Do what you can to expedite the move. Any you do to expedite the loading or unloading of your furniture on a local move will help reduce the price.

Provide the movers clear access to your house or apartment. Clear obstacles out of their way, and keep children and pets away.

Know where you want your furniture placed in your new home. Don't be trying to make up your mind when the movers walk in with the sofa. Draw up a room floor plan in advance, and follow it on M-Day. (S

Plan Well If Child Is Traveling Alone

Traveling with children can seem as complex as moving an army, but even more careful "strategy" is required when you arrange for a child to travel along.

Here are some of the things you will need to consider:

HAS IT BEEN verified that the child is expected at his destination and is there a plan for a relative or friend to meet him when he arrives? Travelers Aid can arrange through a sister Travelers Aid for a child to be safeguarded when he arrives so that he will not be alone and frightened in a strange place.

Does the child have to make a change on his journey? Might this also mean going from one station to another? Travelers Aid can arrange for the child to be met and supervised during this change through its chain of services.

WILL THE child know what to do if there is some change or something comes up on the trip that was not anticipated? The Travelers Aid worker will help prepare him for this, too.

The decisions about the trip are best made through the participation of the family (including th child), the Travelers Aid worker and the transportation company which assumes the responsibility and risk for the child traveling alone during the time he is on the train, bus or plane.

In Case Of Fire

At home—

Quickly get everybody out of the house.

Call the fire department immediately. (Be sure everyone in your family knows how to call the fire department.)

AT PUBLIC gatherings—

Walk, do not run, to the nearest exit. Call the fire department immediately. Keep calm.

Place for Gum

Chewing gum has its place—or so we're assured by both tots and teens. But its place isn't in the water. Swimmers and tiny waders shouldn't chew gum while in the water. A sudden gasp can lodge the gum so deep in the larynx that those administering first aid can't reach it, even if they know it's there. (SF

Summer Comfort

For summer comfort inside the house, never set a masonry terrace directly against house walls where it will hold heat against the house and reflect it through windows.

If an attached terrace is desirable, use wood, which does not conduct heat.

Shade Screen

A simple shade screen of 2-inch slats spaced one inch apart and set on a lightweight frame of 2x4s and 4x4s makes an ideal garden rest area for summer time. Any lumber like Douglas fir will do the job. SF

Rev. Harold Thompson of Loyola University, a former teacher of the groom, performed the ceremony, and later the bride's parents hosted a dinner for 100 guests at Poppe's Alpine House, followed by open house at their home. For her wedding the bride wore a silk ensemble of light gold and carried yellow and white tea roses. The new Mrs. Schroeder attended the University of Wisconsin and University of Grenoble, France. The groom attended the University of Chicago and recently returned from a European trip.

Beam Lighting

If building an open beamed ceiling for a family room-kitchen, plan to include luminous ceiling light panels between beams and positioned directly over kitchen work areas and reading corners in the family room.

Alternating luminous panels with exposed western wood ceiling deck is most effective and practical. (S

Jayceettes Will Host Salad Supper

Patio torches and candle centerpieces will be among the decorations Monday, Aug. 23, when Elk Grove Village Jayceettes host a salad supper for prospective members. The supper will be held at the home of the group's president, Mrs. Nancy Land.

Speaker at the affair will be Walter Matthey, manager of the meat department of Jewel Food Store, who will demonstrate cuts of meats and discuss their preparation.

Special guest at the supper will be Mrs. Ida Pietsch of the Bensenville Home, adopted grandmother of the Jayceettes.

Set Home Sewn Fashion Show For Family Fair

The second annual fashion show sponsored by St. Joseph the Worker Catholic Women's Club, Wheeling, will be held this year in conjunction with the Wheeling Family Fair, Sept. 4, 5 and 6.

The show will again feature clothes made by women in the Wheeling vicinity, either for themselves or their children. Applicants will be modeling their own creations with a panel of judges awarding ribbons to the best entries.

Area residents wishing to enter sewing or knitting accomplishments may call Mrs. John Bock, 537-1959. (S

Cantaloupes Need High Heat to Ripen

Cantaloupes love high heat, becoming their honey sweet best when the mercury runs up around 110 degrees Fahrenheit. That's why an average of 71 per cent of the nation's cantaloupes are grown in California and Arizona.

For top quality, cantaloupes must remain on the vine until they have developed sweetness and can be picked with only the slightest pressure. A cantaloupe is firm ripe at this stage, as evidenced by the clean stem scar which remains. These are the melons which must travel several thousand miles to reach the consumer. As might be expected, cantaloupes which will be used in less distant markets can be somewhat more nearly soft ripe.

Do remember to buy your cantaloupes about three days ahead of use. Keep them at room temperature for several days to develop juiciness. Then refrigerate until needed. The fragrance of cantaloupes is most delightful if they are pleasantly cool, rather than cold, when served.

ALTHOUGH HALF A medium-sized cantaloupe has a mere 37 calories, this luscious fruit is a source of many important nutrients, particularly rich in vitamin A.

Most cantaloupe halves or wedges are spooned out of their shells and eaten "as is," but here is a good cantaloupe-plus combination for summer meals.

FRESH MINTED CANTALOUPE MEDLEY

¾ cup water
2 tablespoons fresh lime juice
1 teaspoon chopped fresh mint
½ teaspoon anise seed
1/16 teaspoon salt
5 cups fresh cantaloupe slices
4 cups fresh peach slices
2 cups fresh blueberries

Combine sugar, water, lime juice, chopped mint, anise seed and set in a small saucepan. Bring to boiling point and boil 2 minutes. Cover and steep 10 minutes. Cool and chill. Place fruit in a bowl and strain syrup over fruit to remove anise seed. Cover. Chill for 2 or more hours or until ready to serve the same day. Yield: 10 servings.

Drink for Young Set

Here's a tasty breakfast drink for the young set to have with their morning cereal.

DELUXE NOG

1 T. orange-flavored instant breakfast drink
1 c. cold milk
1 egg
Ground nutmeg (optional)

Combine instant breakfast drink, milk and egg. Beat with rotary beater or in an electric blender until well blended. Pour into 1 large glass or 2 small glasses. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Makes about 1¼ cups or 1 large or 2 small servings. (SH

Favorite Sweet

Ice Cream and other frozen dairy foods are "America's favorite desserts." Consumption of these treats climbed to a new high of 20.6 quarts per person last year.

Spaghetti Hot Dish Easy, Economical

Supper outside, on the porch or wheeled on a cart into the yard, gathers a group in a hurry.

A hot, colorful casserole of spaghetti and meat balls topped with melted cheese and crisp bacon curls is a perfect summer dish. Easy on the hostess, too, for the canned spaghetti and meat balls, in a family size can, just needs to be heated to be enjoyed.

With such a dish, a bowl of crisp mixed greens and little bowls of vegetable additions. Let each guest choose what he wants to add to his mixed greens salad. Have a bowl of dressing handy so he can top his salad to his taste.

TOASTED ROLL halves, iced tea and for dessert, a compote of summer fruits and angel food cake makes a delicious menu for a buffet supper under a summer sky.

SUMMER CASSEROLE

2 (2 lb. 8 oz.) canned spaghetti and meat balls
1 (6 oz.) can mushroom slices
8 slices bacon
4 slices American cheese

Preheat oven 375 degrees F. Open cans of spaghetti and meat balls. Put into 10" x 10" baking dish. Drain mushroom slices. Add to spaghetti and mix gently. Fry bacon partially. Roll over tines of fork. Drain on paper toweling. Cut cheese slices in half.

Bake spaghetti and meat balls for 20 minutes. Remove from oven. Arrange cheese slices and bacon curls on top. Bake for 10 minutes longer. Makes 8 servings. (SH

Lamb with Ham

Yes, you can team lamb with ham for kabobs, using equal amounts of each. Other go-with foods include cooked or canned sweet potatoes cut in pieces, pineapple chunks, green pepper squares and spiced crabapples or pears.

Meat Cookery Terms Defined

It's not only called roasting when meat is cooked in a pan in the oven, but also when meat is cooked on a rotisserie in the oven or over coals or other heat.

Both are dry heat methods and are thus properly referred to as roasting.

Grilling is a term which means broiling, another dry heat method reserved for the tender cuts of meat or for those meats made tender (by grinding, chopping, etc.) or meats already cooked like frankfurters, canned luncheon meats or fully-cooked ham.

All Need Milk

Dairy foods supply more than three-fourths of the nation's calcium needs. It is difficult for the human body to obtain the recommended quantity of calcium unless dairy foods are regularly included in the diets of persons of all ages.

Low in Calories

Cottage cheese is a tasty, low calorie, nutritious dairy food. Average U.S. consumption of this product is close to five pounds per person. A record high.

Milk Drinkers

Finland is the world's leading milk drinking nation, consuming fluid milk and cream at the rate of about 280 quarts of milk and cream per person. That's about 2½ times the U.S. consumption. Norway and Ireland are runners-up. Their citizens consume about 233 quarts of milk and cream per person annually.

Perfect Food

Of all the foods consumed by man, milk provides the greatest quantity and highest quality of food nutrients. It is for this reason that nutritionists have identified milk as "man's most nearly perfect food."

PART TIME OPPORTUNITIES

WITH BEELINE

Our rapid expansion has created need for a new part time shift. This shift will operate from midnight to 6 a.m., Monday thru Friday, starting September 7th.

If you're a housewife with school age children, you'll find these working hours will enable you to:

1) See your family off in the morning.
2) Be at home when your family returns from school and work.
3) Enjoy evenings with your family and see them all tucked away in bed before you leave for work.
4) Rest and relax during the day when things are quiet at home.

We need 40 women to pick orders, check orders, and pack orders. This is clean, light, interesting work that you can enjoy. Good pay, excellent working conditions, liberal employee discount, and other benefits. Age. 25-45.

Would You Enjoy Sales As A Career?

We find it easier to train an inexperienced man who has a strong desire to learn the sales profession, than to retrain a salesman from another field. We are a national organization in business almost 200 yrs., and interested in adding 2 men to the west suburban sales staff. We want young men with mature judgment, neat and personable, who enjoy meeting people and are able to take the initiative when required. We offer a guaranteed salary plus commission & fringe benefits if you meet our requirements. In Appreciation

IN MEMORIAM

Mother, the love that I still bear for you is your bouquet today, a love that cannot die dear, is in my heart to stay.

Loving son,
Arthur Johnson

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Alma Luerssen who passed away one year ago.
"While she lies in peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep."

Henry Luerssen
and family

Ottilie Kroll

Funeral services for Mrs. Ottilie Kroll, of 10 N. School St., Mount Prospect, were held at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 17, at Lauterburg & Oehler Funeral Home in Arlington Heights, the Rev. Roland M. Redder officiating. Interment was in St. John's Cemetery.

Mrs. Kroll was born March 1, 1891, in Lodz, Poland. She died Aug. 14 at the Aage Nelson House in Palatine, from a stroke.

She and her husband John, who preceded her in death, were former owners of Kroll Tailoring Shop in Mount Prospect for over 26 years.

She was also a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. L. Theresa Sears of Mount Prospect, and Mrs. Adelma Landmeier of Arlington Heights; three grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; and three brothers, Otto Adam of Arlington Heights, and Rudolph and Edmund Adam, both in Germany.

Dr. A. B. Magnus

Dr. Alexander B. Magnus, of Boynton Beach, Fla., a psychiatrist, who practiced in Arlington Heights from 1937 to 1940, died Aug. 11 at the age of 78.

Dr. Magnus was born in Latvia and came to the United States as a child, living in New York. He attended Loyola and Harvard Universities. He served as a major in the medical corps in World War II, and moved to Florida when he retired 15 years ago.

Funeral services were held Aug. 16 at Lauterburg & Oehler Funeral Home in Arlington Heights, with entombment in Memory Gardens Cemetery.

He leaves his wife, Mathilda; three sons, Alexander of Arlington Heights, Dr. Edward Magnus of Hinsdale and Daniel of Huntington, Long Island, N. Y.; and 10 grandchildren.

Mabel E. LaMarche

Mrs. Mabel E. LaMarche, of Long Grove, Ill., died Aug. 15 at Lake Forest Hospital after an illness of four months.

Mrs. LaMarche was employed for 18 years at Condell Memorial Hospital in Libertyville as a nurses aide.

She leaves her husband, August J.; two daughters, Mrs. Marilyn Laystrom of Glenview, and Mrs. Annette Beede of Libertyville; and three grandchildren. (A-15

Mrs. Frank E. Zinn

Elizabeth Shimerda Zinn, a resident of Arlington Heights from 1927 to 1964, died Aug. 1 at Champaign at the age of 85. Burial took place Aug. 4 at Oxford Junction, Iowa.

Lessons in English

Do not say, "He was in search for his books." Say, "in search of his books."

Do not write, "Please send the paper to me and I shall return same promptly." Say, "and I shall return it promptly."

Part is a more general word than portion, and means a fraction of a whole; as part of a story. Portion means strictly a part allotted or assigned to a particular person or purpose; as, "Your portion of the inheritance."

Distinguish between the adjective precedent (going before in time or order of arrangement) and the noun precedent (something done or said that may serve as an example for subsequent action). The adjective is pronounced pree-see-dent; accent on second syllable — and the noun is pronounced press-ee-dent, accent on first syllable.

Theatre Guild Begins Subscription Drive

The Des Plaines Theatre Guild is launching its 20th anniversary season with an intensive season subscription drive, according to the group's vice president, Mrs. Roy Zermain of Park Ridge.

Recently named chairman of the promotion, Mrs. Zermain was hostess Aug. 6 at a kick-off party held at the Guild Playhouse, 620 Lee St., in Des Plaines.

"The enthusiasm was gratifying," says Mrs. Zermain, "but that's what makes our group one of the oldest and most successful community theatres in the entire Chicago area. Our members sincerely believe that we offer the best entertainment value anywhere. They're proud of our high production standards, professional directors and fine selection of plays."

TENNESSEE WILLIAMS and George Bernard Shaw are two of the outstanding playwrights whose works have been selected for production during the coming season.

For rates and other ticket information, call Des Plaines Theatre Guild ticket manager Mrs. John Clark at 824-8019.

Guild Players Will Stage Melodrama

A story of a typical suburban family whose home is invaded and who are held captive by three escaped criminals will be presented by the Guild Players as their first play of the coming season.

"The Desperate Hours," a three-act play adapted by Joseph Hayes from his best-selling novel, differs from most theatrical thrillers in the extreme emotion generated in the audiences and in the well developed roles of the criminals who are portrayed as believable human beings.

"The Desperate Hours" won the Antoinette Perry Award in 1955 as the best play of the season on Broadway. At that time the play was described as "an almost perfect melodrama — fast, tight, logical, combining sentiment with gunfire in exactly the right proportions."

The Guild Players will hold readings Sunday and Monday evenings for the 11 male and three female roles in the play. These will be conducted at St. Peter's old school building on Schaumburg Road, just east of Roselle Road in Schaumburg, this next Sunday, at 7:30 p.m. Monday they will be held at 8 p.m.

Anyone interested in either on-stage or back-stage activities of an amateur community theater organization is invited to the readings. Additional information about the readings or the Guild Players can be obtained by calling TW 4-6720.

Indian Powwow At State Park

The 26th annual Indian Powwow will be hald at Blackhawk State Park in Rock Island over Labor Day weekend.

Nearly 100 Sauk and Fox Indians, some descendants of the famous Sauk warrior for whom the park was named, will perform ceremonial and tribe dances. These will be given at 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 4; at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 5 and at 8 p.m. Monday, Sept. 6.

PANDORA AND HER PUPPET friend Stage Door will appear live at a special children's show Tuesday at the Arlington Theater. The show will feature the Mulqueen puppets and the movie "Flipper."

Mulqueens, Puppets In Arlington Show

The Mulqueens, puppeteer stars of WGN-TV, will appear live in a special program for children at the Arlington Theatre next Tuesday.

The special show will also include a movie, "Flipper," starring Chuck Connors, gifts and prizes and an ice cream treat for everyone attending.

The two-hour show begins at 1:30 p.m. Doors ope at 12:45.

Tickets are on advance sale at the theatre box office and Besler's Ice Cream Shop, Arlington Market.

THE MULQUEENS and their puppet friends have a show of their own each Saturday at 9 a.m., Channel 9. Until recently they had been regulars on Bozo's Circus show, seen weekdays at noon.

Jac and Elaine Mulqueen are a Palatine couple. Mulqueen plays all the puppet characters, while his wife portrays a Peter Pan-type clown, Pandora.

Through the use of puppet characters they try to get across to children some sound advice in an entertaining way.

Opera Lecturer to Open Northwest Lyric Season

The northwest chapter of Lyric Opera is ready for its third fall season with a series of afternoon programs designed to foster a greater appreciation of opera and a better understanding of the operas being offered in the fall repertory in Chicago.

To open the fall program, the local chapter will present a professional lecturer and scholar who is in Chicago in September for a series of lectures planned in conjunction with the Lyric Committee on Education.

He is Byron Belt, director of fine and performing arts for the John F. Kennedy Cultural Center in Nassau, N. Y. Prior to his appointment to that position, he was artistic director of the Long Island Arts Center.

FROM 1956 UNTIL 1963, Belt was prominent in musical circles in the Chicago area where he was named by the Junior Association of Commerce and Industry as one of Chicago's outstanding young men, the first man in the arts to be so honored.

Belt will speak at Mount Prospect Country Club at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 15. His topic will be "Opera Heroines—Operatic Ladies on the Stage and Off." He also will discuss briefly some of the new operas in the Lyric 1965 repertory.

While Belt will be the most nationally famous artist on the program, the northwest chapter plans to offer its local talent in a program even fuller than last year. In addition to performances in the northwest suburbs, the local chapter, by request, repeated many operalogues last year for other Lyric groups in Chicagoland.

THE CHAPTER'S program committee has scheduled five operalogues for the fall season, designed to coincide with the operas being given at the Lyric Opera House in Chicago.

The first one will be produced by Beth Carr, Sept. 30, and it will be "Simon Boccanegral" Betty McLean will produce "Samson and Delilah," Oct. 10, and on Oct. 21, the operas "L'Heure Espagnole" and "Carmina Burana" will be presented by Winifred Nelson and Mimi Sutton. On Nov. 4, the operalogue will be "Rigoletto" and on Nov. 18, "Aida" with Kay Nighorn the producer.

Mrs. Richard Impy, president of the northwest chapter, said when the program was announced, "I am thrilled with the program and know that it will be as rewarding for the members as our program last year which saw its culmination in the operatic showcase performance of 'L'Opera Symphonique.'

"WE ARE fortunate, that we have most of the same talent to work with this year. However, we are always interested in finding new talent."

Membership is open to anyone in the Arlington Heights, Palatine, Lake Zurich and Barrington areas. (Bill

'Volpone' Is Final Play for Court Theatre

Ben Jonson's "Volpone" will close out the 11th season of Court Theatre at the University of Chicago.

Directed by James O'Reilly, who has worked with Village Theatre of Arlington Heights and other area theater groups, the play will run three weekends, starting tomorrow (Friday).

Play dates are Aug. 20-22, Aug. 26-29 and Sept. 2-5. Ticket information may be obtained by telephoning MI 3-0800, ext. 3581, or writing Court Theatre, 5706 S. University Ave., Chicago, 60637. (Bill

Horse Review

Medinah Black Horse Troop will present its 12th annual horse review at the Chicago Avenue Armory Sept. 17 through 19. The troop's highest-ranking official is Harold F. Keeling, 117 W. Main St., Bensenville.

'Flower Song' Is BOB's Fall Musical

It will be a Rodgers and Hammerstein year for Best-Off-Broadway Players, a community theatre group specializing in musical comedy productions.

The fall presentation will be "Flower Drum Song," while the spring offering will be "South Pacific." This will be the fifth season for the BOB Players.

Auditions for "Flower Drum Song" are scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 30 and 31, at 7:30 p.m. at Pioneer Park Fieldhouse, 500 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights.

DIRECTOR FOR THE show will be veteran Richard Tyler of Chicago, who guided the BOB Players through "Oklahoma," "Pajama Game" and the recent "Kiss Me Kate." Returning as musical director will be John Shaw, 1716 Basswood, Mount Prospect, and choreographer again will be Robert Wendt of Western Springs.

Director Tyler emphasizes that newcomers are urged to audition. The last production, "Kiss Me Kate," brought forth 18 new members on stage, including four in major roles, and seven working backstage. Not all roles in a musical call for singing chores, and the director is asking for actors as well as singers and dancers to attend tryouts.

"FLOWER DRUM Song" is set in the modern day Chinatown of San Francisco.

It is a warm-hearted play about the perplexing and often humorous differences existing among old country Chinese, Americans and Chinese-Americans.

Among the songs in the show are "I Enjoy Being a Girl," "Love Look Away," "Sunday," "You Are Beautiful," "A 100-Million Miracles," "Don't Marry Me" and "Chop Suey." This colorful musical will be presented in mid-November with rehearsals beginning in September.

For further information contact Lynn Jessen, 392-3190, or Wilma Gillogly, DU 1-3264.
